OAKLAND, CALIFORNIA, SUNDAY, MARCH 7, 1920

NOW that our heretofore sane set has gone in for esthetics, we can look forward to a variety of surprises and shocks. Already Yvonne DeWitt has eschewed stockings from her house costumes, and is flapping about her drawing room with nothing but a paper-thin pair of muscum sandals between her bare sole and the bare floor. You knew, of course, that she had all the wood ripped up from the first floor and mosaic work put in its place.

As Yvonne confided to me the day that her father threatened to put her out, because, as he said, she was doing her bally best to make a church out of the place he wanted to call home. "One simply cannot be the true esthete walking on a parquet floor."

I wanted most awfully to know if one could be that way seated on a Virginia sofa, or lying in a Louis XIV bed, but I didn't ask her; she was entirely too upset at the time. I merely suggested that she might possibly be able to win Dad over by inveigling him into taking up Greek dancing himself. Somehow, tho, the idea didn't seem to impress her.

By the way, Yvonne tells me that the dance is doing perfect wonders for her ankles. And do you know, I've been hearing the same thing from several who've been encountering her on the Avenue these days.

Here Are Rules for Submitting Scenarios for Expert Criticism and for Getting Answers to Questions About Playwriting

John Emerson and Anita Loos will read and criticize motion picture plots written by readers of the OAKLAND TRIBUNE free of cost, provided they are condensed into a 300-word synopsis and are written on one side of the paper, preferably by typewriter. Send the plot to the Motion Picture Editor of The OAKLAND TRIBUNE with a self-addressed, stamped envelope for the return of your manuscript. The story will be returned direct to you from the Emerson-Loos New York offices in the self-addressed envelope. Their opinion of your story, and its chances for sale, together with advice on reconstructing the story (if necessary) will be printed in these columns, but the author's name will not be mentioned unless desired. Writers desiring personal advice will be answered also in these columns, provided they send their questions, one at a time, to The TRIBUNE. The questions will be forwarded to the Emerson-Loos offices and their answers will be printed in these columns.

Bushman and Wife Quit; Son Enters

By JAY BALFOUR
HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 6.—Film fans, prepare to worship a new screen idol. He's none other than Ralph Bushman, eldest son of the famous Francis X. Bushman, once the adored of the feminine fanatics—the man of the family "is said, now that the family is irrevocably split by divorce decree and the remarriage of the elder Bushman to his co-star, Beverly Bayne.

The announced retirement of Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne, from pictures, created some excitement in motion picture circles on the west coast. Bushman recently played a stage engagement in Los Angeles and it was after a conference with various producers, that he really decided to make his exit from movieland.

SON'S DEBUT SOON
Ralph's debut will be made as a featured player in Christie pictures. A few days after he reached here and immediately offered him a contract, so impressed was he with the young man's appearance. It is likely that he will have an important part in the five-reel comedy drama program of the Christies.

Young Bushman is yet on the sunny side of twenty, but he is nearly as tall as his father. He is a handsome young man, with a good head, he says. Those who claim to be authorities on masculine beauty asseverate that his father was never so handsome as young Bushman is now. His screen experience consists of having played several "kid" parts while his father was at Essanay, a half dozen years ago.

It is the hope of young Bushman to get a good start in pictures and then send for his mother, to whom he is greatly devoted. If she comes west she will bring the other children, three girls and a boy. Bushman is just out of school, having spent several years at the Staunton Military Academy in Virginia.

AN INCE BONER
Of course, no one in the film business or out of it is immune from bonhead plays. Anyone is liable to make one. Tom Ince's prize boner was letting Mary Pickford direct. He had directed "Twenty-three and a Half Hours' Leave." Of course, there was no way of knowing that the picture was going to be a knock-out. It seems that Ince took considerably more time in making the picture than was allotted him, and when he got through with it they shipped him the blue envelope, or whatever they said it was, when they received it. Then the Mary Pickford photograph was released, and in the parlance of the verse poets it "knocked 'em down." Ince then got to work at a big increase in salary after that but there was nothing doing.

Two Endings to Metro Production

In releasing "The Right of Way" Metro gave exhibitors a choice of endings to the story. There are two versions of the final episode, both convincing and dramatic, but one "happy" and the other "unhappy." The unhappy ending finds the hero, Charley Steele, once a criminal and a double-crosser, dying in the little French-Canadian settlement of Chandlere in defense of money belonging to the church he never attended. This follows closely the plot of the original novel. The happy ending is not the reverse of this, but a compromise, showing as it does Steele and the devoted Jo Potugues going off together in the woods in the hope of straightening out the struggle of belief against doubt within their hearts and minds.

Exhibitors declare that some audiences, no matter what are the artistic demands of a story do not like a tragic outcome, preferring the conventional fortunate solution. At the same time, Metro could not go far in distorting this masterpiece of Sir Gilbert Parker's as to have it fatally contradictory to the novel.

DOUBLE DIRECTORS

The motion picture world will watch with interest the outcome of a unique experiment that is to be tried by the Andrew J. Cullahan Company in making the new Bessie Love independent production, "Miss Love." It is a costly experiment, for the combined salaries of Mr. De Grasse and Miss Park—who, by the way, are husband and wife, and formerly were on the stage together—call for an outlay on this item of production that has never been expended on any other star.

SCOTCHES PERSISTENT RUMOR
Frank Kemmner's director, John Howe, says there is no foundation for the persistent rumor that blonde are going out of fashion on the screen. "As long as real life coffee and other people's feet, not to mention beverages of the past age," says Howe, "audiences will like screen blondes as well as screen brunettes, and the perfume manufacturers will continue to make a living."

Bessie Love's first offering under her new contract will be "The Midlanders."

Clara Du Brul, screen dancer and actress, has been added to the Bruns Photoplay forces.

Peggy Hyland has made a hit with her new film, "G. B. Samuelson, eminent British producer."

Priscilla Dean is planning a short vacation in New York City.

Millionaires' Homes to Be in Films

Von M. Zimmermann, formerly director of locations for the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, who is now acting in the same capacity for Marshall Neilan Productions, is busily engaged in aiding the organization and outlining the plans of the Assistant's League, which is composed of many of the most prominent women of Los Angeles and vicinity. The object of the league, of which Mrs. Ilanocch Banning, originator of the idea, is chairman, is to permit the use of various millionaires' residences for the making of motion pictures, the revenue derived therefrom to be turned over to charity.

Luck Plays Big Part in Film Success

By BRYANT WASHBURN
(Famous Players-Lasky Star)
There was a time when the motion picture actress' one requirement was good looks. If she were beautiful she needed nothing else. And to some extent the actor was judged by the same standard. If he were good to look upon—in a virile, masculine way, of course—nothing more was asked.

Today two other requirements come first. They are ability and sincerity. To be sure, looks count for something, but not for everything. The actor who is really an actor, who is capable and sincere in his work, will succeed.

Motion pictures offer many heart-breaking disappointments—just as they furnish sudden happiness. Chance apparent failure to sensational success over night and offer reward beyond the limits of once imagination—and just at a time when reward seems out of the question.

I recall a very charming girl who started as an extra in one of my pictures. In the next picture she had "a bit." She was a beautiful girl, with an unusually sweet and attractive personality. She did such remarkable work in her "bit" that in my very next picture she was se-

Who's Who in Scenario Game

Anita Loos is dean of the new school of photoplay writing and her collaborator in producing the famous Emerson-Loos photodramas is John Emerson, veteran dramatist of the spoken stage.

They were married last fall, but Mrs. Emerson still clings to the name she has made famous—Anita Loos.

A pioneer in photoplay writing, she has written the most famous of the Douglas Fairbanks pictures, and is now at work with Emerson upon the new Constance Talmadge dramas. Five years ago Emerson left the spoken stage to specialize in picture play craftsmanship, after a notable career as a Broadway actor, director and playwright.

"Down to Earth," "His Picture in the Papers," "Reaching for the Moon," with Douglas Fairbanks, and more recently "A Temperamental Wife," "A Virtuous Vamp" and "Two Weeks," with Constance Talmadge, are among the Emerson-Loos productions which have become celebrated in filmdom.

Emerson and Loos are regarded as the highest authorities on scenario writing today. They are masters of technique, continuity and satire.

Mabel Van Buren's Daughter in Film

Doesn't it almost take your breath away to learn that Mabel Van Buren, who played the lead in "The Girl of the Golden West," and a lot of other Paramount pictures a couple of years ago, has a daughter grown-up enough to be Frank Keenan's leading woman in "Smoldering Embers"?

She's her mother's own daughter, too, with talent, beauty, charm and poise. Her name is Katherine and her role in Keenan's newest Pathé production is that of Beth Stanford, a Cobbler's daughter, who loves and is loved by the stepson of the town's most prominent citizen.

The mother-daughter picture "Embers" is being produced by the Bruns Photoplay forces.

MARY TO TRAVEL
Mary Pickford is planning an extensive trip upon the completion of the picture on which she is now working, "Op o' My Thumb."

In London she will be the personal guest of Lord Northcliffe.

Picture Personalities

Neva Gerber is 21.

Nazimova is 5 feet 11.

Doris Kenyon was born in St. Louis in 1897.

James Young is directing Elsie Janis for Selznick.

Margaret Shelby, sister of Mary Miles Minter, will appear in support of that popular little star.

Dustin Farnum hereafter will be billed as a Louis J. Gasnier star.

Louise Glauin is in New York purchasing gowns and other things.

Hughie Mack and Dot Farley are appearing in Via Moore comedies.

Wheeler Oakman has been engaged to play opposite Annette Kerrman.

Henry Walthall will head his own picture company in the near future.

Low Cody has acquired a financial interest in an aeroplane enterprise.

Bessie Love's first offering under her new contract will be "The Midlanders."

Clara Du Brul, screen dancer and actress, has been added to the Bruns Photoplay forces.

Typewriter and Picture Theatres Amateur's Best Aids in Scenario Writing

CHAPTER II.

"Tools and Trades"

By JOHN EMERSON AND ANITA LOOS

(Deans of the Photoplay Writing Profession, who are now collaborating on the Constance Talmadge Pictures.)

To be successful, the scenario writer must have the proper tools with which to ply his trade, but machines that manufacture plots are not to be recommended.

The brain is the only instrument that can successfully perform such a feat, although it may be greatly assisted by certain mechanical devices.

Tools of paramount importance to the writer include typewriter, reference books, trade magazines, fan publications and above all the local theater.

There is a tremendous amount of humdrum about in this world about the necessity of possessing professional instruments. Advertising campaigns on the part of manufacturers of these articles, but propaganda along so that neophytes in any vocation feel that they would fall at the start without purchasing a complete outfit of "tools of the trade." The fact that the trade requires little in the way of tools does not prevent enterprising merchants from inventing them.

"MACHINE PLOTS"
Recently the invention of an automatic plot manufacturing machine was announced. The affair consisted of rotating discs with words about the rim—nouns on one disc, verbs on another, adjectives on a third, and so forth. The plot seeker would give the discs a whirl, and presently, when the rotation had ceased, words would appear in the slots in the cover, and there would be a complete plot.

It is not as easy as that. There are no handy plot machines in the scenario writing business. Nor do patent pencils or handy idea charts bring any advantage. No necessity for such devices was found in our preparation of the scenarios for "A Temperamental Wife," "Two Weeks" and "A Virtuous Vamp," starring Constance Talmadge. In fact, the only device necessary for the scenario writer is a pen and paper.

While on the subject of the bare mechanics of writing, it is well to answer the much mooted question, "Where to find ideas?" It is probably the most important moot in the scenario game.

PLOT-GERMS EVERYWHERE
Plot-germs are everywhere. The newspapers form a great source of inspiration. Current movements, such as Bolshevism, spiritualism, militarism, and socialism, form the basis for hundreds of plots. Indeed, no sooner has some striking incident—such as a murder or divorce case—become sufficiently advertised on the front page than scenario departments find themselves besieged with plots based on this theme. There was an era of war stories and then of peace stories. Bolshevism came and went, and the modern pictures are the great labor strike is now threatening to swamp scenario offices.

Standard works of fiction—we mean the real old-fashioned classics—never fail as a source of inspiration. This does not mean that a form of denatured plagiarism is advised. Reading the great novels and the great plays and great poems, and the modern pictures are well out of the routine class.

Keep yourself informed of what has already been done so that you will know an original idea when it comes along.

Keep a diary or at least some form of a notebook. Clever ideas do not remain long in the human memory. They flash upon you just before you go to bed, or in the bathtub or at other inconvenient times. They flash away with the same irresponsible ease. Never lose a minute in putting that original idea down in the written word. Be sure you have a stock of ideas on hand.

REFERENCE BOOKS
Reference books include a standard dictionary, a studio directory, a thesaurus, and any similar literary aid, such as books of epigrams, familiar proverbs or well known facts. Trade magazines should be read. Only through trade papers can you follow the ever-changing market for scenarios and keep in touch with the work of your contemporaries. Subscription to at least one of the larger trade magazines and one of the "fun" magazines is desirable. Your local magazine dealer will advise you on this. Try to analyze them and get the most out of them. In addition, for those actually engaged in the motion picture industry, including scenario writers, and contain reports of producing companies, on their needs, the story field, talent, and the public taste. For the addition of those who wish to be particularly up to the minute there is a daily paper published in New York covering all activities in the motion picture game.

ATTEND THE THEATER
Your local motion picture theater is indeed your greatest "tool." You should attend motion pictures regularly, see as many as possible, and think about them after seeing them. Try to analyze them and get the most out of them. In addition, for those actually engaged in the motion picture industry, including scenario writers, and contain reports of producing companies, on their needs, the story field, talent, and the public taste. For the addition of those who wish to be particularly up to the minute there is a daily paper published in New York covering all activities in the motion picture game.

UNNECESSARY LUXURIES
There are scenario offices which make an elaborate show of machinery, projection rooms and the like, amid which the staff writers work. Some of these offices are successful. Some are not. When you are a successful writer, however, you will doubtless have your own projection room where the films you write are thrown on the screen for your criticism.

But when you read of scenario writers who employ stringed orchestras for inspiration and have miniature models built of their scenarios, and devote desks to represent actors, cherubs, and present agents, above all things the scenario writer should keep alive. Just keep yourself with lively, laughing, thinking people, think about things you see, and cultivate a respect for the ideas of any kind. Take care these small ideas and the big plot will take care of themselves.

In the third chapter, which will be published next Sunday, John Emerson and Anita Loos tell what they consider the most important things a scenario writer has to do to get his story into the hands of the public.

They also emphasize the importance of dramatic punch in a story and the necessity of a successful plot. It is probable that the most important thing a scenario writer should do is to keep himself with lively, laughing, thinking people, think about things you see, and cultivate a respect for the ideas of any kind. Take care these small ideas and the big plot will take care of themselves.

AUNT ELSIE'S LETTERS

TO HER KIDDIES

LIDA BROWN.
Box 133, Stockton, Cal.
Dear Aunt Elsie—Here is a new chum. Here is a story. Once long ago there was a large tree which the children used to climb. One evening a man was trudging along when he saw the tree. Thinking it was a nice place he lay down and was soon asleep. When he awoke it was still dark. He was surrounded by ghosts! He opened his valise and took out a sheet and wrapped himself in it. He then slipped among the ghosts without being noticed and ran home and told everyone about the tree.

ANITA HEINEN.
1817 Canyon, Oakland.
Dear Aunt Elsie—Here are two giggly jokes from the "Rural World". Why is a lame dog like a boy adding 6 and 7? Because he puts down three and carries one. What is the difference between a tailor and a jeweler? One watches cells and the other sells watches.

GIGGLY GIGGLES.
47 Echo Ave., Oakland.
Dear Aunt Elsie—Here are our page and all the stories. I want to be a chum. I will send you some stories soon. I have a GRIN, so I hope I will be admitted.

HELEN LEE PRICE (8 Years).

This little sweetheart is a new chum to you, but an old and expertly precious chum to your Aunt Elsie. I would be so glad if lots of my kiddies would like to her.

Dear Aunt Elsie—Here is a true ghost story. Next door my school there is an old house which is vacant. One day two of my friends went into the house. While they were there they saw a man slip behind the door. He had raised clothes on. Another day another girl saw the same thing. Sometimes we have seen men at the window—and sometimes we saw little birds flying in and out of the window. We all thought that was a sign. Lots of times we saw searchlights and men carrying lights. And we have heard strange noises. My father thinks they are tramps and so does mother, and so do sister and I.

Dear Aunt Elsie—Here is a true ghost story. Next door my school there is an old house which is vacant. One day two of my friends went into the house. While they were there they saw a man slip behind the door. He had raised clothes on. Another day another girl saw the same thing. Sometimes we have seen men at the window—and sometimes we saw little birds flying in and out of the window. We all thought that was a sign. Lots of times we saw searchlights and men carrying lights. And we have heard strange noises. My father thinks they are tramps and so does mother, and so do sister and I.

so beautiful. One day as she was going to the well for water something tapped her on the shoulder. She looked around, but could see no one. When she got to the well something tapped her again.

"Where are you?" she cried. "I am—on your shoulder," said a voice. "Do not be afraid. I was once a slave, but now I am free and will get you free from carrying water."

But the girl laughed and said: "I am not a slave, but work willingly." THELMA HURST.

THE SUNSET FAIRIES.
One evening as the sun was setting there was a long velvet carpet of clouds. Among the clouds little lights sparkled. What do you think they were? They were sunset fairies dancing and singing and laughing. They were dressed in long purple dresses with large white stars on their foreheads.

Each night, while all the children were in slumberland, the sunset fairies went to the woods to play. One day while they were in the woods they heard footsteps. They looked about, but could not see any one. Afterward they found a little baby lying on a carpet of green moss.

When the baby saw the fairies it kicked its little feet and laughed. The fairy queen took the baby in her arms and kissed its tiny cheeks. She then flew to her palace and gave it some clothes and put it to bed. In the morning the baby was named Sunshine. It has grown to be quite a fairy.

He never tried to chase a mouse again.

GERRY MAKINGS

You're going to have a paper doll today that is a paper doll. Every week letters come in asking me to tell you girls what sort of dresses to wear this spring. So instead of just giving you a paper doll I'm going to give you little LILLY TRIBUNE. Miss Tilly Tribune is a very fashionable young person. I do assure you. Her clothes are the very latest things in San Francisco and Aunt Elsie took the designs for most of them out of the best fashion magazines. You can have lots of fun dressing her up—and mother can have just as much fun copying some of the ideas in your spring outfit, for they are really the styles that the best dressed young girls will be wearing everywhere.

And right here your Auntie Giggles is going to give you a tiny talk on style. I don't believe a real little girl ever lived who did not long for pretty dresses in which to look like a queen. And HOWLED if she couldn't have them. So you see I know all about it. I love them still. But do you know what is the most important thing about BEAUTIFUL DRESSING for a woman or a little girl? It isn't silk or satin or gold lace. It isn't lots of dancing gowns. It's a CASE OF SOAP. The girl who isn't spotlessly clean isn't well dressed even if she paid $1000 for her gown. And next to a cake of soap it means—BUTTER AND HOOKS SEWED ON. So you see, some of the most important things about looking well anyone can have, even if they haven't many pennies.

And when you're quite sure that you are as sweet and shiny as a daffodil from top to toe, and quite sure that every button and hook is in place, the only other rule to remember is to DRESS LIKE THE DAILY FODDIE. Not in fancy silly things—but in the simple, dainty clothes that show off little girl flowers. Love the Red Sea what would it become? Wet.

WILD FLOWERS OF CALIFORNIA

This is the third of the Bertha M. Rice series on the wild flowers of California. The two preceding installments were on the Wild Lilac and the Lupine. When completed the series will make a valuable collection of articles for the scrap-book.

The Golden Poppy (Eschscholzia Californica Sh.)

OUR STATE FLOWER. The California or Golden Poppy is our state flower, adopted as such by the California legislature in 1903. A more appropriate choice could hardly have been made, for this wonderful glowing poppy symbolizes in a striking manner the Golden State—its golden traditions, its golden flower fields and its sunny climate. And then also the flower was born on these shores, and it may always be found blooming in some portion of the state on any day throughout the year.

In early days thousands upon thousands of acres of these matchless, shimmering "Fire Flowers," as certain tribes of Indians called them, were massed at the feet of Mount Wilson and Mount Lowe. Their brilliant gleaming could be distinguished far out at sea, a certain indication that the mariner was opposite the mission landings. The term "Cape Las Flores," as applied to these wild poppy fields by the Spanish navigators, is said to have originated with Captain's sailors in 1592. But there is no real authority for this statement.

A FAMOUS FLOWER. The flower is at its brilliant best from February until June, and a field of these burnished blossoms shimmering in the sunlight, billowing gracefully with every vagrant breeze that blows, forms a picture that beggars description and one that haunts the memory ever afterward with visions of golden glory. No other blossom has been so sung, so painted, described, or written about, or is so rich in historic incident as the California Poppy. But it is yet unyielding to the satisfaction of poets and no painter can ever hope to catch the tender, elusive charm of its sunny petals.

The California Poppy is quite extensively cultivated in the East and in Europe. It is a favorite in Germany, England and France. It may be found growing to some extent east of the Sierra Nevada mountains as far as Utah, and southward to the state of Sonora, in Mexico. It also is found in Oregon and Washington; but the plant is never so beautiful or fine outside of the borders of California.

"GREAT SPIRIT" FLOWER. Indians had many superstitions regarding the flower. One was that a nursing mother must not touch, nor allow her infant to touch, its glowing petals or the milk would dry in the mother's breast. To certain tribes of Indians this blossom was a sacred object. The early Spaniards had many quaint and appropriate names for the blossom—among them were "Dormidera" (the sleepy one), "Copa de Oro" (cup of gold) and "La Anipola" (the poppy). They also steeped its leaves in bear oil or olive oil to make a tonic for their hair, which they claimed produced a wonderful growth and imparted a peculiar lustre. The Indians used the leaves of the young plants to some extent for food. The plant has also been used medicinally.

Some botanists claim that there are more than 100 varieties of the California poppy in the state, and then it has a host of attractive relatives; but the Golden Poppy varies somewhat in size and color, being paler or richer, according to the season, or the locality in which it grows.

ITS DISCOVERY. Its discovery to the botanical world was a most interesting incident. In 1815, Count Romanzoff of Russia, surgeon and naturalist, and a youth sent by the name of Choris, the artist, expedition under the command of Otto von Kotzebue, to find, if possible, a passage north of America, connecting the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. A group of enthusiastic young scientists accompanied the expedition, including Adelbert von Chamisso, poet, author and naturalist, Dr. John Frederick Eschscholtz, a German

THE GOLDEN POPPY AND A TYPICAL CALIFORNIA POPPY FIELD

Legend of California Poppy

The goddess Flora and Zephyrus, the god of the west wind, were devoted friends. He told her of the many beauties of a far-off land bordering on a mighty ocean. Flora, much interested, conceived the idea of creating a flower to carpet this favored land. It should have a touch of originality. She would make a golden cup, with material borrowed from the sunset sky. Its skirts should be the green shades of the mighty billows which lapped this western shore. The gods would endow it with virtues. Morpheus would give to it the gift of imparting sleep. To its foliage Venus would give the gift of restoring the hair of mortals, making it beautiful, and it should bear a seed so small that the wind would scatter it all over the hills and valleys, covering them with a carpet of gold.

God's Gold.

By JOAQUIN MILLER.

This Golden Poppy is God's gold; The gold that lifts, nor weighs us down, The gold that knows no miser's hold, The gold that banks not in the town, But careless, laughing, freely spills Its gold far up the happy hills—Far up, far down, at every turn—What beggar hath not gold to burn?

California Sh. is at Harvard University. Chamisso, the botanist, was a French nobleman by birth. He had won fame as the author of an unusual story, since translated into several languages, entitled "Peter Schlemihl," an amusing tale of a man who sold his shadow. It was this group of distinguished men who first sent specimens, notes and drawings of the California poppy to Europe. But it was not until 1820 that Chamisso published a detailed account of the flower which he had named Eschscholtzia in honor of his friend, and California after the land of its birth. This account was first published in Madrid, Spain.

Graduates Entertained by Mothers' Club

The fifty-two graduates of the Elmhurst School were entertained at Redmen's Hall by the Mothers' Club. The invitations were extended to parents and friends of the graduates, and mothers of the club. The hall was beautifully decorated by the club in the class colors. There were about three hundred present. A program was given by the class and school officers.

He "Made Good"

Once upon a time there was a little boy who lost both his father and mother and had no relatives or home. He had only two dollars in his pockets and with that he started his way on a canal boat from Washington to the Blue Ridge Mountains. There he went to work for a driver who paid him five dollars a month. Being only ten years old when he went to work he stayed with this driver until he was twenty years old. Because he was a boy who loved books, he studied very hard and with what he learned in the cattle trade he started out on his own way and became one of the great cattle kings of the west.

King Mountain Has Many Caves

In Marin county on King Mountain there are many caves. Some are caves supposed to have been dug by men who were searching the mountain for copper. In other places there are caves which are full of slate. From one cave there is water running so fast that it pushes great quantities of slate down in a gully. When I last saw this one it was very pretty because ferns and maidenhair had grown in and around it. There are also caves dug by men that have been boarded up in front so the dirt won't run down. These caves are for deer.

Miss Buckley at Columbia

Miss Elizabeth Buckley, who has just returned from Columbia, is an interesting tale. But to Californians this beautiful blossom will always be simply the Golden or California Poppy. After all, it is not the people the best judges of what a flower should be called—a flower so endeared to them by memories of home and by its sunny friendly presence everywhere throughout the length and breadth of the Golden State.

In a February number of Collier's Weekly, 1910, Caspar Whitney depicts the gradual disappearance of the California Poppy fields which ten years before that date he describes as being so superlatively beautiful, particularly in the southern part of the state, before "tourists began pulling them up by the roots."

He goes on to say that: "So ravished are these once joyously laden fields that now one might actually seek them as one looks for big trees in certain sequestered spots. Californians should enact laws protecting its remaining poppies; because to get a sight of these fields is a privilege, and a traveler to the coast and California's natural beauties are assets which the Californians will be wise in safeguarding against foreign vandalism and native sluttiness."

Golbert Describes Car

The little automobile I got for Christmas has a blue top. The wheels are made of tin. It has a glass window at the front and has a man in it. It is five inches long and three inches wide. It is red, white and blue. It goes to the kitchen and comes back to me. The name of the automobile is a bakery automobile.

January Class Gives Loom to School

The graduating class of January, 1920, wishing to show their appreciation to the Elmhurst School, gave an entertainment which was followed by a dance on January 3. The purpose of this entertainment was to raise money for a gift to the school. The hall was decorated with the class colors—old rose and green.

The entertainment was composed of singing and piano solos after which followed a shadow play. The sale of punch was large on account of the immense crowd. They also checked hats and $5.37 was cleared.

The class decided to buy the school a loom and they have chosen to use it in their different classes. Things can be made for the school and for the home.

The evening was enjoyed immensely by all who attended. Mr. Campbell, Miss Winfield, Miss Bryant and Miss Beach acted as chaperones.

School Gets Museum

Under the leadership of Walter Whitty, Luez Nicholson, Edna Senger, Raymond Fisher and Steve Porcella a museum has been started for the benefit of the Elmhurst School. These pupils have graduated now, but their work will be carried on by a delegation from the lower classes, when they have gone.

In our exhibition we had several articles on display. These articles belonged to the Oakland museum. In the near future we intend to have things on display that belong to us.

We have started this in order to keep up a school spirit without which a school can hardly get along.

Junior Red Cross

The Junior Red Cross is always ready to receive clothes, paper, tin-foil and other articles worth while to be sold. During the last fourteen school days 7000 articles have been handled during January 12 to 18. Elmhurst School is a center of the Junior Red Cross. Anyone having any articles may bring them to the school.

The Domestic Science classes are making clothes for the Junior Red Cross. We will appreciate any articles you have to give.

MRS. DE VERE SPEAKS.

Mr. De Vere, from the Oakland museum, came out to the Elmhurst School and told the 7-A and 7-B some very interesting things about the Colonial times. There was a whole mission. The room they were in with each picture on the screen.

Mission San Jose

One day some of my relatives and I went to Mission San Jose. The mission was founded by the early Spaniards for the purpose of Christianizing the Indians, but was used for a fort when the Indians would attack them.

The mission is built of mud, bricks and the ceiling inside and on the porch is made of small branches of trees put together with mud. There is very little ceiling left on the porch.

In the inside there is very little furniture. There is a small cannon which was used to fire upon the Indians. There is a large glass case containing holy statues and holy things used by the early Spaniards. There are about six of them in the whole mission. The room they were in is in the middle of the mission.

In the mission yards there is a small cemetery in which the early Spaniards were buried.

Boy Traps Possum Near Santa Cruz

Last July when I was in the Santa Cruz mountains trapping I had the honor of trapping a possum.

One dark morning when I was alone along the track I saw a large number of squirrels running about and they were not slow in doing so. I crept up as close as I could to them because they were so frightened.

I then decided to go trapping instead of fishing. I turned back and went to the creek and set my traps. After reaching home I went down town and bought a double spring trap and some bacon. I set my trap where no one could see it. Next morning I started on my way up the track, turned to the right and walked straight to my trap. Crash! Crash! Crash! I came tearing out like a wild man from the jungles. I was afraid to go back, but I changed my mind and walked straight in.

I then saw Mr. Possum with his legs held fast in the trap. He had just gotten his full growth and was as big as my legs would take me. A smile came over my face and I reached down to take him out of the trap. He bit my little finger as hard as he possibly could. I almost cried but what kind of a trapper would cry over a possum bite? I straightened up and took hold of the chain and put him in my sister's

Athletes to Fremont

Four basketball players from Elmhurst are on the 100-pound team of Fremont high. Their names are Clifford Prest, Leslie Keating, Albert Simone and Theodore Hayden. The first three graduated in the January '20 class. Hayden graduated January '19.

In the unlimited team Joe Prelli and Luther Jordan both graduated from Elmhurst.

Prosperous American Farmers

American farmers have just completed the most prosperous business year in our history. The agriculture department reports the estimated value of the 1919 crop as $24,832,000,000, an increase of over two billion of last year.

Each of the 6,000,000 farms in the country averaged $4,000,000. It is five times the amount necessary to run all the departments of the government for one year.

The value of the large crop is immense. What is left over after feeding the people at home will be shipped abroad to the starving millions in Europe.

Durant Field Described by Student

"Chiff" Durant is the owner of a seventy-five-acre aeroplane landing field. It is located about one and one-half miles northwest of our school. He makes a daily flight to Marin county. He also takes people up from the field who are eager for the experience of flying.

He has several instructors on his payroll. One, Lieutenant Pickup, succeeded in landing on Clay street in Oakland. He ran into a lamp post and slightly damaged the plane. It could not fly back to the field.

Once upon a time a fox said, "I am poor. I need some food." So he planned some apples. The rabbit came to the garden and took the apples.

The Dog and His Shadow

Once upon a time there was a dog. He was crossing a bridge and he had a bone in his mouth. He looked in the water and saw another dog with a bigger piece of bone than he had. He was kind of stupid and he lost his fish.

We got home just in time for our supper. We had a good sleep that night because we were tired from walking.

Philip Enjoys Panama

When we lived in Panama my brother and I had the best times in our lives. My father worked at the canal for the United States government.

Near our house were many holes in the ground. We used to put dead rats on the sides of them then run and look at them. When I last came out and drag the rats around to see if they were alive. When they went off to look for food we would play tricks on them by fixing the mission. The room they were in returned and tried to get into them the traps would not let them. They would struggle and try to get loose and we would tease them some more by tying them on their tails and jerking them up when they thought they were free. They would stick out their tongues and hiss at us.

When it was so hot we could not play any more we went to the lake to swim. All around the banks was sugar cane. We used to cut down some stalks to eat. They were so sweet and juicy. Many times we lost our way wandering through these jungles.

The Blessings of Poverty

If there is anything in the world a young man should be more grateful for more than anything else it is the poverty which the poor man has. Under great disadvantages, poverty is one of the best tests of a young man's ability for existence. A triumph over it is like graduating from college. It shows what kind of a man the young man is made of. It shows whether he has power to do things or not. It is a diploma of honest labor faithfully performed. A young man who cannot pass this test of ability is not worth anything. If you are poor, thank God and take advantage of the fact for He intends to give you a chance to make something of yourself. If you have plenty of money a chance to make something of yourself is not worth anything. If you have a lot of money, you can't make anything of it. You can't make anything of it. You can't make anything of it.

time of it myself, just let me tell you. "But mama, dear, you've got the size wrong you've met on the boat. Mrs. Kron and Mrs. Lipp and all of them."

"With the right kind of a young man not one word would I say to the good time you have. You alone by yourself every night at 9 o'clock and who has got in his head eyes what I wouldn't trust so far as from here to China."

"That just shows, mama, how little you know about things. If there's one thing he has got, it's eyes, grand, black eyes anybody would notice."

"Always, Esther, a person's eyes are like looking-glasses what tell the truth about him. Right through the eyes of a girl I can see just like a mirror, grand eyes or eyes not so grand."

"You've just not to quit calling him a girl like that, mama. Who is it I'd like to know but papa drag him down stairs every night I'd like to know? What's his name?"

"Tonight, Esther, your papa didn't tell you. He just shows, mama, how little you know about things. If there's one thing he has got, it's eyes, grand, black eyes anybody would notice."

"Always like I used to say to your brother Mike, when he was yet in everybody to help us around in Paris, where you got to be so careful they say, you don't get cheated, eh? Next to Michelle himself, nothing could give papa so much pleasure as to see all of my things, with us. Here, baby, right here is the silver ring. Run down once and see if you can find it. I got over the way you keep at me. Please, mama, let me see your things. All right, Esther, I let them alone. Your old mother only wishes you'd let me see them. I let them alone. Right back in my bag goes the silver key-ring. I'll let you alone."

"That's what I want you to do." "I tell you, Esther, this pain what I got over my heart yesterday and today ain't for nothing. I tell you the excitement when you nearly missed the boat this afternoon, and for a mother to see all of a sudden her baby begin nonsense with a ring from Chicago what nobody don't know nothing about, except what he brings himself is enough to give heart failure. Better we had stayed right at him."

"Oh, mama, I just got to like my tongue to hold in. That's how mad I was. Off into the room where I got over my heart yesterday and today ain't for nothing. I tell you the excitement when you nearly missed the boat this afternoon, and for a mother to see all of a sudden her baby begin nonsense with a ring from Chicago what nobody don't know nothing about, except what he brings himself is enough to give heart failure. THE MARCH WIND DID BLOW, BUT IT DIDN'T BRING SNOW. BUT TOOK UNCLE WIGGILY WHERE HE WANTED TO GO. OH, HO!

Text by HOWARD R. GARIS
Author of the Famous UNCLE WIGGILY BEDTIME STORIES

"Where are you going, Uncle Wiggily?" asked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy one day, as she saw the bunny rabbit gentleman starting out from his hollow stump bungalow. "I am going to see my friend Grandpa Goosey Gander. Don't you want to come with me?" The muskrat lady housekeeper said she had no time. "Thank you, though. And Uncle Wiggily, it looks as if it might rain. You had better take your umbrella." Uncle Wiggily said he would. "I will take it," he said, "but I hardly think I will need it."

All of a sudden, as Uncle Wiggily was walking along the woodland path, the March wind gave a big puff and a blow and blew the bunny's tall silk hat off. "Whoa, there! Whoa, if you please! Back up!" cried Mr. Longears to his hat. But the hat rolled along the ground, and the bunny rabbit gentleman chased after it with his umbrella. Then along came Curly Twistytail, the good little piggy boy. "I'll get your hat for you, Uncle Wiggily," grunted Curly. "I used to play on a baseball nine. I'll stop your hat."

"Here is your hat, Uncle Wiggily!" said Curly politely, catching the tall, silk hat as it rolled past him. "You had better put it on, or you may take cold and have to soak your paws in hot water again." Uncle Wiggily reached out his paw to take his hat, holding to his trusty umbrella with the other paw. And, just then, as true as I'm telling you, the March wind gave another big puff and blow, and began to blow the bunny rabbit gentleman's umbrella open. "Oh, Uncle Wiggily! Look out!" cried Curly.

No sooner had Curly told Uncle Wiggily to look out, and be careful, than the March wind gave a harder puff than ever and blew the bunny gentleman's umbrella wide open. The umbrella, being like the sail on a boat, lifted Uncle Wiggily right up off the ground. "Oh, hold me down, Curly! Hold me down!" cried the bunny uncle. "I will!" grunted the piggy boy. He caught hold of Uncle Wiggily's left leg, but the wind blew still stronger and lifted Curly up also. So the rabbit gentleman and the piggy boy were blown along.

All of a sudden, as Curly and Uncle Wiggily were being blown along, the piggy boy looked ahead and saw Billie Wagtail, the goat chap. "Oh, Uncle Wiggily!" cried Curly. "There's Billie the goat! Maybe he can stop us from being blown away!" Uncle Wiggily said he hoped so. And, as he and Curly were blown nearer and nearer the goat chap, the bunny cried: "Grab hold of us and pull us down, Billie!" The goat boy bleated: "Baa-a-a! Baa-a-a! I'll try!" He caught hold of Uncle Wiggily's leg. Billie was blown along, also.

The March wind blew harder and harder. "What are we going to do, Uncle Wiggily?" grunted Curly. "I don't know," answered the rabbit. "We will soon be at Grandpa Goosey's," said Uncle Wiggily. And, just then they came to where Jackie Bow Wow, the puppy dog boy was standing, looking in surprise at Uncle Wiggily, Curly and Billie sailing through the air. "Grab hold of us and pull us down, Jackie!" grunted Curly. But when the puppy dog chap caught hold of the piggy boy—well, you see what happened.

When Uncle Wiggily, with Curly clinging to his left leg, and Billie, the goat, holding tight to his right leg, came to where Jackie Bow Wow, the puppy dog, was standing, Jackie tried to pull them down. But the wind was so strong that Jackie was lifted up also. "I did my best," barked Jackie. "I'm sure you did," said Uncle Wiggily. "But there, just ahead of us, is Sammie Littletail, the rabbit. Perhaps he can pull us down." But when the party reached Sammie, and the bunny boy reached up to grab Billie—Oh, Look!

"Dear me!" cried Uncle Wiggily, as the March wind still blew them along. "We are quite a party now, aren't we? And so you couldn't pull us down, could you, Johnny Bushytail?" "No, Uncle Wiggily," chattered Johnnie. "I tried, but I was not strong enough." Along they all blew. Suddenly Billie, the goat, called: "Oh, I hope Grandpa Goosey's house! I hope we don't blow over it!" Uncle Wiggily said he hoped not, also. "And I see Neddie Stubbytail, the boy bear!" grunted Curly. "Maybe he can pull us down!"

"Welcome to my bungalow, Uncle Wiggily! You and your friends and your umbrella!" quacked Grandpa Goosey Gander, as the party landed. "I was afraid you were going to pass me by," Uncle Wiggily said he was afraid so himself. "But Neddie, with his strong bear claws, reached up and pulled us down just in time," spoke the bunny gentleman. "Yes, and he tore my trousers, said Sammie Littletail, the rabbit. "Never mind," remarked Uncle Wiggily. "I'll get you a new pair. It was some wind, I'll tell the world!"

And if the snowball doesn't try to roll down hill with the molasses jug, and get so stuck up it will not speak to the bread and butter, the next pictures and story will be about

G. O. P. RAGE BITTERNESS ON INCREASE

Battle for Presidential Nomination in Minnesota, Ohio, Washington and Colorado by Republicans Grow Hot

Governor Edwards, N. J., With His "Wet" Following, is Making the Big Noise on Dem. Side: Bryan is Silent

(Special to The Oakland Tribune.)
(Copyright, 1920, by The Washington Star.)
WASHINGTON, March 6.—Increased bitterness in the race for the Republican presidential nomination is the feature of the week's political developments. Despatches to the Star from its political correspondents show that this is a bitter contest and is growing almost in every State where a preferential primary is close at hand. It also is developing in the south, but as few Southern States hold Republican preferential primaries it is attracting less publicity there than it does in the north and west. In Ohio the situation has grown so acute that the managers of Senator Harding's campaign are considering the advisability of calling the Senator home from his western trip to take personal charge of the situation. Plans of the Harding managers have been completely upset by the action of General Woods' backers in entering Harding's own State in the quest of delegates, and the strongest kind of resentment is expressed. The Republican State committee is expected within the next few days to issue an appeal to Ohio Republicans to stand by the State's favorite son.

In Minnesota, where the Republican primaries are to be held March 15, the contest among Wood, Lowden, Johnson and Pendergast following is very close and exciting. Wood managers are confident of controlling the campaign, but the opposition is putting up a specially strong fight. In Missouri, the Republican contest is particularly bitter. The delegates to the convention are being selected, and with the Lowden forces firmly in the saddle. It is probable Lowden will have the delegation of delegates in one or two districts. The delegation will not be instructed.

WOOD STRENGTH IN KANSAS IS WAXING

From Kansas comes word that the Wood campaign is waxing rapidly. The opposition is using the bogey of militarism with telling effect and the overwhelming Wood sentiment of a few months ago apparently has melted away. In Washington, which will send a delegation to Chicago instructed for Senator Pendergast, there is the hottest kind of a fight for second-cholice preference with Wood, Lowden and Johnson, the chief contenders. In the neighboring State of Oregon the contestants are Wood, Lowden and Johnson. Senator Pendergast apparently having abandoned his Oregon campaign. His headquarters are closed, though it is expected his name will be on the primary ticket.

The Star's Denver correspondent writes that Wood is one of the favorites in Colorado, with Lowden and Harding pushing him hard for popular choice. The Harding boom is expected to be given a big impetus next week when the Ohio Senator visits the State. The Democratic side a feature of the week has been a sudden reversal of the McAdoo boom. Apparently the McAdoo followers are stirred into action by the arrival of Attorney-General Palmer as a presidential candidate. The Attorney-General's announcement was taken in many quarters to mean that the White House nomination is no longer a closed door, but a barrier to efforts in behalf of Democratic aspirants, and the Democratic campaign is expected to have some pep injected into it from now on.

McAdoo TAKES LEAD AWAY FROM HOOVER

During the week McAdoo unexpectedly took the lead away from Hoover in a State-wide poll which is being conducted by an Oregon newspaper. The votes for McAdoo in first place, according to a Portland despatch, came from the railroad division center, bearing out the belief that the former director-general of railroads is a strong favorite with the railroad men. A similar word comes from Kansas, where it is said Hoover continues to be a strong favorite with Democrats, except in the ranks of organized labor, where McAdoo is first choice.

In the same week that witnessed the formal entry of Attorney-General Palmer as presidential candidate, comes word from Pennsylvania that he will have to fight a serious battle with the State's Pennsylvania opponents of the Attorney-General's announcement that they will contend for control of the delegates-at-large and for district delegates. The opposition has not announced itself as favorable to any other candidates. It is simply against Palmer. The report that the fight on Palmer had been inspired by the "wets" and the pro-union "drys" are based up with no opposition. California furnishes a political situation not exceeded in interest by any other State. Announcement was made during the week that complete major tickets for delegates are to be entered at the Republican primaries, in opposition to Senator

Murder Car Assassin in S.F. Shoots Down Victim On Street and Escapes

SAN FRANCISCO, March 6.—Using the same "murder car" methods of the famous Rosenthal-Becker case in New York, a man drove to the curb in front of 864 Eddy street, tonight, rested an automatic revolver on the steering wheel of his car, and sent a bullet through the chest of an unidentified man who was walking on the sidewalk. While the echo of the crack of the pistol was still ringing in the street, the gunman started his automobile and made his escape. The dead man, who was shot, had nothing to show his identity and there is no one who can describe the murderer to the police.

ONLY ONE MAN IN CAR, SAYS EYEWITNESSES

Sole witnesses to the shooting were Mr. and Mrs. John Dodge, 864 Eddy street, in front of whose house the shooting took place. They say that the car used was a Chevrolet model Overland touring car, a 1920 model, with full hood, and that they believe there was but one man in the car. While the man who fired the shot was speeding away down Eddy street and on to Franklin, Mr. and Mrs. Dodge went to the aid of the wounded man. They summoned an ambulance which took him to the Central emergency hospital where it was found he had died on the way. The bullet had struck on the right shoulder and had plowed its way through the chest.

NOTHING TO REVEAL IDENTIFY OF VICTIM

The victim of the shooting was a young man 23 or 24 years old. He was extensively dressed in somewhat flashy attire, but there was nothing on his person or in his pockets to show who he was or where he came from. That he was an ex-service man is attested by a button in his lapel. He was smooth-shaven, of medium build, and

Man Trapped in Mud Flats Watches Tide Rise Slowly Over His Head, Killing Him

To a sailor on a boat at anchor in San Pablo yesterday afternoon the point of land near Giant looked near and inviting. He was in his opportunity, slipped overboard and swam toward shore. After a while the little town came within his vision, back a quarter of a mile from the mud flats, and the rising waves told him that the breakers were near. He swam on. Then his feet touched bottom and he arose to full height and started the dash through the breaking foam to land.

But the beach at San Pablo, instead of being firm and white sand, is thick and gummy mud. The man's feet began to sink deep and deeper with each step until he found he could not advance. Down past his ankles and up to his knees he sank. The land was near and houses some distance off were in sight. He called for help and struggled to free himself.

TIDE RISES AS VICTIM HELD PRISONER IN MUD

When no one came the weakened man became frightened. Then he noticed that the water was rising. He was a sailor and knew all about tides. The water lapped about his waist and still his calls were unheard. It was getting dusk.

For more than an hour the sailor stood and watched death ride in on the rising tide. With each moment he knew the water was so much nearer his mouth and nostrils. It came to his shoulders, swirled over them and about his neck, then touched his chin and his eyes. He was alone. There came a moment when the man could not scream for fear that the salt water would run into his mouth, and when he stretched his head as far back as possible to keep his nose above water. His only hope was that the tide was in. The waves went over his head and he timed his breath between crests.

DISAPPEARS UNDER SALT SURFACE O' BAY

Then, in much the same manner as did the hero in Victor Hugo's "Toilers of the Sea," he disappeared. There came a moment when the man could not scream for fear that the salt water would run into his mouth, and when he stretched his head as far back as possible to keep his nose above water. His only hope was that the tide was in. The waves went over his head and he timed his breath between crests.

Girl Jailed for Speeding Enlists to Help Judge Put Others Behind Bars

BERKELEY, Mar. 6.—Pardoned by Governor William D. Stephens last Sunday night after serving two days of a three-day speeding sentence, Miss Lucille Krause, sophomore student at the University of California, today surprised officials of the Berkeley Den of Lions by offering her services in an "safety first" campaign to be conducted by that body the first two weeks in April.

Miss Krause was immediately assigned to the publicity committee and will work shoulder to shoulder with Judge Robert Edgar, a member of the same committee, and the jurist who sentenced her to jail.

"I shall be delighted to work with the judge," says the college maid, "and bear him no grudge and realize now that he acted rightly in making an example of me."

People have the impression that I regarded my 24 hours in jail as a lark. I didn't mind the cell so much but it brought me to a realization of how a motorist endangers life by speeding. I could see injured people being taken from beneath my car and their bereaved relatives crying out at me as I spent those lonely hours in jail. That is why I have offered my services in this campaign to bring the lesson of carelessness and haste to as many persons as possible. Moreover, the motorist is not entirely to blame. The pedestrian should be schooled in caution also."

Des Moines Blizzard Swept Twice in Week

DES MOINES, March 6.—Iowa tonight was again in the grip of a blizzard for the second time within the week just ending. Tonight's storm, however, was not as severe as the one of two days ago, reports to the weather bureau indicated.

Sleet and snow, accompanied by strong winds, swept the western and central part of the state. Lower temperatures followed in the wake of the storm.

JEWELER IS KIDNAPED BY ROBBER BAND

R. C. Bitterman Forced Into Automobile at Point of Gun Following Daylight Holdup: Driven Towards Hayward

Bandits Elude Police Shotgun Squad in Automobile Chase Through Streets of Oakland and Escape Through Crowd

Forcing R. C. Bitterman, prominent jeweler and optician, into an automobile at the point of a drawn revolver, four daring bandits, working in broad daylight, staged one of the most sensational holdups ever attempted in Oakland late last night. The young man, who was chased by a police shotgun squad in an automobile, they eluded capture and disappeared toward Hayward with valuables worth several hundred dollars. They had not been captured at a late hour last night, but a determined effort on the part of the police of Oakland and neighboring cities is today being made to apprehend them.

The hold-up occurred at East Fourteenth and Twenty-fourth avenues yesterday evening while dozens of pedestrians were within hailing distance and streets of traffic were passing within a few feet of the scene of the robbery.

Bitterman, who is well known in Oakland as an optician with a place with his name at 1221 Broadway, was walking west on East Fourteenth after having parked his car at the curb. A heavy touring car drove up alongside at high speed and suddenly a young man who accosted Bitterman.

AUTOMATIC REVOLVER THROWN AGAINST BODY

"Thinking that the young man was about to ask for information, Bitterman stopped. He was then seized from behind by a man who brandished a pistol, which had been concealed beneath the coat of the robber. The pistol was thrust against Bitterman's waist.

Jump in this car quick, if you know what's good for you," said the robber in a low voice. Stunned with surprise at the suddenness of the attack, Bitterman hesitated to obey. He was threatened with a revolver and the hold-up. Bitterman realized that he was useless to refuse and run the risk of death at the hands of the desperate criminals. He was then warned not to struggle, and when he stretched his head as far back as possible to keep his nose above water. His only hope was that the tide was in. The waves went over his head and he timed his breath between crests.

SEARCHED DURING RIDE

Two of his assailants were in the front seat of the machine and Bitterman was seated between the other two in the rear. The car, they drove toward a local street. One man held a gun pressed against the body of the kidnapped merchant and the other man searched him. A gold watch, jewelry and money were secured by the robbers. The total value of which will reach several hundred dollars.

The machine sped along East Fourteenth street for a distance of about a block before the search was completed. Then the machine slowed up and the merchant was ordered to jump from the running board, which he did.

There it stood, sticking up in the mud. The tide was high and when a boat was moved over the spot, they will bring the body to shore and then it may be learned the identity of the man who must have gone through his purgatory in the manner of his meeting with death.

HOOVER NOT CANDIDATE, WIFE SAYS

McAdoo Also Instructs Convention Delegates From California Not to Place His Name in Nomination

Women Take Part in Meeting in San Francisco, Insisting on Paying Equal Share of Assessment Levied As Men

Herbert Hoover has placed himself definitely on record before the Democratic state committee of the home state, in session at the Palace Hotel in San Francisco, as refusing to be considered as a candidate for the presidency.

The Palo Alto, in a telegram yesterday to Gavin McNab, left no room for doubt as to his position when he declared that he cannot approve of any use of his name in connection with the nomination.

Hoover's action was the second of the kind to fortify the gathering Democrats, for earlier in the day, William G. McAdoo reiterated his position in opposition to the instruction of any delegate and refused to allow his name to be placed on the ballot in the primaries in California.

The McAdoo wife was the same as he had sent to other states to urge the same position. It was addressed to David F. Ewing, chairman of the Democratic state committee.

Hoover's telegram read as follows: "While highly sensible of the high honor implied by my many friends to place my name in nomination as a candidate in Democratic primaries, I deem it due them to advise them that as I am not a candidate, I therefore cannot approve of the use of my name for that purpose."

CALIFORNIA WILL GO TO CONVENTION UNPLEGGED

California's delegation to the national convention in San Francisco next June will go unpledged to any candidate under a resolution adopted by the state committee, which was attended by more than 300 party leaders from all sections of the state.

Side by side with other issues, Democratic leaders expressed the belief that the conference was particularly significant in the number of women who participated and in the strong representation of the state. This state will have among the nominees at large and from the congressional districts on the Democratic delegation ballot, seven of whom are women.

One of the most spirited issues to come before the delegates was brought about when the women in the convention, who numbered more than 100, were named as nominees to the convention bear an equal share in whatever assessment was levied upon the members of the convention. Democratic leaders had agreed that the male nominees for delegates to the convention would be assessed $2.50 and the women $1.50.

None of the street car passengers were seriously injured, although two were knocked to the floor by the force of the impact and several slightly cut by glass flying from broken windows.

DELEGATES, PRACTICALLY ALL FOR HOOVER

The addition of a resolution to the platform of the Democratic party, which was adopted by the convention, followed the introduction of a resolution submitted by McNab who said that all candidates in the primaries are to be required to file a petition for delegates in this state.

The resolution, copies of which are to be sent to all candidates, was as follows: "The resolution of the national Democratic convention, we feel it would be indicative for the Democrats of this state to take an active part in the election of delegates in the primaries to come. It is our desire and intention in this spirit to select an unimpaired and entirely independent delegation to the national convention, which all aspirants may receive a fair and impartial hearing. In order that this may be effectuated, we respectfully request that you do not permit their supporters to file a petition for delegates in this state."

McNab's resolution found plenty of support, many of the delegates expressing that state Democratic opinion in regard to this effort to view the fact that California is to be host to the Democratic convention within a few months.

Democratic leaders at the conclusion of the meeting declared that practically all of the members of the delegation will be Hoover men and that at the same time the fact they are going unpledged to the convention gives them a certain degree of freedom in backing their selection for a candidate.

NOMINEES FOR DELEGATES NAMED

Those who were named as nominees to the congressional delegation to the convention were: First district, Thomas G. Smith, Yuba county; Second district, James H. Smith, Santa Rosa; Third district, Miss Molly Carpenter, Placerville; Captain Ross McGee, Sutter Creek; Third district, George E. Catts, Stockton; George V. Sacramento, Fourth district, Hugo K. Asher and William S. Hel-

Maj. Smith Flies From Camp Lewis To S. D. In 1 Day

(By International News Service)

SAN DIEGO, March 6.—Major A. D. Smith, army aviator, arrived in San Diego tonight at 9:05 in his one-day flight from Camp Lewis, Wash. The time of his flight was 9 hours and 42 minutes.

Major Smith, accompanied by his mechanic, came through in good shape in their big Dellavland, stopping four times for gasoline and oil. They lost one hour circling in the fog at Eugene, Ore., but without a mishap. After leaving San Francisco, only one stop was made, being at Bakersfield shortly after 5 o'clock.

AUTOS COLLIDE; WOMAN'S SKULL BROKEN IN CRASH

Injuries which physicians say will probably result in the death of Mrs. Chapin A. Martin, wife of a rancher of 1050 Keith avenue, Berkeley, were sustained in a crash between the two automobiles, which were riding and falling streets at 9 o'clock last night.

Mrs. Martin is in the Providence Hospital suffering from a nasal fracture of the skull and possible internal injuries.

The other car, although the body was badly twisted and torn by the collision, was able to go away after stopping briefly and waiting for a city-wide dragnet for the auto was spread by police last night immediately after the accident.

As the police found Mrs. Martin was riding in the tonneau of a car driven by a friend, Mrs. Ella S. Schuyler, 1055 Euclid avenue, Berkeley, they were going south on Fallon street. At the intersection with Eleventh street the other car suddenly appeared from the shadowy corner and the car in which Mrs. Martin was riding struck the other head-on.

Mrs. Martin was thrown clear of both machines by the impact, her head striking the asphalt pavement. The second machine stopped, but perceiving that Mrs. Martin was not alone in the machine that had struck them, speeded away.

F. F. McCullough, 2862 Webster street, Berkeley, passing northward, took Mrs. Martin to the Providence Hospital in his automobile.

Less than three blocks away another automobile accident of less serious nature occurred. A car, owned by Carl W. Reed of Hotel Brown, 1601 Lincoln avenue, Alameda, was to be thrown from his seat sustaining painful cuts and bruises in his fall.

None of the street car passengers were seriously injured, although two were knocked to the floor by the force of the impact and several slightly cut by glass flying from broken windows.

$1,000,000 Asked for San Diego Navy Base

LEADER WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Secretary Daniels today asked Congress for an appropriation of $1,000,000 to construct a first-class hospital and a supply store house at San Diego, Cal., on land to be donated by the city.

The activities, wrote Daniels, "already commenced in the vicinity of San Diego harbor, render supply facilities at that point very necessary. Marine Island is too far away to serve this locality, which is due to the dimension of the fleet, which rapidly become an important naval center."

MASSACRE OF ARMENIANS CONVINCES LLOYD GEORGE THAT CONTROL OF PORTE CAPITAL ONLY SAFEGUARD

Resolution Offered by Lodge in U. S. Senate Would Give Much of Sultan's Holdings to Greece; Investigation of Armenian Crisis Asked; Hostile Sentiment Grooms Moslems

(By United Press)

PARIS, March 6.—Special despatches to French papers from London today said that after most alarming reports from Constantinople the supreme council has acceded to the request of Premier Venizelos of Greece for strong allied intervention. The British forces in the vicinity of Constantinople have been ordered to intervene, according to the advices.

By ED L. KEENE.
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, March 6.—Allied occupation of Constantinople with general allied supervision over military forces throughout the sultan's empire, was considered a probability in well informed circles here tonight. Reports of massacres of Armenians and other foreigners in Turkey Asia-Minor, with the apparent inability of the sultan's government to preserve order, have convinced Premier Lloyd George, it was said, that immediate measures must be taken to restore order and protect human life.

The British prime minister, it was understood, is taking the initiative in a proposition providing for allied military control with full protection for the Armenian nation. The boundaries of which, it was said, should be defined, and Armenians in Turkish territory. Under this plan, as now proposed by the British, the Turkish army will be reduced to a police force, to be directed by allied commanders and responsible to allied commissions.

FRANCE AGREES TO NEW BRITISH PLAN

Observers saw in recent dispatches of additional French troops and transports carrying reinforcements to French troops in Turkish Asia Minor, France's agreement to the British plan. The British authorities have agreed to the plan, it was understood, that his fear that France would be left to bear the brunt of military operations in the near east is unfounded. Large British naval forces, it was said, are off Constantinople, while British troops are patrolling other districts.

Diplomatic circles here tonight expected the allies to make some effort to determine the attitude of the United States toward the situation in Turkey. The entente powers, they pointed out, naturally do wish to become confronted with a serious military situation, and probably will proceed cautiously until they are sure their plans have the approval of the Washington authorities.

Since education, relief and religious work in the near east have for years been dominated by Americans, the diplomats said, it is natural that the American government should be closely associated with pending measures to bring order out of the present chaos in the Moslem empire.

Members of the Lloyd George government were inclined to view the situation toward Turkey with considerable suspicion. Turkey, they declared, already has been all but indicated to commit the allied leaders have entirely forgiven their earlier professions to observe fully the rights of the nationalities and self-determination.

These observers saw in the appointment of "spheres of influence" in Britain, France, Italy and Greece, a mere cloak of which later will prove to be the ceiling of these "spheres" to the three powers.

LODGE WOULD GIVE GREEK MORE TERRITORY

WASHINGTON, March 6.—A resolution declaring that the senate should declare that northern Greece, the twelve islands of the Aegean and the western coast of Asia Minor, where a large Greek population predominates, shall be awarded to Greece by the peace conference, was introduced in the senate this afternoon by Senator George, chairman of the foreign relations committee.

The senate today again asked President Wilson to submit the Harbord report on condition in Asia Minor. President Wilson has not answered a similar request made some time ago and today the senate unanimously adopted a second resolution by Senator Wadsworth, New York, asking for the formation of a committee.

Strong condemnation of Turkish massacres of the Armenians was expressed in a resolution introduced in the senate this afternoon by Senator King, Democrat of Utah. This action was taken following severe criticism of the allies for proposing to tolerate Turkish rule in Asia Minor.

King, urging adoption of his resolution, declared the allies plan to permit the Turks to retain their present holdings is cowardly.

In this case while the Christian peoples act by in a cynical way while these outrages go on. King declared. All Americans at Marash, Turkey, have been safely accounted for. Following the evacuation of the city by the French, according to a despatch to the state department today.

AIRSHIPS TO ESCORT BIG BLIMP NORTH

Two or fifteen airplanes will be sent by the Oakland Chamber of Commerce to San Diego to escort the giant navy dirigible C-6, when it flies up from the south on March 15, on the first trip ever attempted by a blimp on the Pacific coast. An aerial circus will be staged as the C-6 flies into the city. During the flight will furnish a number of the scoring planes and these will be equipped with cameras to take still motion and still pictures while in flight, and the aviation committee of the Chamber of Commerce plans to obtain a permanent pictorial record of the event.

Selection of a landing field for government airplanes and the use of the Allied Flyers' Club was also discussed by the aviation committee one of the four luncheon committee meetings yesterday.

Extension of the park system through the purchase of Trask's acre was discussed by the city interests committee. Field sports committee discussed Mayor Davis's project of a recreation center in the vicinity of Lake Merritt and the Municipal Auditorium. The traffic committee outlined plans of procedure to care for the traffic situation, now that railroads have been returned to private ownership.

Marry Doug? No! Says Mary

Mentions Fairbanks First Time

Miss Pickford Very Tired

BY UNITED PRESS.
LOS ANGELES, March 6.—No, I am not going to marry Douglas Fairbanks or anyone else," was the emphatic statement of Mary Pickford late today, when told that rumors still persist, despite her denial, that she will soon become the bride of Douglas Fairbanks.

"I am happy in the knowledge that I have done no wrong that I have my own self respect. My reputation is worth more to me than all my money," she continued. "Owen Moore and I have been estranged ever since our marriage and I do not think I will suffer any unhappiness over our divorce."

Then, explaining that she was very tired and nervous, the screen star asked to be excused from talking further.

Fairbanks is said to be en route to Los Angeles from Arizona, where he has been on "location," and where he was slightly injured in a roping scene.

AMERICAN PLAN TO BE DISCUSSED

Plans for the reopening of the yards of building material dealers of the Eastbay cities under the American plan, adopted by the shipyards as a result of a strike of teamsters, will be discussed at a meeting of the Building Material Dealers' association in the office of the Hutchinson company Monday morning.

The strike started Wednesday when the teamsters of the Rhodes-Jamieson company were "pulled off the job" by Business Agent J. F. Raymon of the teamsters' union, who charged that the company was not paying its men for overtime work according to the working agreement. The excuse for the strike, F. G. Cohead, manager of the Rhodes-Jamieson company, says, was "traded" as an opening wedge to a strike for the demands of the union for an increase from $5 a day to $7 a day which were presented in September and turned down at the time by the dealers.

With the closing of the Rhodes-Jamieson yard Wednesday noon, all of the yards shut down. Cohead charges that in wage conferences, union leaders have admitted to him that the plan was to force the yards to submit by striking at them one at a time.

When wage negotiations were in progress last fall, Cohead points out, the dealers offered the men $10 a day and the wage refused. Negotiations were then dropped.

Hear these famous Victor Artists

Extraordinary interest attaches to the recitals of these great artists because of the double opportunity they afford the music-loving public.

It is a privilege in itself to hear these famous artists, and added importance is given to the events in that they enable you to compare their exquisite interpretations with their Victor Records.

Attend the concerts of these artists and note the individual qualities that distinguish their renditions. Then go to any Victor dealer's and hear the Victor Records by the same artists. Note how faithfully their interpretations are portrayed on the Victrola.

It is because of this absolute fidelity that Braslau and Cortot make Victor Records: that the greatest artists of all the world are Victor artists.

Victrolas in great variety of styles from $25 to $1500. New Victor Records demonstrated at all dealers on the 1st of each month.

To Withstand the Furies of Winter

The season of coughs, colds, grip and influenza, with their possible development, is one of danger for all. No family should be without a good reliable remedy with which to fight off these diseases—a remedy of known worth and dependability.

With the stomach and bowels in healthy working order and the mucous membranes free from catarrhal inflammation there is little to be feared from the rigors of the weather.

PE-RU-NA

The Family Standard for Fifty Years

Softens the diseased and inflamed membranes, regulates digestion, aids elimination, enriches the blood and encourages every organ to healthy, normal action. For coughs, colds, nasal catarrh, a catarrhal condition of the stomach, bowels or other organs, there is nothing any better than Dr. Hartman's world famous Pe-Ru-Na. To restore strength to the body weakened and debilitated by grip or Spanish Flu it is of proved and unquestioned value. The merits of Pe-Ru-Na, as an emergency medicine, have been demonstrated by thousands during its half century of usefulness.

Used PE-RU-NA Thirty Years
"Years ago I was cured of catarrh of the head by three bottles of Pe-Ru-Na. In ten days I was able to breathe freely. I now check a cold and relieve a cough. I have used it as a spring tonic with good results. For thirty years I have used and recommended Pe-Ru-Na."

HOUSEWIVES TO DISCUSS HIGH RENTS

High rents in this city will be attacked tomorrow at an open forum which the Housewives' League of Oakland has announced at 2 p. m. in the Council chambers of the City Hall. Tenants who have plaint to make and landlords who are able to offer explanations as to causes for soaring rentals are invited to participate in the two hours' conference. Some weeks ago a committee under Mrs. Lydia Wolff undertook to make a survey of leasing conditions throughout Oakland. A preliminary summary of the investigations will be offered tomorrow.

Victor A. Dunn will be the speaker on the regular program, analyzing the provisions of the Lever act and how it may be applied to the high cost of living conditions.

Several important matters of business will be presented. Mrs. L. C. Grasser, president, will preside.

Berkeley Housewives' League, through a special committee, is at work on a survey of rents and housing conditions in the college town. A report will be made at the Friday meeting for which a general invitation to tenants and landlords is extended.

Charles Johnson, State sealer of weights and measures, will be the principal speaker at the Friday meeting, explaining to the Berkeley women how that department under State government may be used to the protection of the consumer. Johnson has been endorsed by local housewives leagues for appointment to the office of State market director, made vacant through the resignation of Colonel Weinstock.

California Searched for Eastern Senator

SAN FRANCISCO, March 6.—A search throughout California for Jesse Bloch of West Virginia is on today.

A tie in the West Virginia senate over the suffrage measure has made Bloch the deciding factor whether the state will or will not ratify the act.

Suffrage members of the West Virginia senate had agreed to prevent adjournment until Bloch can be found and rushed home. If he'll vote favorably. They wired here today asking politicians to aid in finding Senator Bloch. Police also were notified, so they might inform him of the situation.

Big Haul of Liquor Made in Salt Lake

SALT LAKE CITY, March 6.—One of the biggest hauls of booze since prohibition went into effect was made by sheriff's officers here when the Central meat market was raided and grain alcohol and red wine to the value of $17,500 was taken.

The liquor was in barrels under the floor of a rear room.

OAKLAND MAN HEIR TO LARGE BRITISH ESTATE

A fortune of $750,000 in land and dwellings in Cornwall is today the property of Arthur Symonds of Oakland, who has risen overnight from the ranks of a poor man to those of a near-millionaire. Symonds, who is a recent arrival here from Humboldt county, says he received word that the property was willed to him by his mother, Mrs. Arilla Symonds, who died recently in Cornwall. The property consists of 375 acres and ve houses. Symonds' father died in the Boer war and the young man came to America. He is to make his home in Oakland.

Hats were never worn before the fifteenth century.

BORAH WILL ASK ACTION ON TREATY

By L. C. MARTIN
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
WASHINGTON, March 6.—Republican "bitter enders" in the Senate will try next week to force a quick climax in the treaty fight by moving for immediate consideration of the reservation on Article X. Senator Borah, leader of the "bitter enders," gave notice of this today after it became apparent that the deadlock was not likely to be broken by any modification of President Wilson's position on reservations.

posed by Senator Lodge and his group of Republicans but the Democrats may join with the "bitter enders" to pass the motion. Senator Hitchcock is ready, he said, to support Borah.

Lodge is against the Borah plan, inasmuch as the Senate has once voted to put off consideration of Article X until the last. Lodge contends this precluded taking it up now.

Democratic senators are pretty thoroughly convinced, they said today, that the thing for them to do is to support the reservation on Article X worked out in the bipartisan conference, or modification of it. They believe President Wilson would not oppose ratification which included this reservation, although he would do so unwillingly. They said Senator Glass, in reporting on his conversation of two weeks ago with the President, said he believed the President would accept that reservation. The President did not tell Glass he would accept it, but neither did he say he would not. Democrats got the impression from Glass' report that the President would find the reservation unsatisfactory, but would take it if he could get nothing better.

It was for this reason, Democrats said, that forty of them agreed to support that reservation.

Planes on Border Report by Radio Each Five Minutes

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON, March 6.—The practice of planes on border patrol communicating by radio every five minutes with their home station has been inaugurated by the Ninety-first Aero Squadron on the Mexican border in order that no plane will lose its position and fly over Mexican territory, the war department announced today. It is understood the action of the Mexican authorities recently in arresting American army aviators caused this practice to be put into effect.

ARMISTICE DAY TRIAL NEAR END

By CLEM J. RANDAU
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
MONTESANO, Wash., March 6.—The murder trial of ten alleged I. W. W.'s charged with having ambushed the parade of American Legionnaires on Armistice Day is nearing the end. The case will be in the hands of the jury before next Saturday. Chief Prosecutor Cunningham declared today.

All offers of Attorney Vanderveer to prove a conspiracy by the commercial interests and leaders of the American Legion to raid the I. W. W. hall and to "run the I. W. W. out of Centralia" were denied by the court on the grounds that the deceased Warren O. Grimm had not been shown to have participated in the alleged conspiracy or in an overt act against the defendants. This showing, Judge Wilson held, was contingent on proof of Grimm's participation since the claim of self-defense has been advanced.

Evidence of the strong undercurrent of feeling and prejudice in southwestern Washington and particularly around Centralia, has frequently been seen in court.

Strong support of the defense case was given by Frank Nehrning, former soldier, who said the rush began before the shooting.

"They got about to the doorway when the shooting started," he testified.

Rumors that additional soldiers were to be sent here for the close of the trial were denied today by Major Arthur Casey. The only basis of the story, the officer said, was the expected discharge of ten of the regulars, now here, who will be replaced by other men from Camp Lewis.

A brine bath under pressure has been devised for salting peanuts in the shell.

G. O. P. WOMEN GIVEN LESSON IN "STUMPING"

BY UNITED PRESS
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE
CHICAGO, March 6.—Republican women who aspire to become campaign orators during the presidential campaign took the first of a series of lessons on public speaking here today. Under the instruction of women experienced in campaign "stumping" they were expected to become qualified in five weeks to present forceful arguments to women voters why they should vote the Republican ticket.

Mrs. George W. Plummer of Chicago called the meeting today. The number of would-be public speakers is expected to increase considerably within the next few weeks.

The course will include such

Ship by Truck

One Year of a New Industry

The rise of "Ship by Truck" to commanding national importance since the first newspaper announcement in New York City in February, 1919, is one of the big industrial achievements of the year.

H. S. Firestone at that time said, "Ship by Truck" is the national transportation motto of today." The truth of that statement is shown in the fact that now after one year "Ship by Truck" is not merely a motto—it is a national industry, affecting every line of business.

These are some definite accomplishments:

"Ship by Truck" Bureaus have been established by the Firestone organization in 64 principal cities, to serve all shippers, whether transportation companies, manufacturers, wholesalers, retailers, farmers.

Truck Routes and Operators have been listed by these Bureaus on the first Sunday of each month in local newspaper advertisements.

The Research Division operating through the central "Ship by Truck" Bureau at Akron, has become a clearing house for information and experience on motor trucking. Investigators of this Division have already collected, in the field, transportation data on six phases of "Ship by Truck": Co-operative Farm Hauling; Establishment of Truck Routes; Inter-City Hauling; Coal Distribution; Live Stock Marketing; Transportation of Grain.

Bulletins are being issued as fast as each industry is covered. Bulletin No. 1 (Farming) and Bulletin No. 2 (Truck Routes) are ready for distribution. Send for copy.

The "Ship by Truck" Symbol conceived and presented by the Firestone Organization has been generally accepted as the sign of the new industry. Formally adopted by the National Association of Motor Truck Sales Managers.

How Can Your Ship by Truck Bureau Serve You?

These instances show ways in which Ship by Truck Bureaus are serving their various communities:

In one middle west city a union freight station for truck lines has been put into operation, greatly reducing handling, and speeding up delivery of shipments.

In a northern city, at the instigation of the Ship by Truck Bureau, an appropriation was voted for snow sheds, plows and labor to keep the roads open all winter for truck shippers.

Legislation was proposed in another state to limit the capacities of trucks on the roads, to a point where it would have worked a hardship on shippers, truck owners and the public.

The Ship by Truck Bureau secured the co-operation of trucking interests in presenting facts that modified the proposal.

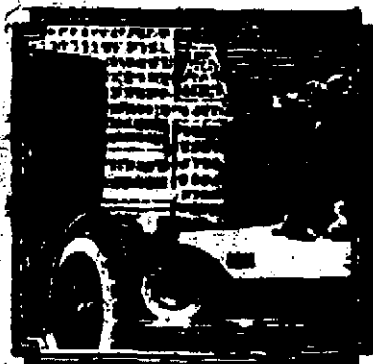

Initiated by the local Ship by Truck Bureau the Truck Dealers' Association of one city has organized a Ship by Truck Drivers' School.

Your Ship by Truck Bureau is one of the most active factors in short haul transportation. It is here to help you find the way to better transportation of your freight. Use it.

Sensible and Easy to Follow Advice on the Art of Making Yourself Attractive

By Madame Mares

the hair is very thick. It is the silky hair which is equal to leaving the hair easy to do up. For twenty-five cents enough eggol can be obtained at any drug store to provide twelve or more of these unusual shampoo.

Never Use an Irritating Depilatory for Superfluous Hair. THERE is only one superfluous hair-remover known which is a formula recently discovered, which not only is as safe as a lotion on the skin, but removes any hair instantly without used. The skin will be soft and white. This toilet preparation, which is being used by thousands of ladies. This comes in the form of a creamy, golden liquid. It is applied with the fingers or a little cotton swab on the hairs to be removed. Almost immediately the hairs dissolve completely. The cream out the last reddening or smarting. It can be applied to the most delicate skin or any part of the body, and will not even matter how thick or brittle. Its use positively defies detection. Aside from its marvelous results, it is the most economical hair-remover known. It can be obtained for one dollar at any drug store.

The Shortest Route to a Beautiful Skin. THERE is a sure way, a new way and a quick way to make your complexion wonderfully beautiful. This method is being used by thousands of women with extraordinary success. It is a new discovery—a formula which makes all the old, angular-tinted skin loosen right off, showing the soft, angelic-tinted skin underneath, smooth and beautiful. Make up the formula easily at home in a few minutes by mixing one ounce of santonin in a pint of water and adding a tablespoonful of glycerine. This cream is entirely free from face preparations sold. Furthermore, it is especially recommended for the skin of the face. The santonin can be obtained at any drug store for fifty cents.

Just a Little Cream Will Keep Hair Long and Beautiful. YOU can easily prevent hair from falling, and you can make it grow thick and healthy by a very simple method, which is far superior to any other. It is a new discovery, a formula which makes all the old, angular-tinted skin loosen right off, showing the soft, angelic-tinted skin underneath, smooth and beautiful. Make up the formula easily at home in a few minutes by mixing one ounce of santonin in a pint of water and adding a tablespoonful of glycerine. This cream is entirely free from face preparations sold. Furthermore, it is especially recommended for the skin of the face. The santonin can be obtained at any drug store for fifty cents.

The Best Shampoo is Easiest to Use, and Cheapest Too. SHAMPOOING is rapidly taking the place of soap and other head-washers in regard to the preparation of the hair. No other preparation can produce the exquisite appearance of the hair which is produced by shampooing. It is a new discovery, a formula which makes all the old, angular-tinted skin loosen right off, showing the soft, angelic-tinted skin underneath, smooth and beautiful. Make up the formula easily at home in a few minutes by mixing one ounce of santonin in a pint of water and adding a tablespoonful of glycerine. This cream is entirely free from face preparations sold. Furthermore, it is especially recommended for the skin of the face. The santonin can be obtained at any drug store for fifty cents.

Wrinkles—and How Best to Keep Them Away. DID you ever notice how a coarse skin, or one with large pores will always show the most wrinkles? This discovery points to the secret of removing wrinkles, which has never before been fully realized. By making the pores smaller, a most remarkable result is produced on wrinkles. The pores "brave up," and the skin becomes much finer in texture. This can be accomplished by making the difference in texture between chamois and cambric. By making the pores smaller, the skin ceases to be chamois in texture; it becomes fine and plump as that of a baby. Making the pores smaller, and thereby eliminating wrinkles is quickly done by the simple use of eggol. This can be obtained at any drug store for fifty cents. This can be liberally used, as it should be, and proves to be more economical than the old methods heretofore commonly used. Crows feet, lines of age, sagging of neck, deep and little wrinkles are all corrected in a very extraordinary manner.

And Here is a New Way to Rid the Face of Blackheads. THERE is one simple, safe and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads and that is to dissolve them.

To do this get a package of eggol from any drug store for fifty cents—sprinkle a little on the face, rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the face and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. The blackheads are simply dissolved and disappear, leaving the face without any mark. The eggol is a new discovery, a formula which makes all the old, angular-tinted skin loosen right off, showing the soft, angelic-tinted skin underneath, smooth and beautiful. Make up the formula easily at home in a few minutes by mixing one ounce of santonin in a pint of water and adding a tablespoonful of glycerine. This cream is entirely free from face preparations sold. Furthermore, it is especially recommended for the skin of the face. The santonin can be obtained at any drug store for fifty cents.

CURED HIS PILES

Now 88 Years Old But Works at Trade of Blacksmith and Feels Younger Since Piles Are Gone

The oldest active blacksmith in Michigan is still pounding his anvil in the town of Haverhill, N. H., by the internal method of treating piles.

Mr. Jacob Lyon, Haverhill, N. H. I wish that you could hear him tell of his many experiences with old-time salves, ointments, etc., before he tried my method. Here is a letter just received from him:

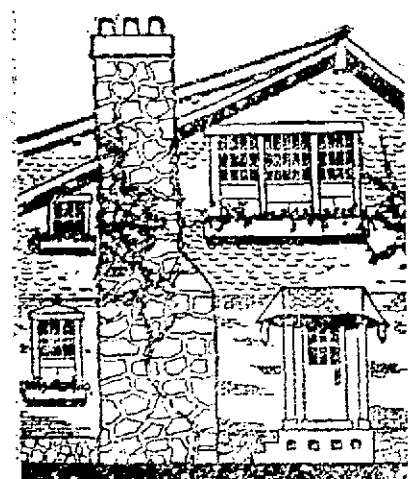

Mr. E. R. Page, Marshall, Mich. Dear Sir: I want you to know what your treatment has done for me. I had suffered with piles for many years and used suppositories and all kinds of treatments, but never got relief until I tried yours. Am now completely cured. Although I am 88 years old, and the oldest active blacksmith in Michigan, I feel years younger since the piles have left me. I will surely recommend it to all I know who suffer this way. You can use my letter any way you wish and I hope it will lead others to try this wonderful remedy.

Yours truly,
J. L. LYON.

There are thousands of afflicted people suffering with piles who have never yet tried the one scientific way of treating them. Don't be out. Don't waste money on foolish salves, ointments, dilators, etc., but send today for a Free Trial of my internal method for the healing of Piles.

No matter whether your case is of long standing or recent development—no matter if it is external or internal—you should send for this free trial treatment. Sooner than you know, you will be cured. ## CHARTER DAY PROGRAM IS COMPLETED

BERKELEY, March 6.—Planned as the most impressive ceremony of its kind ever held on the campus, arrangements for the fifty-second annual Charter Day to be held at the University of California are nearing completion.

This year's Charter Day ceremonies in the Greek theater, on Tuesday, March 23, will mark the formal inauguration of Dr. David Prescott Barrows as president of the State University. To greet Dr. Barrows and to join in the impressive exercises being arranged for the event, officials of universities in all parts of the world have been invited to participate in the celebration of the university's birthday.

Announcement from the office of Dr. Barrows that Dr. Paul S. Reisch, former American ambassador to China and at present chief legal counselor to the Chinese republic, would be the principal speaker of Charter Week has added to the interest of the preparations for the ceremonies.

Added to the international significance which this year's celebration will take in invitations sent to representative universities of the United States, Europe and Asia, special tribute will be paid to students from foreign lands now studying in Berkeley. To symbolize the cosmopolitan atmosphere students of different nations will march to the Greek theater divided into groups headed by the flag to which each owes allegiance. This grouping will be maintained while the students are seated in the Greek theater, so that flags of all nations will fly significantly during the impressive Charter Day exercises.

BANQUET ENDS WEEK

Beginning on Thursday evening, March 18, with a chamber musical recital in Wheeler hall for the foreign delegates, Charter Week will be in full swing until Tuesday evening, March 23, when the alumni of the University of California will have their annual Charter Day banquet at the Hotel Oakland and evening of Friday, March 19, addresses will be given by foreign representatives on important academic and international problems. Saturday evening, March 20, will witness a reception to President and Mrs. Barrows in Hearst hall, on the university campus, by the local post of the American Legion. Sunday, March 21, at 3 p. m., Dr. Reisch will deliver an address at 4 p. m. the half-hour of music will be rendered.

Dr. Gilbert N. Lewis, professor of chemistry and dean of the College of Chemistry, will deliver the annual faculty research lecture at 4 o'clock, Monday afternoon, March 22. In the evening of the same day the Phi Beta Kappa society will hold its annual banquet, and in San Francisco the Chamber of Commerce will hold a banquet in honor of the foreign delegates.

Tuesday, March 23, Charter Day, the inaugural ceremonies will begin at 10 o'clock in the Greek theater. In the afternoon there will be the president's luncheon to the regents, and during the hours 4 to 6 p. m., there will be a reception in the university library to President and Mrs. Barrows to delegates, alumni and others. The annual Charter Day banquet in the evening will conclude the exercises. The program for Charter Day is as follows:

Invocation
Singing by the student body
Reading the list of donations to the University of California covering the period since the last Charter Day

Greetings in the form of five-minute speeches from the following:
Dr. Wallace Buttrick

An alumnus of the university, to be selected by the Alumni Council.
A delegate from some foreign country.

Presentation of Dr. Barrows by the presiding officer.
Address by President Barrows.
Singing of the University hymn.
Benediction.

Pool Rooms Well Guarded Sheriff Is Ready To Act

Secrecy, the "low down," muffled voice, covered keyhole, stuff characterized and is the dominant feature of present-day "race-track bucketshop operation" in Emeryville.

District Attorney Decoto, in speaking of the methods of surveillance used by gamblers in procuring their layouts, declared that not only did they bribe policemen, public officials and detectives, but they employed agents for counter-espionage.

"A big gambler, on hearing that a posse of detectives and plain clothes operatives were going out to get the goods on poolrooms and bucketshops, sent three of his best spotters up to the police station to look the detectives over," declared the district attorney, "with the result that they were recognized by the doormen at all the places and were refused admission. This emphasized the need for the very closest secrecy in proceeding against such places. Officials should be taken out on big cases under 'sealed orders,' so that they themselves do not know where they are going and cannot drop any information by accident or by a slip of the tongue."

"In regard to the Emeryville race track gambling investigation, I have placed myself absolutely in the hands of the district attorney and will execute his orders," declared Sheriff Frank Barnett yesterday.

"I have never received any complaints about the conduct of things in this town and ordinarily it would be impossible for me to gather evidence against them, as all my deputies would be known to the lookouts. Besides this, every man I have assigned to a definite work. Only by hiring someone by a special provision could my office break through the cordon of lookouts and spies and secure valuable evidence."

"As to the character of people who run and encourage such places, they are to be found in every city. There are always going to be a lot of fellows around any place trying to get something for nothing. These turn to gambling, and if they don't gamble in one form, they take it in another. I will take no steps independently of the district attorney's office."

PACIFIC TO GET ELEVEN FREIGHTERS

A shipping board order that will mean the addition of eleven freight carriers from the Atlantic seaboard to this port and a regular and dependable service has been issued by the United States Shipping Board. It directs that the eleven carriers heretofore allocated to Williams, Dimond & Co., for service between this coast and European ports shall put in at Atlantic ports on their return trips and carry cargoes to San Francisco bay and other Pacific ports.

The order is to go into effect immediately and is expected by shipping men to prove a great impetus to business. The eleven steamers are from 8,000 tons to 9,000 and are all Pacific Coast built. The promise is held out that other vessels are to be brought under the same ruling.

Came laws are a remnant of the forest laws of William the Conqueror.

GIRL DIVES OFF TRAIN IN HER NIGHTIE

BY UNITED PRESS.
LEASSED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.
SAN JOSE, March 6. — Martha Wood, 18, leaped from a moving Southern Pacific train today and escaped from the matron of the Santa Clara county jail.

Furthermore, Martha is now at large somewhere near Guadalupe and is clad only in a nightie and a pair of slippers.

Martha, described as a dashing brunette of a good figure, was being taken to the Ventura school for girls. According to the report received by the sheriff, she asked the matron to accompany her to the rear of the train. When the matron was not looking she clambered through a small window.

The train was stopped at once and a search made, but Martha had fled like a deer through the bushes and was gone.

Martha is a delinquent girl.

Woman Autoist Freed On Bail Friends In S. F. Put Up $1000

Mrs. William Lord, wife of the general manager of the American Express company of Stockton, who was arrested Friday afternoon on the Hayward-Niles road by Traffic Officer L. A. Salton on a charge of driving her automobile while intoxicated, was released last night on $1000 cash bail after she had been held in the county jail 24 hours pending word from her husband.

The bail money was furnished by friends in San Francisco. Mrs. Lord telephoned her husband early yesterday morning telling him of her predicament. She waited his arrival, but says that when he did not arrive she telephoned some friends in San Francisco who came to her aid.

According to Officer Salton, Mrs. Lord told him she had been given the wine, which was found in her machine at the time of her arrest, by friends in San Francisco. It was said at the sheriff's office last night that the friends who furnished the money for her bail were the same friends from whom she secured the liquor.

Mrs. Lord is charged with being intoxicated when Traffic Officer Salton encountered her on the Hayward-Niles road driving her car toward Stockton. Salton said she was driving from one side of the road to the other and that when he attempted to arrest her he was crowded off the road by her. She admitted that she had been drinking the wine since morning according to Salton.

When interviewed yesterday afternoon while awaiting the arrival of her husband, Mrs. Lord refused to make any definite statement concerning her arrest.

"I would rather wait until my husband arrives before I make a statement," she said. "It is an embarrassing situation. I am in a driving at only twenty-one miles an hour. I wasn't exceeding the speed limit. I think the officer smelled liquor and took it for granted that I was intoxicated. I am just learning to drive a car and I suppose I was wobbling about a bit."

In rebuttal of the woman's statement concerning her condition at the time of her arrest, Deputy District Attorney Frank Shay, who went to Niles to see her following her arrest, said that when he took Mrs. Lord to the county jail she was so intoxicated that she went to sleep in the machine while he was bringing her into Oakland.

Mrs. Lord will appear in Justice of the Peace Henry Puleiter's court Monday morning for her preliminary hearing.

STUDENTS AT U. C. TOTAL OVER 15,000

BERKELEY, March 6.—Fifteen thousand, six hundred and ninety students are affiliated with the University of California, according to the statistical summary printed today by the college authorities in the semi-annual directory of officers and students.

Of that number 8,355 are enrolled in colleges at Berkeley alone. Of these 870 are graduate students and 7485 undergraduates.

Ninety-two State University students are studying at the University Farm, Davis; fifty-three are in the Hastings College of the Law, 412 in the various medical schools in San Francisco, 119 in the Los Angeles Medical department and southern branch of the University. Students registered in the summer session number 432.

There are 1513 officers and assistants in the University.

MANY LANDS ARE REPRESENTED AS MILLS' KERMESS IS PRESENTED

DANCES OF NATIONS IS COLORFUL

Costumes and customs of all lands were reproduced with scientific exactness in the pages of dances of ancient and modern days at the Mills College Kermess, presented at the Oakland Auditorium theater yesterday afternoon and evening.

While many of the dresses were elaborate and worked out by professional costume artists, much of the raiment was designed and made by the girls themselves. The production was given entirely by the physical education department of Mills, of which Miss Elizabeth Rhoads Stoner is the head. Committee heads in charge of the event were as follows: Costumes—Marian Hainsh, Berd, Cal., and Miss Gladys Hinman, Oakland; properties, Doris Dozier, Modesto; business, Stella Leviston, San Francisco; music, Ruth Carr, Alameda; Helen Rich, Sacramento; Marion Handy, Ukiah; Gladys Washburn, Oakland; Augusta Corey, Palo Alto; Miss Kellogg, Margaret Fairchild, and Winifred Perry, El Centro.

The first scene in the Kermess showed the Toy Shop in Holland, in which the following took part: Helen Olson, Sacramento; Edith Stebbins, Piedmont; Master Frederick Reinhardt, son of the president of Mills College; Sara McGrady, San Diego; Leon Eulard, Carpinteria; Florence Jones, San Leandro; Genevieve Anderson, Denver; Violet Stockholm, Oakland; Ruth Johnston, Santa Barbara; Little Marjorie and Phyllis Nahl, Berkeley; Margaret Goodwyn, Oakland; Edna O'Connor, Wilma Lyon and Master George Muller.

"SALAD" PLEASING
The Mills College Salad, a striking feature of the pageant, was also a part of this episode. Nine girls characterizing the ingredients of the very delightful "salad" took part. They were: Miss Irene Hughes, Salinas; Miss Marjorie Spring, Piedmont; Miss Ruth Biersch, Watsonville; Miss Beatrice Walton, Salem, Ore.; Miss Dorothy Rominger, Long Beach; Miss Mildred L. Jackson, Colton; Miss Olga Scheurmann, Alameda; Miss Vilas Derr, Stockton, and Miss Miriam Shemanski, Portland.

The second episode showed a types camp. A number of costume dances were given by a group of girls, all elaborately dressed. A special number was danced by Miss Jane Sells, Portland, and Miss Shemanski.

In the Grecian episode following, the Myth of Apollo was enacted in a woodland temple by Miss Mary Louise Seagraves of Chicago, Miss Ruth Frankenhimer of Stockton and Master Paul Reinhardt. This number included the Greek maidens, the Platonic, played by Miss Amy Grube of Stockton, with the aid of the Grecian chorus; the Sarcif dance, "At the Seashore," and a group finale.

An English country dance opened the third episode. The famous performance was the Planchborough sword dance. Girls' parts were taken by Miss Doris and Dorothy Gladding, Lincoln, Cal.; Miss Elizabeth Cockcroft, Corning; Miss Isabelle Becker, San Mateo; Miss Lott Harris, Oroville; Miss Eleanor Crittenden, San Francisco; Miss Sara McCrary, San Diego; Miss Louise Stanton, Redding, Cal.; while the boys were: Miss F. Gier, Miss Ida Wilshire, Redding; Miss Laura Cassidy, Honolulu; Miss Beatrice Henning, San Diego; and the Misses Anderson, Johnston, Stockton.

Fairy Tale Pretty
A very pretty fairy tale was enacted in scene five. The Dream of the Lotus Flowers. The queen, Miss Ruth Frankenhimer, Stockton, awakens the flowers for a dance, after which they are again walled to dreamland by the magic wand. Flowers are represented by: Miss Adelaide Hovey, Hollywood; Miss Alma Eisenberg, Santa Barbara; Miss Marjorie Coleman, Martinez; Miss Gladys Halstead, Honolulu; Miss Grace Cockcroft, Corning; Miss Dorothy Crew, Chico; Miss Olga Scheurmann, Alameda; and Miss Grube, Miss Seagraves and Miss Rominger.

Next followed the striking Arabian episode. The scene is laid around the desert home of Anita, which part is taken by Miss Ruth Schiedler of Oakland. Peer Gynt is portrayed by Miss Sara Sillmar, Los Angeles. Following the entrance of a group of Arabian dancing girls—Mary Fox Clark, Upland; Nancy White, Chico; Jean Ballard, Carpinteria; Jean Gunn, Sausalito; Judith Campbell, San Francisco; Muriel Petersen, Honolulu; Gertrude Coffeen, Pasadena; Pamela Tyler, Fresno; Meredith Eichelberger, Stockton; and Florence Miller, Reno—a party of Bedouin spearmen arrives. These are represented by Isabel Leithold, Woodland; Brynild Branstad, Stockton; Marquita Derby, San Jose; Doris Rowlands, Riverside; Marie Woodruff, Pasadena, and Dorethea Hill, Medford, Ore.

Happened in Spring is a bright skit shown in scene seven. The young "men" are played by Nancy Ellen White, Chico, and Miss Seagraves, and the maids are Miss Agnes Pennycook, Vallejo, and Miss Vilas Derr.

The eighth episode gives a Rumanian love song, by Miss Minnie Rennie, Lompoc; Miss Bernice Tutt, Oakland, and Miss Helen Stewart, Portland. In this scene the Rumanian is danced. This is a Rumanian dance adapted by Miss Stoner from the steps of an immigrant steel worker, and has never before been publicly given. Parts are taken by the Misses McGrady, Williamson, Frankenhimer, Crew, Campbell, King, Arens and Pardee.

Folk Dances Given
Scene nine shows the Irish folk dances. The Kerry dance is given by Miss Ruth Chambers of Minneapolis. The group in this act comprises: Miss Agnes Lee, Miss Muriel Petersen, Miss Florence Miller, Reno; Beatrice Henning; Miss Marjorie Henning, Watsonville; Miss Lena Beth Bryan, Linden; Miss Harriet Louise Smith, Portland; Miss Helen Hall, San Francisco; Miss Leona Young, Stockton; Miss Isabel Pray, Redlands; Miss Grace Forman, Manteca; Miss Doris Rowlands, Riverside; Miss Isabelle Becker, San Mateo; Miss Margaret Doff, Fallon, Nevada, and the Misses Lee, Henning and Rogers.

The Russian episode comes next. "Neath the Shadow of a Tree," a Russian folk song, is delightfully given. The group here performs the peasant dance. The Hungarian dance is given by the Misses Frankenhimer, Seagraves, Colgan and Williamson, and the finale "The Dance of the Whip," by Miss King and Miss Campbell and the group.

CLUB TO SEEK NEW MEMBERS

As a result of recent meetings held in Community Service headquarters in Hotel Oakland, the executive committee of the Contra Costa Hills Club has arranged to send out several thousand six-page folders giving detailed information to the public of the Eastbay communities in regard to the purposes of this new conservation club. These circulars will be distributed during the coming week. They will include the newly adopted constitution and by-laws of the club, together with a detachable application for membership.

Dues will be $1 a year for active members and $5 for contributing members. Stress is laid by the president, Harold French, that the Contra Costa Hills Club is not a mere "hiking" club. While its executive committee is planning to conduct an interesting series of walks during the ensuing seasons of this year, it has more ambitious projects in which to enlist the support of the coalescing Eastbay communities. Among these are the conducting of outdoor entertainments among the hills upon special occasions, such as an Easter evening international service at sunset at "The Heights" of Joaquin Miller; a May Day reunion and campfire under the oaks of Trestle Glen; a Memorial Day assembly at the proposed natural monument to the American Legion which they hope to dedicate at Redwood Peak; a Fourth of July illumination of the crest of the skyline boulevard; a community picnic on Labor Day in Diamond canyon; and a special program for a Thanksgiving gathering in one of nature's temples in the Piedmont hills.

Washingtonians Will Discuss Government

At the regular community Americanization meeting of the Sons and Daughters of Washington to be held Sunday evening, March 7, 10-11, at 8 o'clock at Chabot hall, Eleventh and Grove streets, various kinds of government will be discussed in an open forum in which the junior as well as the senior members of the organization will participate. The purpose of discussing this topic is to stimulate an interest in and due appreciation of government.

Musical numbers will be furnished by I. Burnell and Miss Callie Macque as well as the S. D. W. junior quartet. Community singing will be enjoyed as usual. Admission is free and the public is cordially invited to attend.

HUGE ZEPPELIN IS FITTED WITH BEDS AND CAFE

GENEVA, March 6.—A super-Zeppelin of the Bodensee type has just been completed at Friedrichshafen, on Lake Constance. It contains restaurant and sleeping cars. Accommodation is provided for eighteen passengers with luggage, apart from the crew.

The program is to establish a service between Switzerland, Germany and Sweden. The service will be extended later to allied ports and the Mediterranean, as the German company wants to outdistance allied projects of commercial competition on the same lines.

Deardsdorff Charged With Theft of Auto

Leslie Deardsdorff, who was arrested by Captain Charles Book Wednesday night on a College-avenue coal shortly after the hold-up of E. A. Silvernail, a Telegraph avenue coal dealer, and before Judge Mortimer Smith yesterday for sentence on a charge of carrying concealed weapons, but sentence was postponed owing to a new angle in the case. A warrant was served on Deardsdorff earlier in the day charging him with grand larceny in connection with the theft of an automobile owned by Milton Orrick.

Shall the Army Retail Store Move from Oakland?

The Army Retail Store is preparing to close and move its stock elsewhere. Other cities are demanding that this store give them the opportunity to purchase surplus supplies at Government Wholesale Prices.

Oakland has not patronized its Army Store. Stores operating in San Francisco, Sacramento, Fresno and other cities are thronged daily with eager buyers—buyers who appreciate Real Bargains and are in earnest in their efforts to reduce living costs.

When this store opened retail prices in other local stores came down. Shoes, Groceries, Blankets and other articles dropped to a price where they could be purchased.

Shall Oakland lose its Army Store? Is Oakland in earnest about its fight on high prices? The answer is with you. If the people of Oakland patronize this store, it will remain. If they do not, it will go where genuine, substantial bargains are appreciated.

IT'S UP TO YOU!

Berkeley Housewives to Seek Recruits in Food Drive

BERKELEY, March 6.—While or-tis street; Mrs. C. Weber, 1154 Walnut street; Mrs. E. Winter, 2513 Carlton street.

In urging support of the potato boycott recently declared by the women, Mrs. Bartlett declared that the dealers have been forced to admit that the league's action has caused a very slow movement in the potato market and a slight decline in the wholesale price.

The league believes a general adherence to the boycott will soon bring the retail price to a reasonable figure, says Mrs. Bartlett. Speaking of the advantage to the housewife in the use of government flour, Mrs. Bartlett says: "The government flour is considerably cheaper than the hard wheat flours selling at not to exceed $1.50 for a 4 1/2-pound sack and $2.15 for a 43-pound sack and the members of the league have demonstrated that it makes excellent pastry, cakes, muffins and bread. All women are urged to demand this flour of their grocers."

An appeal to every housewife in Berkeley to affiliate herself with the anti-high cost organization will be made within the coming week. Cooperation in carrying out the aims of the league in fighting alleged unfair prices will be asked of the women of Berkeley.

Ignoring the new state organization, the constitutionality of which the Berkeley women question, the college city league will direct its activities for the present to boosting its membership and to continuing its campaign of education as to the necessity of concerted action on the part of the women of any community to bring down prices.

CAPTAINS ARE NAMED

To reach all women of the city the Berkeley League has organized the plan of the mobilized women's army and the president, Mrs. Lester W. Bartlett, has named captains to carry on the membership drive in all parts of the community. Captains thus named are authorized to enroll members and to receive dues from those who find it convenient to pay in this way.

With their appeal for membership the workers will urge upon housewives the use of government flour as a means of lessening the demand of hard wheat flour and in this way help keep down the price of bread, which the officers of the league declare threatens to follow the upward trend of the privately milled flours. Housewives are asked also to join in the potato boycott pronounced by the league.

Captains named by Mrs. Bartlett will serve in all future campaigns of the league and will stand as a permanent organization to be called into action by the president. Those heading the various precincts are:

To the Women Who Decide the Home Tooth Paste

All Statements Approved by High Dental Authorities

Note How Teeth Discolor

Men's teeth in particular. Note how tartar forms.

Note how children's teeth decay—and perhaps your own—despite the daily brushing.

Every woman knows that old methods of teeth cleaning are inadequate. Every dentist knows it.

The reason lies in that slimy film. You feel it with your tongue. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. And the tooth brush doesn't end it.

That film is what discolors—not the teeth. It is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Thus most tooth troubles are now traced to film.

Dental science, after years of searching, has found a way to combat film. Dental authorities have proved this beyond question. Now the method is embodied in a dentifrice called Pepsodent. And we offer to all a 10-Day Tube to show every home what it does.

See for yourself what it does. Send the coupon for a 10-Day tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the slimy film. See how the teeth whiten as the fixed film disappears.

Those results show that film can be combated. The teeth can be protected and kept clean. Compare the results with the methods you now use, for your sake and your family's sake. This film question is a vital one. Cut out the coupon now.

'Never!' Said the 'Dry' Leader When Rogers Offered a Drink

Here's WILL ROGERS, the bartender with the pink baby ribbon saloon, offering a lady who doesn't touch it a "shot."

But It Is All in the Play, and That Play Is at the American Today

"Hold one, Lady." They're scarce as hen's teeth. So Will Rogers, the owner of the defunct "Bell's Bells" saloon inquired politely offering a "shot" to the leader of the Temperance Society. And she glared and glared. No sir! Not the leader of the aforesaid society. Nothing doing!

Well, he finally sold ice cream soda—pink at that—where once the drinks were not pink, but red. Now Will Rogers turns his saloon into an ice cream parlor—and gets by with it, too—is told in a unique and refreshingly comical manner in "Water, Water Everywhere," in which the creator of "Jubilo" will star at the American Theater commencing at the matinee today. It's a clever, scintillating play, and Rogers has a wonderful role in it. There's a laugh to a line—and no one's feelings are hurt. Alice Joyce in her first release since returning from war work, were not pink, but red. ## ALUMNI TO FOREGATHER AT BANQUET

Coming from all parts of the state to pay tribute to their Alma Mater on her fifty-second birthday, graduates of the University of California, numbering several thousand are expected to assemble at the Hotel Oakland on the evening of Tuesday, March 23, for the annual Charter day dinner of the alumni.

Dr. Paul Reusch, former United States ambassador to China, is expected to be a speaker at this year's gathering. W. J. W. Creed, president of the Alumni Association, will be toastmaster of the occasion and President Barrows will speak.

St. Patrick's Program to Receive Welcome

St. Jarlath's parish has made plans for a St. Patrick's entertainment which will be held in the parish hall on Montana street and Fruitvale avenue, on Tuesday evening, March 18. The committee has prepared an attractive program. George Ann Barney, one of the pupils of Miss Sylvia Hoseney, Philip Murphy, Ralph L. Cavanaugh will participate, and Jack Jones will present some of his Scotch selections.

New Factory Men to Receive Welcome

Representatives of eighteen new industries which have decided on Oakland for the location of their plants will be the guests of the New Industries committee of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce at a luncheon next Friday.

These eighteen concerns have come to the city in the last three months, or since the rendering of the annual report about December 1, showing sixty new industries for Oakland in the preceding year.

It is planned to make the luncheon an affair in which the entire membership of the Chamber of Commerce will participate. John W. Phillips, chairman of the New Industries committee, will preside.

Four New Plays to Be Staged At Fremont School Theater

OMO GRIMWOOD as she will appear in the role of "Lizzie" in the Fremont High School Dramatic Workshop production of the same name.

Success of Previous Efforts Is Presage of Increasing Interest in Drama

The dramatic workshop of Fremont High school is to present four unusual plays on the nights of March 25 and 26.

The workshop was organized last semester and its success has resulted in the establishment of a Little Theater, the only one of its kind in the county.

To the cast "dramatics" does not mean merely taking part in a play, but the entire management of the play from make-up to stage settings.

A general staff has been appointed to take charge of the production as a whole. In addition to this, a stage manager has been selected from each cast to take the responsibility of the needs of that particular play.

British warships for the first time in history are now carrying commercial travelers to foreign ports as travelers.

CARDINAL URGES NEAR EAST HELP

The following telegram has been received from Cardinal Gibbons, the venerable primate of the Catholic church in America:

"Baltimore, Md.

"After careful investigation am persuaded Near East relief merits endorsement and support from all."

"CARDINAL GIBBONS."

In a written communication his eminence the cardinal says in part:

"Advice and information coming from the Near East cannot be doubted. There is great actual suffering and famine. The Christian and common instincts of humanity which have prompted the people of the United States during the last two years to relieve the distress and needs, especially of the Near East, must not be allowed to grow cold and be diminished. I call upon all to respond generously to the appeal now being made."

"Our Oakland committee is keeping right at this great work to help save at least the children of Armenia. Prothonotary J. J. Rosborough. 'Our headquarters in 244 Bacon building will continue to receive contributions.'"

State Fair Places Apricots on List

Heretofore the State Agricultural Society has never offered premiums on apricots at the annual fair in Sacramento owing to the fact that apricots are so early that by the first week in September they are as a rule out of the market. Alameda county is unquestionably the best apricot country in the State, and has some trees bearing that late.

The county developing commission asked the directors of the State Agricultural Society to place apricots in the premium list. A letter has been received from Charles W. Paine, stating that at the meeting of directors last week it was voted to place "cots" in the premium list. One grower in Berkeley has propagated apricots that do not ripen until about the middle of September. Premiums will hereafter be offered on processed fruits and vegetables.

Chicago Dry Agent Given New Setback

CHICAGO, March 6.—Major A. V. Dalrymple, prohibition officer and leader of the band which set out to wreck the Michigan "rum revolt," got another setback here today.

Calling three men before a United States commissioner for arraignment on charges of violating the Volstead law, Dalrymple was refused the documents.

District Attorney Clyne held that liquor cannot be seized nor booze raids made without warrants. The principle will be followed by the justice department here, he said.

Maeterlinck Will Speak at Berkeley

Maurice Maeterlinck, Belgian philosopher, poet and dramatist, on his transcontinental tour in the interest of the war-stricken people of his native land, will lecture March 19 in the Greek theater, University of California.

INVITES EVERY SHAW IN STATE TO WRITE HIM

M. J. Cronin, printer, poet and playwright of Philadelphia, is endeavoring to locate his "long lost" aunt, Mrs. Mary Cronin Shaw, or her husband, John Shaw, who moved from New York to California and located near Oakland in 1868.

Cronin wants to hear from any Shaw in California, who may possibly be related to him. Shaw, at the time of his marriage to Cronin's aunt, was styled a real estate man, mining promoter and a newspaperman. Mary Cronin Shaw used to send Cronin's mother gold nugget souvenirs from California in the seventies, Cronin says.

Cronin gives his address as General Delivery, Philadelphia.

Attack on Doctor Held Insignificant

SAN FRANCISCO, March 6.—The charges of unprofessional conduct preferred against Dr. Adolph Bauer, local aurist, by Dr. Robert D. Cohn were characterized as "ridiculous," "childish," and "not worth discussing" in a reply for Bauer by Attorney Samuel M. Shogren today. The charges will be heard at a meeting of the directors of the County Medical Society Tuesday night. Dr. Cohn's complaint is based on the allegation that when Bauer was called into a case which Cohn had been handling, Bauer did not notify Cohn of that fact.

Berkeley Planning to Organize Guard

BERKELEY, March 6.—All former members of Berkeley's National Guard as well as all others interested in the formation of a new company of militia in Berkeley, have been urged to attend a meeting called for 8 o'clock, Monday evening, in the council chamber at the city hall.

Adjutant General J. J. Borroa will be the principal speaker of the evening, explaining the new regulations under which National Guard units are to be formed in the future and the remuneration forthcoming to all members of the militia organization.

San Jose Teachers Divided in Meeting

SAN JOSE, March 6.—Dissension in the ranks of the school teachers here which is expected to delay the organization of a teachers' union developed at an organization meeting here this afternoon when the question of the powers of the proposed union to call a strike of its members was voted upon.

A rule of procedure was made that only teachers who had signed and voted. The result was that those who had not signed, the majority at the meeting, left their seats and quit the meeting, leaving but a small group of members of the militia organization to continue with the formation of the union.

COURT CRITICISES PLUMBERS' LAW

Unless attorneys representing the attorney-general, the county and Master Plumbers' and Journeymen Plumbers' Associations can present new points of law by next Friday the State plumbing law will be held unconstitutional as being class legislation, and James E. Fennell, arrested in Berkeley and Oakland, or violating the law, will be granted a writ of habeas corpus, Judge Dudley Kinsell intimated yesterday during further arguments on the question.

Judge Kinsell told counsel that the law seemed to be class legislation, in that it prevented a master or journeyman plumber from working without a license, but did not prevent any one else from doing so. The judge shows that the law is not in the interest of the public health and welfare, but merely enables one faction of plumbers to gain an advantage over another faction.

THE CALIFORNIA NURSERY COMPANY is known throughout the world for the great variety of ornamental and fruit trees which they grow. For instance, at the Panama Pacific International Exposition the Avenue of Palms was the product of the California Nursery at Niles—and there is no exaggeration in the statement that these nurseries have been more intimately connected with the horticultural development of the Pacific Coast for the past fifty-five years than any other single or individual nursery institution in California. Reliability, together with a practical knowledge that is most thorough in its scope, assures the buyer of a proper service for his particular needs.

TO THE FRUIT GROWERS---

Apple Trees in a good assortment, Pears in leading varieties including Bartlett's, French and Imperial Prunes, Peaches, Plums, Apricots, Cherries, Almonds, Persimmons and an excellent assortment of Table Grape Vines may be had in limited quantities.

LANDSCAPE WORK in all of its different branches is continually being executed by the efficient landscape engineers of the California Nurseries. Garden designing—the proper choosing of ornamentals and shrubbery—the harmonious blending of innumerable color schemes—the most appropriate selection of border and flowering plants—together with proper watering, fertilizing and cultivating facilities are only some of the features emphasized in our Landscape Engineering Department.

SPECIAL PREMIUM OFFER---

With every $5.00 (or over) purchase we will give one of our latest introductions in rose bushes. This offer is good only during period included by March 8 and March 13. ONE WEEK ONLY.

STATE WILL PAY VICTIM IT HANGED

JACKSON, Miss., March 6.—The State of Mississippi, if a bill which has been introduced in the Legislature by Representative John Yeager, of Lamar county, is adopted, will pay $5000 to a man who was hanged seventeen years ago. The introduction of the bill recalls a tragic story that aroused intense interest and no little political bitterness throughout the state. The beneficiary of the bill, if it is passed, will be Will Purvis, a former convict of the State of Mississippi.

In 1903 Will Purvis was waylaid, shot and killed as he was riding home from Columbia, accompanied by his brother. They were suspected of having gone before the Grand Jury and divulged secrets of the White Caps, a lawless organization that had been terrorizing and running the negroes out of the county for several months and whose motto was "death to the nigger."

When the trap was sprung, the body of Purvis was found in the woods, the neck broken. The sheriff jumped to take another trial as executioner, but the spectators would have none of it. Purvis was dazed but by no means dead, and accompanied the sheriff back to jail, where he remained until the courts could determine whether or not he was to hang the second time.

A great hue and cry was made against going in the fact of what was called the "hand of Providence" in sparing the life of one then believed to be innocent of the crime charged against him, and it was made an issue in the gubernatorial campaign then on. However, the Supreme Court fixed another day for the execution of Purvis.

MAN IS PARDONED
Anne McLaurin, then candidate for Governor, afterward United States Senator, announced that if he was elected Governor he would commute Purvis's sentence to imprisonment for life and later on pardon him. He was elected and carried out his promise.

Purvis returned home after two years in the penitentiary, married his old sweetheart and they and their children are living happily on an eight-acre farm in Lamar county. Three years ago Joe Beard, of Marion county, then on his deathbed, called in the sheriff, a clergyman and others, and confessed that another had killed Will Purvis. He, Beard, being with him at the time.

Yeager now would have the state pay Purvis, who is of a prominent family, $5000 for his services while on the convict farm and as a belated claim for his normal experience on the gallows. A first cousin of Purvis, the man murdered, favor the bill, and it is believed it will pass.

Barred by Landlords, Children "For Sale"

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., March 6.—After combing the city for three weeks for a house and failing to find one because of the landlords' objection to his three children, W. H. Miller in a public advertisement offered to sell his children or trade them for a poodle dog. Miller said that he found there was no objection anywhere to his having a dog. The day following his advertisement Miller received many offers of places, the landlords confiding that they never thought about the matter in that light before.

CLOTHING FROM GOAT SKIN TO APPEAR AGAIN

NEW YORK, March 6.—The primitive clothing of Robinson Crusoe, who in rhymed tradition "made him a coat of an old billy goat," will be introduced into America in modern guise that may be deemed to be fashionable, according to Jose Benitez de Casade and Joaquin Hernandez, who arrived by the Royal Spanish Mail steamship C. Lopez by Lopez. They represent Spanish manufacturers of goat skin clothing and will establish branches of the business here.

TANK DISCOVERED BY TWO ALLIES

WASHINGTON, March 6.—When Great Britain in the early days of the war began the manufacture of that valuable instrument of war, the tank, it was allowed to leak out from the British war office that the plants where the machines were being made were manufacturing large numbers of tanks for Russia. This cue to roll German spies gave the allied tanks their non de guerre, the war department has announced in a brief history of the tank.

Early in 1915 the use of great numbers of machine guns made attacks impossible without great losses. An answer had to be found on the railroads. Those who imbibed and find national prohibition a nightmare may go to Montreal for relief and for the price of a ticket and a few cents for a drink, they can get a drink of high-grade whisky available here, enjoy a drink, and get back to their homes.

Women of Alameda County and Their Work

Federation of Mothers Plan Benefit Night for Children Needing Food and Clothing

By EDNA B. KINARD

If there was a little child standing near, even a stranger child, hungry and weak, there is not a man or woman in the width and breadth of this city who would not run to its aid bearing warm, hot soup and sustaining meals. If there was a wee waif of a boy who stood cold and bootless there is not a tender heart who would not rush to him with warm garments and with shoes. It is only this that the Oakland Federation of Mothers' Clubs has done. It is only this that the Oakland Federation of Mothers' Clubs is asking men and women and children to do on Tuesday night when at the Fulton Playhouse they share their opportunity with the general public. We all frequent the theaters, why not go on Tuesday night when it will mean milk and bread and meat, shoes and garments and necessities for the little folk of Oakland who are compelled to go to classrooms under the law and compelled to remain away from home, under the lack of necessities and coverings. Poverty is not a myth in Oakland nor a stranger in many struggling homes. If our pleasure will aid in school breakfasts, supplying self respect through the medium of boots and garments, then that pleasure is two fold. It is for this that forty per cent of the sale from the Tuesday night theater tickets will be devoted to the aid of the children who are in need of food and clothing. Of course there will be special tickets in addition to the regular offering of the Fulton Playhouse. With the whole of the juvenile population of Oakland to call upon for assistance, why not? Mrs. T. N. Allen has undertaken to choose a dozen of the prettiest maids in the high and intermediate schools and to rehearse them in an original novelty burlesque skit, whose theme is the mothers' work, contrasting the old and the new, which is bound to create a quarter hour of mirth and fun at the clubwoman's expense. One lone, lone man, who refuses to have his name go before the public as an actor-for-a-night, is cast along with the boys of girls. Biblical injunction for conduct with the left and right hand is rigidly observed by the Oakland Federation which has Mrs. Edward Morgan Jones at its head, and it is but occasionally that the things that they do reaches over into the public mind. Therefore, twice a month mothers present a waxen care of their own little families will meet to all-day thimble bees at the Junior Red Cross Shop to make or mend the materials which may be salvaged from the public's gift that the Community Child, too proud to beg, may find at hand the clothing within its means. Crisp blouses, suits, under garments, stockings, dresses like other girls' costumes, are always on hand to go quietly to the child that otherwise needs go without. The shoe fund keeps in classrooms and in the city treasury many a child and many a dollar which only those who have mastered the tragedy of the shoe may know. Boots blown away in the storms have been replaced; babies whose teeth into the world would be unheralded by layettes or nurse have been provided for; rents have been paid; groceries have been supplied; life has been brightened by mothers' clubs in stronger community interest. If the Mothers' Club had no other achievement in its record there are the daily school breakfasts in the waterfront institutions and the clothing department which has been installed in the Harrison street schoolhouse. Well fed, comfortable people cannot conceive of children starting forth to school hungry. City nurses looking for reasons can tell many a tragic tale of boys and girls who have never had enough to fill their little stomachs and who are named among the modern dances of the classroom. So it is that a all manner of substantial groceries have been gathered from the two score and more local clubs and sent in great plenty to the Garfield, the Harrison and the Prescott schools, that this thing may not be in Oakland. At the Garfield school as many as thirty and forty youngsters selected by the nurses are provided daily with meals which have a direct ratio to promotions and standards. One club has gained the co-operation of a wholesale caterer which adds at least eight loaves of bread daily made into meat sandwiches with an accompaniment of cake and fruit to the Garfield repasts. Cobbling is the art which kids are learning at the Harrison Street school all because the federation accumulated funds to purchase ten hand machines and the board of education furnished an instructor. By the bye when there is money to install lights, the fathers of the community will be invited to come into the classes at night with all the families' shoes. Is there not reason aplenty to attend the annual theater party at Oakland Federation of Mothers' Clubs on Tuesday night and help even in this little way in a wondrous work which is building up girls and boys into future citizens who will be the keepers of the face of the city and the nation. Mrs. Jessie B. Bacon, better known as the "Alfalfa Queen" of the county, who is a native of Nebraska, who spends her summers. An idea of the income that the "Alfalfa Queen" can make is shown from the fact that she has cleared $20,000.

Child Labor Laws Sought

That child labor laws of California are a confusion and not to be intelligently understood even after much perusal by the average woman was the comment which Mrs. A. L. Whitman, chairman of second district, California Congress of Mothers, made at the Oakland Federation of Mothers' Clubs on Tuesday night and help even in this little way in a wondrous work which is building up girls and boys into future citizens who will be the keepers of the face of the city and the nation.

summary has been prepared in a special leaflet by the bureau of research and guidance in the Oakland public schools. As the educational law of California now stands all children between the ages of 8 and 18 years are compelled to attend school except only for the following reasons: physical or mental unfitness, requiring a licensed physician's certificate; attendance on a full time day school taught by capable persons; instruction by a capable private tutor; or, in cases of extreme financial need may a child be granted permission to work and then only when over 15 years of age unless a graduate of an elementary school. Minors between twelve and fifteen years may be issued vacation permits by the principal of the school, to work on regular weekly school holidays and during school vacations. Minors between fifteen and sixteen years old may be granted an age and schooling certificate only in cases of extreme financial need, and when such minor has either graduated from an elementary school or completed the equivalent of the seventh grade. No minor under sixteen years may quit school without obtaining either a permit to work or an age and schooling certificate. To enforce the law certain provisions are made for those employing children of school age with certain fines and penalties for violations.

Leaders from South Confer On State Laws

With A. J. Lawton of Los Angeles coming from the south this week, the March executive meeting of the Women's Legislative Council of California scheduled for Saturday in San Francisco gives promise of unusual interest. The early spring will calendar the state conference when all the legislation which the organized women would see written into the statute books will be submitted, considered, framed into workable shape and sent forth among the hundreds of clubs for a referendum ballot to select the three which will make up the platform of the organization before the next session of the legislature. Mrs. Lawton succeeded Mrs. Albert E. Carter of this city as president of the state body which boasts a membership of more than 90,000 women.

County Welfare League Election Is Announced

The annual meeting and election of officers of the County Welfare League will take place Friday evening, March 12, at a 6 o'clock dinner in the parlors of the First Congregational church, Twelfth and Clay streets, Berkeley. The nominating committee has secured the consent of George A. Edgar, of the Oakland School Department, to take the presidency. He succeeded Attorney E. J. Jones, who has so ably filled the office during the past two years. The outgoing board will be re-elected with one or two exceptions where resignations have been offered. The Public Welfare League is non-partisan and non-sectarian in character, and its affairs are conducted in a sane but aggressive manner by an executive secretary who devotes her entire time to the affairs of the organization under the direction of the executive committee. The Public Welfare League serves as a central bureau of information concerning the volunteer side of civic affairs, with lists of organizations and interested individuals. The league aims to obtain accurate information concerning such civic conditions as affect the moral well-being of the citizens of Alameda county, more particularly the young, and to co-operate with public officials in framing and enforcing such additional preventive legislation as may be needed. Oakland Club announces for Wednesday afternoon at Hotel Oakland a musical and literary program with some delightful surprises, presented in the non-commercial playhouse. Mrs. Frederick E. Adams will be chairman of the day, assisted by a dozen or so prominent members. An oak tree will be planted in Berkeley Park on Wednesday, March 17, in memory of the twenty-seven members who have passed away, at an impressive ceremony which will be presided over by Miss Grace Trevor as chairman. The March luncheon is announced for the fourth Wednesday at Hotel Oakland.

Why Burden Yourself With Fat?

From time immemorial fat has been a burden. It is not needed in a body. It is a hindrance to activity, a curb upon pleasure. It is of all that is pretty and graceful, and sweet in womanhood. Why don't you take off the fat where it shows? You can do so easily, safely and without the slightest pain or harm or bad after-effects by using a pleasant little Marmaline Prescription Tablet. These little tablets are as effective and harmless as the famous prescription from which they take their name. Buy and try a case today. You will find it sells them at $1.00 or 10¢ per box. Write or call for a free trial box to the Marmaline Co., 363 Broadway, New York City. You can thus say goodbye to extra weight, extra exercise and extra food and get back the graceful figure and poise you desire.

'Art in France,' Lecture Topic

"Art in France" is the general theme for the program for which the art and travel section of the Twentieth Century Club is claiming the presence of the members on Tuesday afternoon. Mme. E. V. Matignon will offer the following numbers: (a) "Customs and Costumes and the Lace Industry of the Peasants of Brittany." (b) "Jeanne d'Arc—Her Home at Domremy." (c) "Cathedrals in France." Mrs. Frederick C. Lee will render a group of folk songs and old and modern French songs, for which Mrs. Frank H. Thatcher will play the violin obligato. Miss Madeline Becker will act as accompanist. The new section for cards, which is designed for pleasure, but more particularly for the creation of a fund, which will purchase needed furnishings for the club, will give the first party on Wednesday in the clubhouse, the members having in anticipation a delightfully informal hour. Mrs. David Bigelow is chairman of the section, which has announced a series of four afternoons.

California Day Services

California Day will be celebrated on Tuesday by the Rock Ridge Woman's Club with particular honors being given to Joaquin Miller, the "Poet of the Sierra," and to those who have sung of the glories of this golden land. The way the padres trod will not be forgotten nor will it be omitted to remind them that the famous old missions which they built along the King's Highway must not pass from the earth. Charles S. Greene, curator of Oakland Free Library, and G. G. Weigle of San Francisco, will be the speakers. Greene will review the life and writings of the western singer of verse who has made "The Light" above many famous principal prose works and a sketch Weigle has chosen as his theme the old missions. "The Golden Gate" will open the program, sung by Mrs. C. W. Sites and chorus. Two ensembles will be rendered by Mrs. N. A. Hawkins, Mrs. C. Hitchcock, Mrs. S. W. Heathcote and Mrs. A. Kirkman. "Spanish Echoes" is the piano solo which Mrs. W. P. L. Houshous will offer. "I Love You, California," by a woman's chorus will complete the musical numbers. The California History and Landmarks section on Friday will continue its study of Joaquin Miller, offering in addition to the reading of bits of his most beautiful verse an outline of his principal prose works and a sketch of his life.

Ebell Club to Give Dinner

Ebell is asking its husbands, its brothers, its sweethearts and its friends to break bread in the hands of some Harrison street clubhouse and to enjoy on Tuesday night such a brilliant function as has not been the lot of many Lenten seasons to offer. Dr. George C. Pardee, former governor of California, and Mrs. Pardee, Dr. Charles A. Dukes and Mrs. Dukes, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Leonard Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Smith will be the hosts and hostesses for the occasion which will vary the usual afternoon promenade. It is a formal, elegant dinner which the Ebell club is arranging, with 7 o'clock set as the hour when all shall have gathered beneath the hospitable roof. Mrs. Minna McGauley, president, will preside as toastmistress. In compliment to the club, which may be termed a sort of foster mother, the Wednesday Morning Choral, which numbers some of the best trained voices in the Eastbay cities, has arranged a concert program, which will be offered at 9 o'clock, under Paul Steindorff, director. Many for whom covers could not be provided earlier in the evening will join the throng for the concert.

Adelphian Club Traditions to Be Followed

With a meeting of the membership committee and a practice of the dramatic section announced for Tuesday; with the civic and Shakespearian sections planning programs for Wednesday; with the advisory board to hold an important session on Friday, the Adelphian Club during the coming week is devoting its energies largely to its own interests. Miss Belle Garrette, president, and her membership, however, are having strenuous days during the early week, making and remaking the plans which will uphold the traditions which Alameda has acquired for hospitality when the Alameda district, California Federation of Women's Clubs, next month holds the annual convention in the clubhouse. Mrs. Evelyn Stebbins and Miss Spaulding, representing the dramatic section, will be assisted by Mrs. G. D. Loderbach, Mrs. W. C. Hile, Mrs. Leroy Moore, Mrs. Warren Olney Jr., Mrs. George M. Stratton, Mrs. F. C. Turner and Mrs. William E. Woolster. "Community Centers" will be discussed by Miss Elizabeth Aale of the San Francisco Neighborhood House before the Friday luncheon of the social service section.

folk, the Moditts, on both sides of the bay, was made the motif for a luncheon on Tuesday at the Woman's Athletic Club, Miss Elizabeth Magee the hostess. The guests were the Misses Vere de Vere Adams, Elizabeth Adams, Claire Knight, Mary Kennedy, Jessie Knowles and Amanda McNear.

The young visitor is having an amazing time with her kinsfolk and their friends, with never a day that something exciting isn't on the cards. It is her plan to remain in the West until the approach of summer, when she will return to her home to prepare for the summer hagia.

The William A. Magee, including their lovely young daughter, who made her bow this winter, and the two sons, are planning an Eastern trip that will carry them through all the interesting sights of the country, with New York, of course, their ultimate aim.

Whether they will go in May, when young Magee leaves college, or subdue their eagerness to be off and wait until the fall, when the big things are happening—the opera and the plays and the big premieres—everything is as yet under discussion.

But whether it shall be in the month of blossoms or in the months of the russet leaves, it goes without saying that the California beauty will have the time of her young life in the hectic doings, for the Magees have a lot of friends in the big town that will make things interesting, besides having a batch of relatives scattered at various intervals—Mrs. Magee's mother, Mrs. Valentine Hush making her temporary home in Vermont with her daughter.

The ceremony whereby Morrison Egbert will make Miss Ruth Bernhard his bride will take place on April 7, when a large company of friends will witness the service that will be read in Trinity Episcopal church. The bridal group will include Mrs. Edna Berg, sister of the bride, as matron of honor; Miss Dorothy Egbert, sister of the groom, the honor maid, and four bridesmaids—the Misses Mildred Olsen, Allison Warner, Heaton Leete, Grace Ziegenfuss, besides Charles Egbert, best man for his brother.

Ever so many affairs are being given for the bride-elect—the last a tea on Tuesday at which Miss Mildred Olsen was hostess.

It was a smart tea that Mrs. George Cicero Browne arranged yesterday in honor of Miss Frances Worden, fiancée of Robert Christy, seventy-five guests calling to meet the popular bride-elect. The hostess was assisted by her daughter, Miss Helen Browne, the home in Boulevard way being made gay for the affair with masses of spring flowers.

A gymkhana is on at Del Monte for the middle of April—the 13th and 19th, to be exact.

Now a gymkhana may be any sort of an out-of-doors doings. It has come down to us from our brethren out in the Mandelay country, where it means thrilling things—elephants and trappings and lions

Art and Artists

"Men of the Sea," a brilliant canvas by Armin Hansen, whose eclectic exhibition at the Print Rooms finds the serious young painter firmly in the front ranks of California painters. The show reveals a spiritual insight not discernible in his earlier work, not, however, to the extent of minimizing the splendid vitality and enthusiasm of his presentations. A notable exhibition that should interest every lover of art.

and cork helmets—the kind Burton Holmes wears in his pictures. But with us it is just horses and knick-knacks, and ball and mallet, but the polo contests are promised to be exciting affairs, with a lot of comedy stunts on the side. And there will be thread-needle races and a lot of fool things to make up for the absence of elephants. The gymkhana follows as an aftermath of the annual polo tournament, to which crack players are coming from the east and south, augmenting a number already on the ground. Some of the players have come from over the water, and are in daily practice on the field. Some lively playing is looked for.

The Harry Pendletons were dinner hosts on Thursday, entertaining in honor of the Peter B. Kyne, who are leaving soon for the Orient.

Rembrandt Reveals Himself To a Discerning Audience

By LAURA BRIDE POWERS

The Rembrandt etchings and drawings, the cream of the incomparable J. Pierpont Morgan collection that opened on Saturday, the 27th, at the Palace of Fine Arts, has demonstrated two related things—first, that San Francisco and her neighbors are as keen for great things in the graphic arts as they are for the great expressions of dramatic art; and second, that the people—the man-in-the-street and his wife—have developed an appreciation for black and white that bespeaks an art consciousness looked for only in communities where art is a practice of all the people for generations.

Prints—concepts that depend upon the subtleties of chiaroscuro for color—constitute the most refined form of graphic art. Obviously, absence of the lure of color limits their audience, and appreciation of them is not instinctive, but a matter of education.

Therefore it is a happy fact of record that the first week of the Rembrandt prints at the Palace by the Lagoon has been phenomenal in attendance. Last Sunday, when it rained in most discouraging fashion, several hundred men and women—laymen mostly—spent hours in the galleries, indeed until the guard went his rounds to rout out any absent-minded dreamer.

At the outset, no appraisal can be too high for the taste and skill with which the catalogue has been prepared. It is entirely worthy of the incomparable master that it presents to the people.

It is a compilation that adds much to the Rembrandia of America, and for it, our gratitude, Mr. Laurvik.

Nearly all the great Rembrandt etchings are shown in the exhibition, some of them revealing as many as six states of development—"The Mill," "Three Trees," "Descent from the Cross," "The Crucifixion," "Christ Before Pilate," "Death of the Virgin," "Gold-wheeler," "Christ With Sick Children Around Him," "The Landscape with a Square Tower," and all of the amazing self-portraits—some twenty-five in the group.

FROM YOUTH TO AGE

In order the better to follow the master's aesthetic and spiritual development—are not the terms synonymous?—Director Laurvik has arranged the concepts in the order of their execution, some of them dating from his nineteenth year before he had found his way into Italy and upon somewhat under the influence of her artists, down almost to the year of his death. And following the ripening of his understanding, step by step, wholly apart from his technical progress, is one of the affirmations of the show. But to follow one must have time and to spare—and a sympathetic companion, or go it alone. Etchings are an intellectual phase of aesthetic expression, and so one must take one's mind along when he goes. It is no place for the chatterer, nor the ultra emotionalist but shy as they stray in, be not afraid. They won't tarry. The teamwork will be more to their taste—and yours.

In the collection, Mr. Laurvik has installed some masterpieces that likewise quicken interest in the opportunity it offers to compare them with the spirit and rendering of the great humanist's indisputable productions.

And if it were necessary still further to stimulate interest, a study of the "states" of the plates will furnish an exciting hunt in the second and the successive workings—sometimes a whole element is dropped out, as in the "Christ and Little Children."

Here a group of spectators stand before the Saviour, in the midst of a mob of supplicants. Apparently the creator thought the group in the foreground, weakened his story, so in the last state, he had wiped out every figure, leaving you and me to take the place of the astounded beholders.

This striking evidence of self-criticism is a keynote to the genius of the man, as analytic of his own work as he was of his pupils or comrades.

Whether it be his landscapes, his portraits—there are twenty-five or more of himself and an infinite number of presentations of Saskia, his beloved wife—in some things or his religious or classical compositions, the master-soul appears—a man who rises above the centuries through an almost divine understanding of nature.

PORTRAITS CHARACTER

It is true to speak of him as the Shakespeare of Holland, but he delineates the characters of the people of the Low Countries and of his time with as much fidelity as does the Bard of Avon of his time and country, both wandering forth as they grew to the wide world for their subjects, no longer confined except by the limitations of life.

Of the painter's versatility, Mr. Laurvik says in his preface to the catalogue, "In the richness of their inner content these etchings demand a certain substitution in the life story of graphic art. Rembrandt, the man is always present in his work, not only in the marvelous series of autobiographical self-portraits in which we may trace the growth of the inner man through years of changing fortune, but we behold him in moods of high exaltation, the happy husband and the courted idol of the elite, and in his moments of deep melancholy, forgotten, neglected, dying in obscurity; the noble history of a man whose life was a synthesis of humanity. Princes, paupers, strolling musicians, beggars, rat-catchers, famous divines, scholars and scientists, the outcast lepers, ship-builders, merchants, bankers, patricians and substantial burghers, all pass in review before us. And all this expressed so simply, without the slightest affectation of mannerism."

To the hermetically-sealed mind in the matter of modern art, it would commend many of Rembrandt's concepts—notably "The Crucifixion of Christ," or "The Three Crosses." Here is a modern who knew how to subject all else to his subject matter, and in the doing his simple statements are classics.

The coming of this collection to the western rim of the world, where great exhibitions seldom reach out because of our noble distance from art centers, is greatest educational achievement of the regime since the Exposition. Not so thrilling as the Zuloaga exhibition with its dynamics of color and subject matter, nor yet of the Anisfeld show, it should prove a tremendous constructive force among creative folk. As for its power to interest the man-in-the-street, that is already demonstrated. The exhibition will hold the boards for six weeks, for which a charge is made of 25 cents to defray the expense of bringing out the collection. A two-million dollar collection of small pictures is a sensitive thing to care for, and it costs a penny or two for its safeguarding.

RALPH HOLMES EXHIBITS IN EAST

Ralph Holmes, whose exhibition of sketches and paintings last winter at the Oakland art gallery was one of the most interesting episodes of the year, has had three highly successful shows—one at Los Angeles, another at the Carnegie Institute, Pittsburgh, and the third at the up-and-coming Minneapolis gallery. Each was made up practically of the same collection of glowing little pictures that refreshed our hearts when they hung in the Oakland gallery, except for the murals that were executed

This picture shows the complete set of the new Eleventh Edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica in the tremendously popular Handy Volume issue printed on genuine India paper. The twenty-nine volumes contain 44,000,000 words, 30,000 pages, and are the work of 1,500 recognized authorities from every civilized country in the world. While this set contains a great wealth of information on every subject known to the human mind, the entire twenty-nine volumes, because they are printed on the wonderfully light, thin but opaque India paper, occupy only 31 inches of shelf room, and each volume, which is no larger than the ordinary magazine, may be held with comfort by the reader for hours at a time.

NOW IS THE TIME TO USE THE ENCYCLOPAEDIA BRITANNICA

THIS is a crucial age, this reconstruction era, a time of great changes, a live, awakened, alert age, an age of great progress, of great initiative, an age of interests that are world wide. Momentous social, political, industrial and economic changes are affecting the welfare of this nation and every country in the world. Americans today are not only interested in the government and the affairs of their own city, state and country, but have become deeply concerned in the people and the political and social conditions of many nations throughout the world. Where can people find correct, authoritative and comprehensive information on the many subjects in which they are interested as a consequence of this awakening? They naturally turn to the wonderful storehouse of knowledge—the world's greatest guide to correct and authoritative information—the Encyclopaedia Britannica. The Britannica will give a foundation for study of subjects which will be uppermost in our minds for years to come. The Britannica is a great work of useful information. It is a book for Americans today who are waking up to new thoughts, new work and new interests.

Now as Never Before You Need the Britannica

During the past few years the business of this nation has greatly expanded. So terrific has been the pressure to produce tremendous quantities of materials in the shortest length of time that out of necessity efficiency has been the watchword of the day. Great progress has been made in shop management—there have been many inventions, many short cuts have been found for better and quicker production of material. Today marks the period of this country's greatest industrial development. In many industries peace has meant a far greater speeding up than even during the war, and competition has become smarter. All of these are signs of the times and demand far greater aggressiveness, knowledge and capacity on the part of the employer and employee.

Under these conditions men are required to have the best means of knowledge, the best tools, with which they can keep abreast of the times and fulfill the stricter requirements of our awakened industrial world. The young man returning from war must capitalize his vigor and determination in order to make his mark in the world. The big army of workers who are fearful of falling back into their ruts of pre-war days must have knowledge and equipment in order to build upon the progress made during the war.

A Marvelous Library of Knowledge

The great work with its 41,000 separate articles is marvelously complete. The Britannica is a great library of knowledge on every subject known to the human mind: discusses in a way that you can understand every branch of science, industry, literature, art, religion, invention and engineering, history and race development, wars and peace, architecture, astronomy, chemistry, sociology, education, steam, electricity, geology, geography, law, physics. You and your family will find the Britannica a liberal education. In answer to the hundred and one questions which every day come to your mind—and to your wife's and children's minds—questions which arise in discussion at your club or in your business—it will tell you more about everything than you can get from any other source.

What of Today's Problems?

Do you understand the highly serious problems of our industrial life? Why are the prices of commodities high? Will wages go still higher or will they fall? What are the economic causes of the high cost of living? Is there likely to be some great economic disturbance that will cause a precipitate fall in wages and prices? Is the Soviet government in Russia likely to persist and spread to other countries or has it already about spent its force? The Encyclopaedia Britannica sets forth in its great articles the economic laws by which the world is governed. We must consider the problems of today in the light of past experience. Has the Soviet in Russia anything in common with the French Revolution?

This wonderful book—the new Encyclopaedia Britannica—literally spreads before the reader the knowledge of the whole world. It tells about foreign countries, characteristics of the people, their resources, exports and imports, trade possibilities, their history and progress. An hour a day with the Britannica will give you as clear and comprehensive an idea of the rest of the world as we Americans now have of the states of the Union.

The Woman of Today Needs the Britannica

Woman's position politically, industrially and economically has changed radically in the past five years. Woman has become a power in politics, for her vote is respected and valued. She has taken a more important place in the industrial world. The sensible and up to date woman is studying the cost of foods, food markets and food values. The Britannica is invaluable to woman with its splendid articles on politics, on industries, on domestic science, on foods and on everything pertaining to the home. To the mother with children to educate, the Britannica is indispensable and it will give her the information to teach her children wisely and correctly.

These Sets Printed on India Paper

The present small stock of sets is printed on the genuine India paper—the light, thin but opaque sheet which has proven an ideal medium on which to print the Encyclopaedia Britannica, on account of the comfort and ease with which the books may be handled and read. The beautiful texture of the clean, white, easy reading page gives a luxurious appearance and a supreme joy in owning the Britannica.

$1 as a First Payment will bring you the Complete Set of 29 Volumes, Containing 30,000 Pages, 41,000 Articles, 44,000,000 Words, 15,000 Maps and Illustrations. Balance in Small Monthly Payments.

We Are Offering All Sets in the Handy Volume Issue Printed on the Genuine India Paper at a Great Bargain

The genuine India paper, so marvelous in its texture, so thin, so strong and yet so practicable, is manufactured of flax and hemp and other materials imported from European countries. The demand has been so great for the Britannica printed on this India paper, because the books are so much more handy, that we have obtained additional sets manufactured with the same careful workmanship and in the same beautiful bindings. These sets are bound in the substantial cloth, the beautiful, durable, semi-flexible sheepskin, and the exquisite Levant. We have also procured sets printed on the standard book paper, which is the paper generally used for books. These sets are sold at prices which make them a tremendous bargain to those who have not already purchased.

We Will Send You Our Illustrated Booklet Describing These Books in Detail

This booklet consists of 136 pages with hundreds of illustrations, beautifully printed, and describes in detail these sets. This booklet cost us, to prepare and print, thousands of dollars. It is yours for the asking and will be sent to you postpaid.

IN ALAMEDA COUNTY LODGE ROOMS

OAKLAND LODGE T. F. M.
The regular meeting of the lodge was held in Corinthian Hall Pacific building, February 23. Resolutions of sympathy were adopted and sent to the widow of Fred Elmer, who passed away on the 15th, and to Brother Elmer, who lost his mother on the 11th. Resolutions were also passed for the sick members. Several new applicants were elected to membership. Mae Gerreich was the winner of the February membership attendance drawing.

After the routine of business a Leap Year party and dance was held under the direction of Mary Meyer. Following several dances there was a heart drawing. When all hearts were matched a grand march was played and all repaired to the banquet hall, where "hot dogs," salad and coffee were served. After a pleasant feast the ladies held full away on the dance floor until a late hour.

COURT ADVOCATE.
Court Advocate, No. 7172, A. O. E. elected delegates to the high-court convention at Berkeley next May as follows: H. E. Henderson, J. T. Harris, M. J. E. Anderson, J. W. F. Nelson, F. J. Anderson, J. Thos. Welbridge, A. C. Pershing. The following were elected alternates: H. B. Wayne, A. J. Elmer, August Realy, O. E. McLean, William R. Lippincott, George A. Ricketts, N. M. Peterson, George W. Cooper. The court will start a campaign for new members this month.

OAKLAND AERIE.
Oakland Aerie will attend the class initiation of Alameda Aerie next Thursday night, March 11, at their Eagles home, Alameda avenue and Oak street. Among those from Oakland who will ride the goat are C. P. Verneil, Emil Grossmann, Joseph Pine, F. Patricia Crowe, Louis Brower, Edward R. Williams, James W. Law, Edward G. Rogers, C. O. Seif, J. J. Smith, E. P. Buell, S. J. Anthony, O. A. Edelmier, Art Edelmier, and J. L. D. Kepp. Golden Gate Aerie of San Francisco will have charge of the initiation. Worthy President A. J. Schlager will preside. State President E. J. Sanford will make an official visit. Aerie and the day have been invited and entertainment and a spread will close the affair.

ADONA PARLOR.
Adona Parlor, N. D. G. W. No. 106, will hold a whist party on Tuesday evening, March 9, in the Pacific building. The affair is under the supervision of the following committee: Miss Maud Mitchell, Mrs. Minnie Martin, Miss Sallie Rutherford and Miss Ruth Toribum.

LADIES OF G. A. R.
Colonel J. R. Wynan Circle, No.

Ladies of the G. A. R. met Tuesday afternoon in Golden West Hall, but owing to illness the president, Emma W. Hale, was not present. The senior vice-president, Sarah J. Jordan, conducted the meeting. The sick members were all reported improving. Several of the members had visited Mrs. Gertrude Giddaby, who has been in St. Luke's hospital, San Francisco, for the last seven months, suffering from a broken hip. She was reported improving very rapidly and is hoping soon to be able to walk with the aid of crutches.

One member was initiated and others reported they would join the circle by transfer card. Mrs. May David, past patriotic instructor from Gettysburg Circle, No. 42, Department of Washington and Alaska, was present and made some pleasing remarks. The executive committee is planning for a St. Patrick's social to be held with Portage G. A. R. at Memorial Hall, City Hall, March 15.

GIRLS OF THE CIVIL WAR.
The Women and Girls of '61 and '65 met in Memorial Hall, City Hall, the sessions opening in usual form. Captain Fidler in the chair. Sick members were all reported improving, except President Denslow, who is very ill. A letter was received from Sister Jackson, a member of Watsonville, also one from Margaret Blackall, a member of Berkeley, N. M. Peterson, George W. Cooper, the court will start a campaign for new members this month.

OAKLAND AERIE.

ADONA PARLOR.
Adona Parlor, N. D. G. W. No. 106, will hold a whist party on Tuesday evening, March 9, in the Pacific building. The affair is under the supervision of the following committee: Miss Maud Mitchell, Mrs. Minnie Martin, Miss Sallie Rutherford and Miss Ruth Toribum.

wish him a speedy recovery. Twenty-five dollars was donated for the relief of Brother Lamphier's widow and children. The use of the lodge room was given to Abu Said Temple, No. 201, D. O. K. K. on the last meeting night of this month. The entertainment committee reported progress on the annual roll call meeting to be held on the 24th of this month. The trustees reported the purchase of new robes, which will make a ritualistic work more beautiful. Six strangers were initiated in the Page rank. Each one expressed his pleasure at being able to join the order. They were Donald Sweet, Hugh S. Williams, Earl Ring, Charles Hansen, Bruce Parker and Edna George.

After the initiation all present retired to the banquet hall, where refreshments were served. Brothers Johanson, Bernstein and Golden of Oakland 144, Brother Nichols of Berkeley, No. 80, and other visitors responded to calls for short talks. Invitation was extended to Loyal Temple, Pythian Sisters, to participate in the refreshments and they say at the next time they will be there. The Esquire rank will be conferred upon a class of six pages next Wednesday.

JUNIOR ORDER, U. A. M.
Custer Council held an initiation on Tuesday night, March 3, when two candidates were given the first and four were put through the second degree. Three applicants were elected on ballot and two applications were presented. New regalia was ordered for the officers. Three members were reported sick, though nothing serious. The council is fortunate in not having had much sickness among its members. Preparations are under way for the entertainment of the State Council, which meets here on March 18, 17 in annual session.

LAKEVIEW LODGE, K. O. F.
The regular monthly dance of the Lakeside Lodge, No. 142, K. O. F., held on February 23, was quite a success both from a social and financial standpoint. All the members present, enjoyed the evening very much. The next regular dance will be held Monday evening, March 23, at Pythian Castle. A good attendance of all the brothers is urged. Esquire rank will be held next Monday evening, March 8, at the castle, Twelfth and Alameda streets.

UNITED ARTISANS.
Golden Gate Assembly No. 62 met in regular business session Friday evening, February 21. There was a good attendance and a very enthusiastic meeting resulted. Seven new members were received into the assembly by initiation and two by transfer. Visiting Artisans from Portland, Oregon, Washington, San Francisco and Richmond were present. The boost committee reported progress in the campaign for new members. The supreme master, Artisan, H. S. Hudson, will visit the assemblies in California during April. Friday evening, March 12, the assembly will entertain their friends, the occasion being a Shamrock entertainment and dance. The house committee and drill team are in charge of arrangements.

AL. IT INVIDIA.
Abait Invidia meets every first and third Monday evening of each month at Odd Fellows Temple. The last meeting Sister Rae Thompson, noble grand, appointed the committee to plan for the deputy's official visit in April. All members of Abait Invidia are asked to be present next meeting, which will be March 15.

SECURITY BENEFIT.
The Security Benefit Association, Oakland Council, No. 733, held an initiation and an entertainment Friday at 1919 Grove street. The affair was followed by a social. President W. F. Neal was said to have presided, the first time since the organization was formed.

FRUITFUL REVIEW.
Fruitful Review, No. 16, Woman's Benefit Association of the Macabees, met Thursday evening in the W. O. W. hall, Mrs. Leona Hart presiding. Visitors reported by the lady-at-arms were Captain Maud Egan and Color Bearers Mrs. Block and Mrs. Guild of Oakland Review; also Minnie Wells, formerly an active member, and at one time commander of this review. The latter is now a member of the Santa Rosa Review. All were made welcome by the commander.

It was voted upon to give a whist benefit on the 25th of the month. Mrs. Payne was appointed chairman, Mrs. Mahan and Mrs. Homes to assist. With this able committee in charge the affair is expected to be a success. There will probably be fifty tables. The prizes have of which were donated by the members of the night of the meeting. More definite arrangements will be made at the next session of the review.

made at the next session of the review. The members voted to join Argonaut Review, the 13th of the review. The candidates balloted upon will be initiated at the next meeting. Captain Egan and Color Bearers Mrs. Block and Mrs. Guild from Oakland Review will assist in the ceremony.

OAKLAND TENT, MACABEES.
Oakland Tent, No. 103, the Macabees, enjoyed the splendid work of its degree team last Monday evening. The team was in good working order and its interpretation of the Macabean ritual received the commendation of the members present, as well as the following applicants for membership-elect, who were conducted through the initiation ceremony by the noble grand, George H. Wilson, John Begler, Henry C. Schafer, John Brantovich, Robert E. Speer, Bernard F. Well, Samuel A. Adams, Charles L. Grunmer, John Lipanovich, Paul E. La Voie, Hart H. Mathews, Charles H. Meyer, Roma R. Rugger, Joseph Fredina and Joseph N. Stebbins.

Ten applications for membership were received and six which were received at the previous review were elected. The tent will initiate another large class March 23. The regular whist tournament will be given next Monday evening and all knights and ladies of the Macabees are invited to be present. Their wives, husbands, sweethearts or friends will be welcome. No fees will be charged. Playing will start at 9 o'clock sharp.

OAKLAND REBEKAH, I. O. O. F.
Oakland Rebekahs Lodge, No. 16, held its regular meeting Saturday evening, February 28, in Odd Fellows Temple, Noble Grand Lucy Lovise Rose presiding. The visiting committee, reported D. A. Johnson, W. F. Moran, F. A.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 6.—The mayor has cleared away one matter which had been distressing some of the political quidnuncs and promoting the curiosity of nearly everybody—he is not going to run for Senator. He has put forth the reasonable explanation that the city having elected him to a third term, he would be a slacker to desert it now with the great problems it has to face. He had not uttered himself to this effect before for the reason that he did not consider it seemly to announce his intent before taking office under his third election. Pausing merely to observe that nearly two months elapsed after his third term began before he spoke, it is legitimate to say that the Senatorial question in its Republican aspects has got into a more complicated shape in that time. With Rolph eliminated, Sam Shortridge announces that he will make another try at the toga. As Sam stalked in his camp after the last senatorial primary, most of his organization going over to the Democratic candidate, the announcement that he seeks Republican support is likely to arouse little enthusiasm among party leaders. A united south would unquestionably win for that section a United States senator, recognition to which Southern California is justly entitled. Factional differences, however, bid fair to deprive the south of such representation. Edwin A. Meserve and former Lieutenant Governor Wallace, both of Los Angeles, are engaged in a struggle that is daily growing more bitter and lessening the chances of a fair division of senatorial honors between the two big sections of the state. The one who is undoubtedly taking the greatest immediate satisfaction in the situation is William Kent, and the one who is biding his time is the Democratic candidate.

Hoover Boom Lags

The Hoover boom in San Francisco seems to have suddenly slowed up. A meeting was arranged here to be held a few days ago, but for some reason it was not held. It was not called off, but no one attended. Those instrumental in calling it had no explanation to offer why it was not held. But apparently the reason was that Mr. Hoover would not declare himself to be either a Republican or a Democrat. There are some who seem to think his action foreshadows an attempt to form a new non-partisan party, along the lines of the North Dakota organization; but there are others who think this is not possible, the time being so limited. However, there are indications that neither of the two great parties feels absolutely sure of the extreme loyalty of all its followers. Evidences have not been lacking of their want of unanimity on such matters as the League of Nations, prohibition, income tax, free speech, etc. Some Democratic leaders appear to be counting on this to help out in such complications as William J. Bryan and the Non Partisan League. The political elements are inchoate, and there is a pervading indication through all of them that some considerable changes are inevitable.

The Labor Party

The leaders of organized labor in San Francisco are divided over the question of forming a political labor party. Notwithstanding that Samuel Gompers and P. H. McCarthy have declared against such action, leaders of considerable prominence on the coast hold that the formation of a distinct party is to the best interests of organized labor and will proceed accordingly. This appears to be a struggle between the conservative and radical wings. Those who are opposed say that the cooperation of labor representatives within the Democratic and Republican parties would be lost. For many years labor advocates who, through one cause and another find themselves within the bulwarks of the older parties, have been courted and coddled, with the result that they have received much consideration and been enabled to accomplish a great deal for the cause. Their prestige would be gone at once and themselves would be more or less estranged if their methods would now be interfered with by the formation of a party that would give them such an entirely different status. The overwhelming defeat of the labor candidate for mayor of Seattle during the week has somewhat lessened the enthusiasm of those who advocate the forming of the new party.

Campaign Thunder Silenced

The announcement of Chairman Hays of the Republican National Committee, that the party would rely on small contributions—“from a dollar up”—to meet the expense of the coming campaign, and that no contribution of more than one thousand dollars would be received, was a surprise to many, and particularly to Democrats, who had been rather active in encouraging the idea that their opposition would be financed by the money trust, which they have been at some pains to differentiate as the packers and the profiteers. However, there need be no calculation on financial stress now that “the interests” are barred. The Republican rank and file are so thoroughly awake to their patriotic duty that they are not hesitating to come forward with their offerings within the limitations prescribed by the national chairman. Undoubtedly some Democratic campaign ammunition has been dampened by this proceeding. It will not be possible for spellbinders to make a point with credulous followers by relating how Wall street and the predatory millionaires generally have fattened the Republican casher by big checks.

Wets and Drys Mobilizing

The Edwards boom is growing. Governor Edwards of New Jersey is the only presidential aspirant to unequivocally announce that he is running wet. Not only that, but that he is going to insist on a wet plank in the Democratic platform. This means, as previously predicted, a hot prohibition fight in the San Francisco convention. Others who are hovering within the lightning's range are willing to have it understood that they are tolerant of the wet idea, but Edwards makes it the principal thing. His boomers say he is coming with the Jersey 28, the New York 92, the Pennsylvania 76, the Illinois 62, the Maryland 30, the Virginia 24, the North Carolina 20 (O. Josephus!) and the West Virginia 14. They say this will give him the balance of power in the nominating body, which will consist of 1276 delegates. On Tuesday Governor Edwards said, immediately on signing the bill passed by the Jersey Legislature authorizing the manufacture and sale (so far as a State can confer such authority) of 3½ per cent beverages: “My work has been and will be to restore the ancient principles of American freedom. . . . I want it established that Congress is representative of the whole people, and I am going to the Democratic convention in San Francisco to have this made plain—to carry the fight into the convention—and I know what that fight means.” On the other hand, the country has been informed by Mr. Bryan of his intentions. He expects to keep moisture out of the platform. As a matter of fact, he expects to insert a dry plank, and to shape the frame work otherwise in a manner that the wet proponents are not likely to be in sympathy with. When an irresistible force meets an immovable body, that which happens is axiomatic. Consequently, there is a prospect of an impact when the national convention meets here in June such as has seldom occurred on such occasions. Governor Edwards will be backed by Tammany and the considerable force that makes the wet question paramount. Mr. Bryan will be backed by that indefinite Democratic support that always gets behind him in party controversies, as well as by a national sentiment that is avowedly dry—and they will go to it.

Presidential Interference

Much excitement has been caused by the action of the Honolulu Oil Company in publicly protesting against the interference by President Wilson with the decision of Franklin K. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, in certain litigation which was pending before him. It is claimed that under positive instructions from the President the Secretary had for six months refrained from filing his decision in this case, which decision is claimed to have been in favor of the oil company. Representatives of the Honolulu Oil Company do not hesitate to stigmatize this action of the President as more obnoxious than Carranza's general attitude on the Mexican oil questions. They lay it to Secretary Daniels, whom they regard as a consistent and bitter opponent of oil men in the West. They claim there are several eminent Democrats very prominently interested in California oil, and who are much shaken in their party fealty by this matter. No names have been given, but everybody conversant with these matters at once thinks of E. L. Doheny, Timothy Spallary, Fred Hall and some others.

Collector Davis Takes Issue

SAN FRANCISCO, March 1.—In last Sunday's Knave The Knave speaks of the large number of federal employees who are registered as Republicans. That a large majority of federal employees are registering as Republicans is doubtless true and would be significant were it not also true that the same majority of federal employees also registered as Republicans in 1918 and 1916 and 1914 and 1912, and even farther back than that. It is quite a natural thing for federal civil employees to do because the vast majority of them are Republicans, and there is utterly no political significance in their registering this year with the party with which they have always been affiliated. In the same article The Knave also very unjustly holds up ex-Secretary McAdoo as a horrible example of partisanship in his administration in the Treasury Department. Even a superficial investigation would have enabled The Knave to know that the statement is utterly without foundation in fact, and is very unjust to a secretary of the treasury who perhaps paid less attention to politics than any man who has ever occupied that position. To my knowledge Secretary McAdoo appointed two Republican assistant secretaries of the treasury, and people who have been in the government service for a quarter of a century and who are entirely reliable say without hesitation that no secretary of the treasury has ever been so free from partisanship as was Mr. McAdoo. I trust you will give this simple statement of fact, which can be verified upon investigation, the same publicity that the unjust and untrue reference to Mr. McAdoo received. Very truly yours J. O. Davis.

Financing a Public Graft Inquiry

An attempt is being made to raise a fund by private subscription to thoroughly investigate the conditions surrounding the police courts; but it is understood that those behind the movement are not receiving the encouragement which they expected. San Francisco had one graft prosecution financed by private subscription, and the result was very far from satisfactory. It gave the city a reputation for iniquity from which it has never recovered, and resulted in practically nothing but arousing hatreds among factions which the passage of time doesn't seem to allay. Some who have been approached in this latest canvassing are frank in saying that a public prosecution by private subscription is a greater abuse than any which may be sought to be corrected. The Grand Jury having been advised that charges of irregularity involved in actions committed during prior terms of office do not come within the purview of inquisitorial bodies convened during the current term, has recommended recall proceedings against two police court judges; but considering the effects of recalling one police court judge—Weller—this does not assure a cure of present ailments. Though Weller was recalled and died with a broken heart, conditions did not improve greatly, if at all; and that was only some six years ago.

All Due to Class Politics

The protest against this Grand Jury proceeding further with its police court investigation, and the petition by four “leaders,” at the head of whom is P. H. McCarthy, to Superior Judge Flood for its disbandment, is not exactly sensational, though of undoubted interest. The grounds of the petition are that four members of the jury, including the foreman, had consulted Max Kuhl, a legal advisor of the Chamber of Commerce, but he is also of the committee appointed by the president of the Bar Association to co-operate in the effort to get at the bottom of the police court graft. The protest and petition resolve themselves into a political or class fight. There have been 253 arrests for violation of the picketing ordinance, 250 of which have been dismissed by police judges, and two convicted and let off on probation. As the investigation is laying bare such particulars it is regarded as an attack on organized labor. Kuhl having relations with the Chamber of Commerce and having talked with members of the Grand Jury is cited as proving it. It is not believed the petition will be acted upon. It is realized by the wisest heads that the dismissal of the jury under the circumstances would not score a point for the police court proponents, but would get the public wider awake than it already is on the subject.

Hidden Story in Harbor Board

Not much has been printed concerning the resignation of Miles Standish from the Harbor Board and the appointment of T. C. Moody to the vacancy, but there is a story in it somewhere. Standish was appointed hardly a year ago to the vacancy left by the resignation of Arthur Arlett, so long incapacitated by illness. He is thoroughly conversant with affairs of the waterfront, and was strongly endorsed by leading merchants and shippers. His private affairs do not appear to be such as to necessitate a withdrawal from such official duties as the position of Harbor Commissioner required. There is a rumor that his inability to get satisfactory action on the improvement of the sixty-seven blocks of land at Islais Creek, which the State acquired, and the immediate improvement of which is considered desirable to accommodate expanding commerce, is at the bottom of it. As Standish was approved by the Chamber of Commerce, so his successor is understood to be. San Francisco's foremost commercial body is therefore seen to have a different status on the waterfront than it enjoyed under former administrations, when its wishes and recommendations were not only not sought, but not much heeded.

The Buzz Over Scott

Railroad circles are buzzing over the Scott incident. There were all sorts of rumors afloat, some of which were based on the assumption that the former vice-president and general manager had clashed with President Sproule during the period of federal control, and that when the roads were returned one or the other had to go in the interest of harmony. Sproule, in announcing his appointments, merely stated that “Mr. Scott has accepted other service of great responsibility.” With the announcement from New York that Scott is to assume direction of the Southern Pacific lines in Texas and Louisiana, an important division of the Sunset Route, the atmosphere cleared. Railroad etiquette required that the news of Scott's election come from the Southern Pacific's New York board of directors. This explains that Sproule could not have said more than he did at that time. Also, the Pacific System's appointments were announced two days before Scott was actually elected to the Atlantic System. In the absence of an explanation of all this the local press interpreted the appointment of “Joe” Dyer as general manager to mean that Scott had been ousted, whereas he had been promoted and assigned to duties of even greater import. I learn that he will receive a larger salary and be left free to revitalize the company's Texas and Louisiana lines in accordance with his own ideas and experience. Railroad men take account of the fact that Scott goes back to the territory in which he started his railroad career as a fireman for the Santa Fe in 1881. It is also an interesting fact that President Sproule, at about the same time, began his railroad career with the Southern Pacific in the modest capacity of a clerk.

Colonel Rand's Recall

Some of those interested in the great Sacramento river project, jointly undertaken and carried on by the Federal Government and the State, and the expense borne in part by the property immediately affected, are concerned by the recall of Colonel Rand, who has had charge for the half dozen years since its inception, and who thus has become familiar with every phase of the great project. It is said that army work is kept up in the record so that one officer can go ahead with it as well as another; but that isn't always convincing to the layman. He knows how it is in other lines of endeavor, and is inclined to hold it is that way to some degree in military affairs. He is experiencing disquiet in this case because a rumor has gained currency that there is a purpose behind the change. The rumor relates to extensive holdings on the upper Sacramento the exception of which from the drainage district is considered so desirable by the owners that pressure has been brought to bear at Washington, the first sign of which is the transfer of Colonel Rand. Military ways are not always understandable, and never self-explanatory, and it is possible the perturbation of the up-river folk is without basis; but it is undoubted that this matter is being discussed with some considerable animation.

Vogue of the Occult

Occultism has had a boom since the testimony of Sir Oliver Lodge, Sir James Barrie and others got so prominently in print. In one form or another, it is very near the surface at all times, and only seems to need the championship of men of note, or the impelling force of circumstances, to bring it out in great force. It is certain that there were never more notable champions than have recently taken the subject up; and there has not been a time since history began to be written that has so generally turned the human thought to the hereafter as the great war. This occult obsession takes many forms, that of the Lodge and Barrie class being highly intellectual and serious. The most common and popular circles around the ouija board. Although this is considered almost sacrilege by the deeper students of the occult, it is accepted by those who do not like to take it too seriously, and by some it is regarded as mere diversion. From one cause and another the ouija board has a tremendously greater vogue than it enjoyed even a year ago, and it is very frequent that one hears of remarkable disclosures by this agency. The recent presence of Sir Oliver Lodge has by no means mitigated the occult tendency.

Douglas Erskine

Undoubtedly the death of Douglas Erskine was a greater shock from the fact that he was such an example of health and strength, in the full of his prime, with a physique such as few men are blessed with. In his day he was an athlete of prowess, and always an authority on the higher class of sports. As a writer he possessed the knack of saying the sincere thing without jarring upon those who had failed to win laurels. Personally no newspaper man, athlete or casual acquaintance was more popular. He had the Scotch sense of humor, without the sting that sometimes accompanies the Scotch expression. He used to comment on passing events in the form of skits written in an acute Scotch dialect, a form of humor which was entitled to a permanent vogue, after the manner of the Dooley sayings. The uncertainty of life is suggested by the expression of a friend of the late writer and athlete upon being informed of his death—that if all men could be marshaled in review, Douglas Erskine would have been about the last that would have been picked to die before man's allotted span.

A New Line of Insurance

Strike insurance is a new form of guaranteeing commercial and industrial concerns against loss. It originated in Baltimore, the home of so many casualty insurance concerns. It has been solicited business here, which indicates that one of its characteristics is to go where business is. There is not a line of business but has had strike experience in this city, and several are now in the throes. The concern is a mutual company, and its fortunes will be watched with much interest. It is difficult for the layman, and even some insurance men, to see how such insurance can make out under the present industrial unrest, in some lines of which strikes are almost the normal condition. This new venture is somewhat akin to the Lloyds system. Recently Lloyds insured a celebrated dancer's feet, and it will be remembered that Paderewski's hands were guaranteed for a large amount through the same agency. When Paderewski became the Polish premier it is presumed the risk was transferred to a more vital part. It will be recalled that Lloyds once insured an outdoor operatic performance here against rain and that it rained, and the settlement is still in controversy. But all of these seem easy risks compared with strikes.

Vogelsang Goes With Lane

It is understood that Franklin K. Lane, when he takes up his duties of right-hand man to Oil Magnate Doheny, will install Alexander Vogelsang as his right-hand man. Vogelsang went to Washington as one of Lane's assistants in the Interior Department, after a creditable career in the municipal administration of San Francisco. That he was defeated for re-election to the Board of Supervisors was no political reflection, though at the time it was a surprise to those who took a true account of things. Lane and Vogelsang have always been in thorough accord, and as Lane never seemed to penetrate to the inner sanctuaries of the presidential intimacies, Vogelsang was not in a commanding position for the succession when Lane stepped aside. Indeed it is not probable that he wanted it, or would have accepted it, though there was a considerable chorus from California in his favor. It was argued that the position having been filled by a Western man, and so many important affairs of the office affected the West, not to take account of the fact that a highly competent successor who had served and was therefore familiar with the detail was right at hand, the California man should be honored. It is probable, however, that it was all arranged—the job which without doubt is more satisfactory in every way than any which was possible under this administration.

Porter Garnett Again

It has been some time since Porter Garnett tilted a lance in behalf of Witter Bywater, so that he comes to the fray again with much vim. It is not a parallel instance, but it seems to have got him stirred up in much the same old way. He went to hear Granville Barker's lecture at the State University on “The Artist as a Vital Member of the Community,” and this is his conclusion: “I suggest that the State Legislature should consider at its next session the tangible assets of the university (which I am informed by the controller's office represent, as of June 30, 1919, the sum of $19,670,188.03), the amount realized from the sale of the various properties to be made over to Mr. Barker with the understanding that once a year he will deliver the above mentioned lecture throughout California. There is no question in my mind that such an arrangement would be incomparably superior as a means of making the rising generation socially efficient than the present method of bargain counter education. I admit that abolishing the university would be rather hard on the professors, who are so woefully unequipped for the battle of life . . . but, after all, would they be any worse off than the barkeepers, now that prohibition has come in at the door and self-respect flown out at the window?”

Building Trades Treaty

The announcement during the week that an agreement had been entered into between the Building Trades Council and the building contractors, providing a way to prevent strikes, and that under no circumstances shall there be a demand for increase of pay on unfinished contracts, shows the wisdom of P. H. McCarthy as a labor leader. Having had considerable to do with the metal trades strikes by reason of being the distributor of the assessments paid by the members of the Building Trades Association toward the support of the metal trades strike, and keeping himself posted on the trend of events all over the United States, he has evidently attempted to erect a Chinese wall around the building trades of San Francisco in order to prevent the Greek fire of the open shop being thrown into his camp.

Louis Glass Home

Louis Glass, so prominently identified with the telephone industry in California, has for many years been similarly interested in the telephone system in the Philippine islands, and has spent half of each year for the last ten years there. He has just returned, and states that the increase in travel, so noticeable throughout the United States, is equally observable in the islands. Hotel accommodations are entirely inadequate. There is a large hotel in Manila controlled by the government in which were many permanent guests. It was decided that this hotel should be reserved wholly for transients, and notice was given all other guests to vacate. The idea seems to be not to repel tourists by lack of accommodation. Mr. Glass states that hotel accommodations are equally inadequate in Hongkong and that it requires both a political and financial pull to get into the leading hotels there. While he believes that this travel increase is partly due to the diversion of tourists from Europe, this does not account for all of it. He believes that war has stirred up the whole world and made everybody restless, and that it may be years before humanity settles down to pre-war conditions.

MOTOR FANS GOSSIP OVER RACE RESULTS

By JIM HOULIHAN.

Discussion among the racing fans from the north who attended the opening of the Los Angeles Speedway brought out a lot of gossip concerning different incidents that happened before, during and after the race.

Murphy's clever work and the fact that he was later found to be a San Francisco boy held the limelight in most of the conversation. Prior to his victory little had been heard or known of him except that several years ago he had served as a mechanic for Eddie Lindenbacher and other stars of former years. His close connection with the Deuserbergs first dates back to 1917 and this association became more friendly during the war when Murphy who had enlisted, was stationed by the War Department in the New Brunswick, N. J., Deuserberg plant. He came out west for the California race as a team mate to Tommy Milton, pilot nurse, better known and regarded as more likely to win the Los Angeles race if victory were to fall to one of the Deuserberg cars.

While he was up among the leaders through the 250-mile grind, he was not regarded seriously until very close to the finish. Tommy Milton was driving by far the more spectacular race. The thrills that Milton was furnishing and the seeming ease with which he could pass Ralph De Palma, Joe Boyer, Art Klein, Ira Vail and other pilots seems now to have been a prearranged plan to race the stars "off their feet" cause them mechanical or tire trouble and enable Murphy who was driving a steady average of 104 miles per hour, to remain unnoticed. If such was the case the strategy involved accomplished the results desired for every other man in the race except the young Irish lad from the Mission was forced to halt at the pits one or more times during the 200 laps.

CANT SHAKE JINX.

Poor Eddie Pullen has failed to shake the jinx that clings to him and asserts itself in every event in which he takes part. One could get the short end of any number of 2 to 1 wagers after the 160th lap that Eddie would capture first money. When he was forced out there was a pronounced wail of regrets from hundreds of spectators who were rooting for him to come under the wire in the lead. About the only recompense Eddie got for his labors was a possible share of "appearance money" and this sum is hardly large enough to pay for the risks he took.

There were many disappointed fans when the news was given out that Cliff Durant's new 133 cubic inch racing car would not be ready. Durant himself was confident of victory if his latest speed creation had been ready to compete. When it does come from the shop it will be carefully groomed for the 1920 national road and speedway program.

Ralph De Palma's failure to finish better than eighth occasioned comment as to his prospects for success during the coming season. In practice the famous little Italian driver circled the course in averages of 110 and 111 miles per hour. During the race proper he was never a dangerous contender.

The magnitude of the crowds, notwithstanding unsettled weather, demonstrated that the public is still intensely interested in motor racing.

Don't fail to set your brakes when you leave your car.

One Way Traffic On Bush and Post Streets S. F. Plan

Bush and Post streets in San Francisco are to be made one-way traffic streets if a resolution introduced by Supervisor Warren Shannon is adopted by the Board of Supervisors of San Francisco.

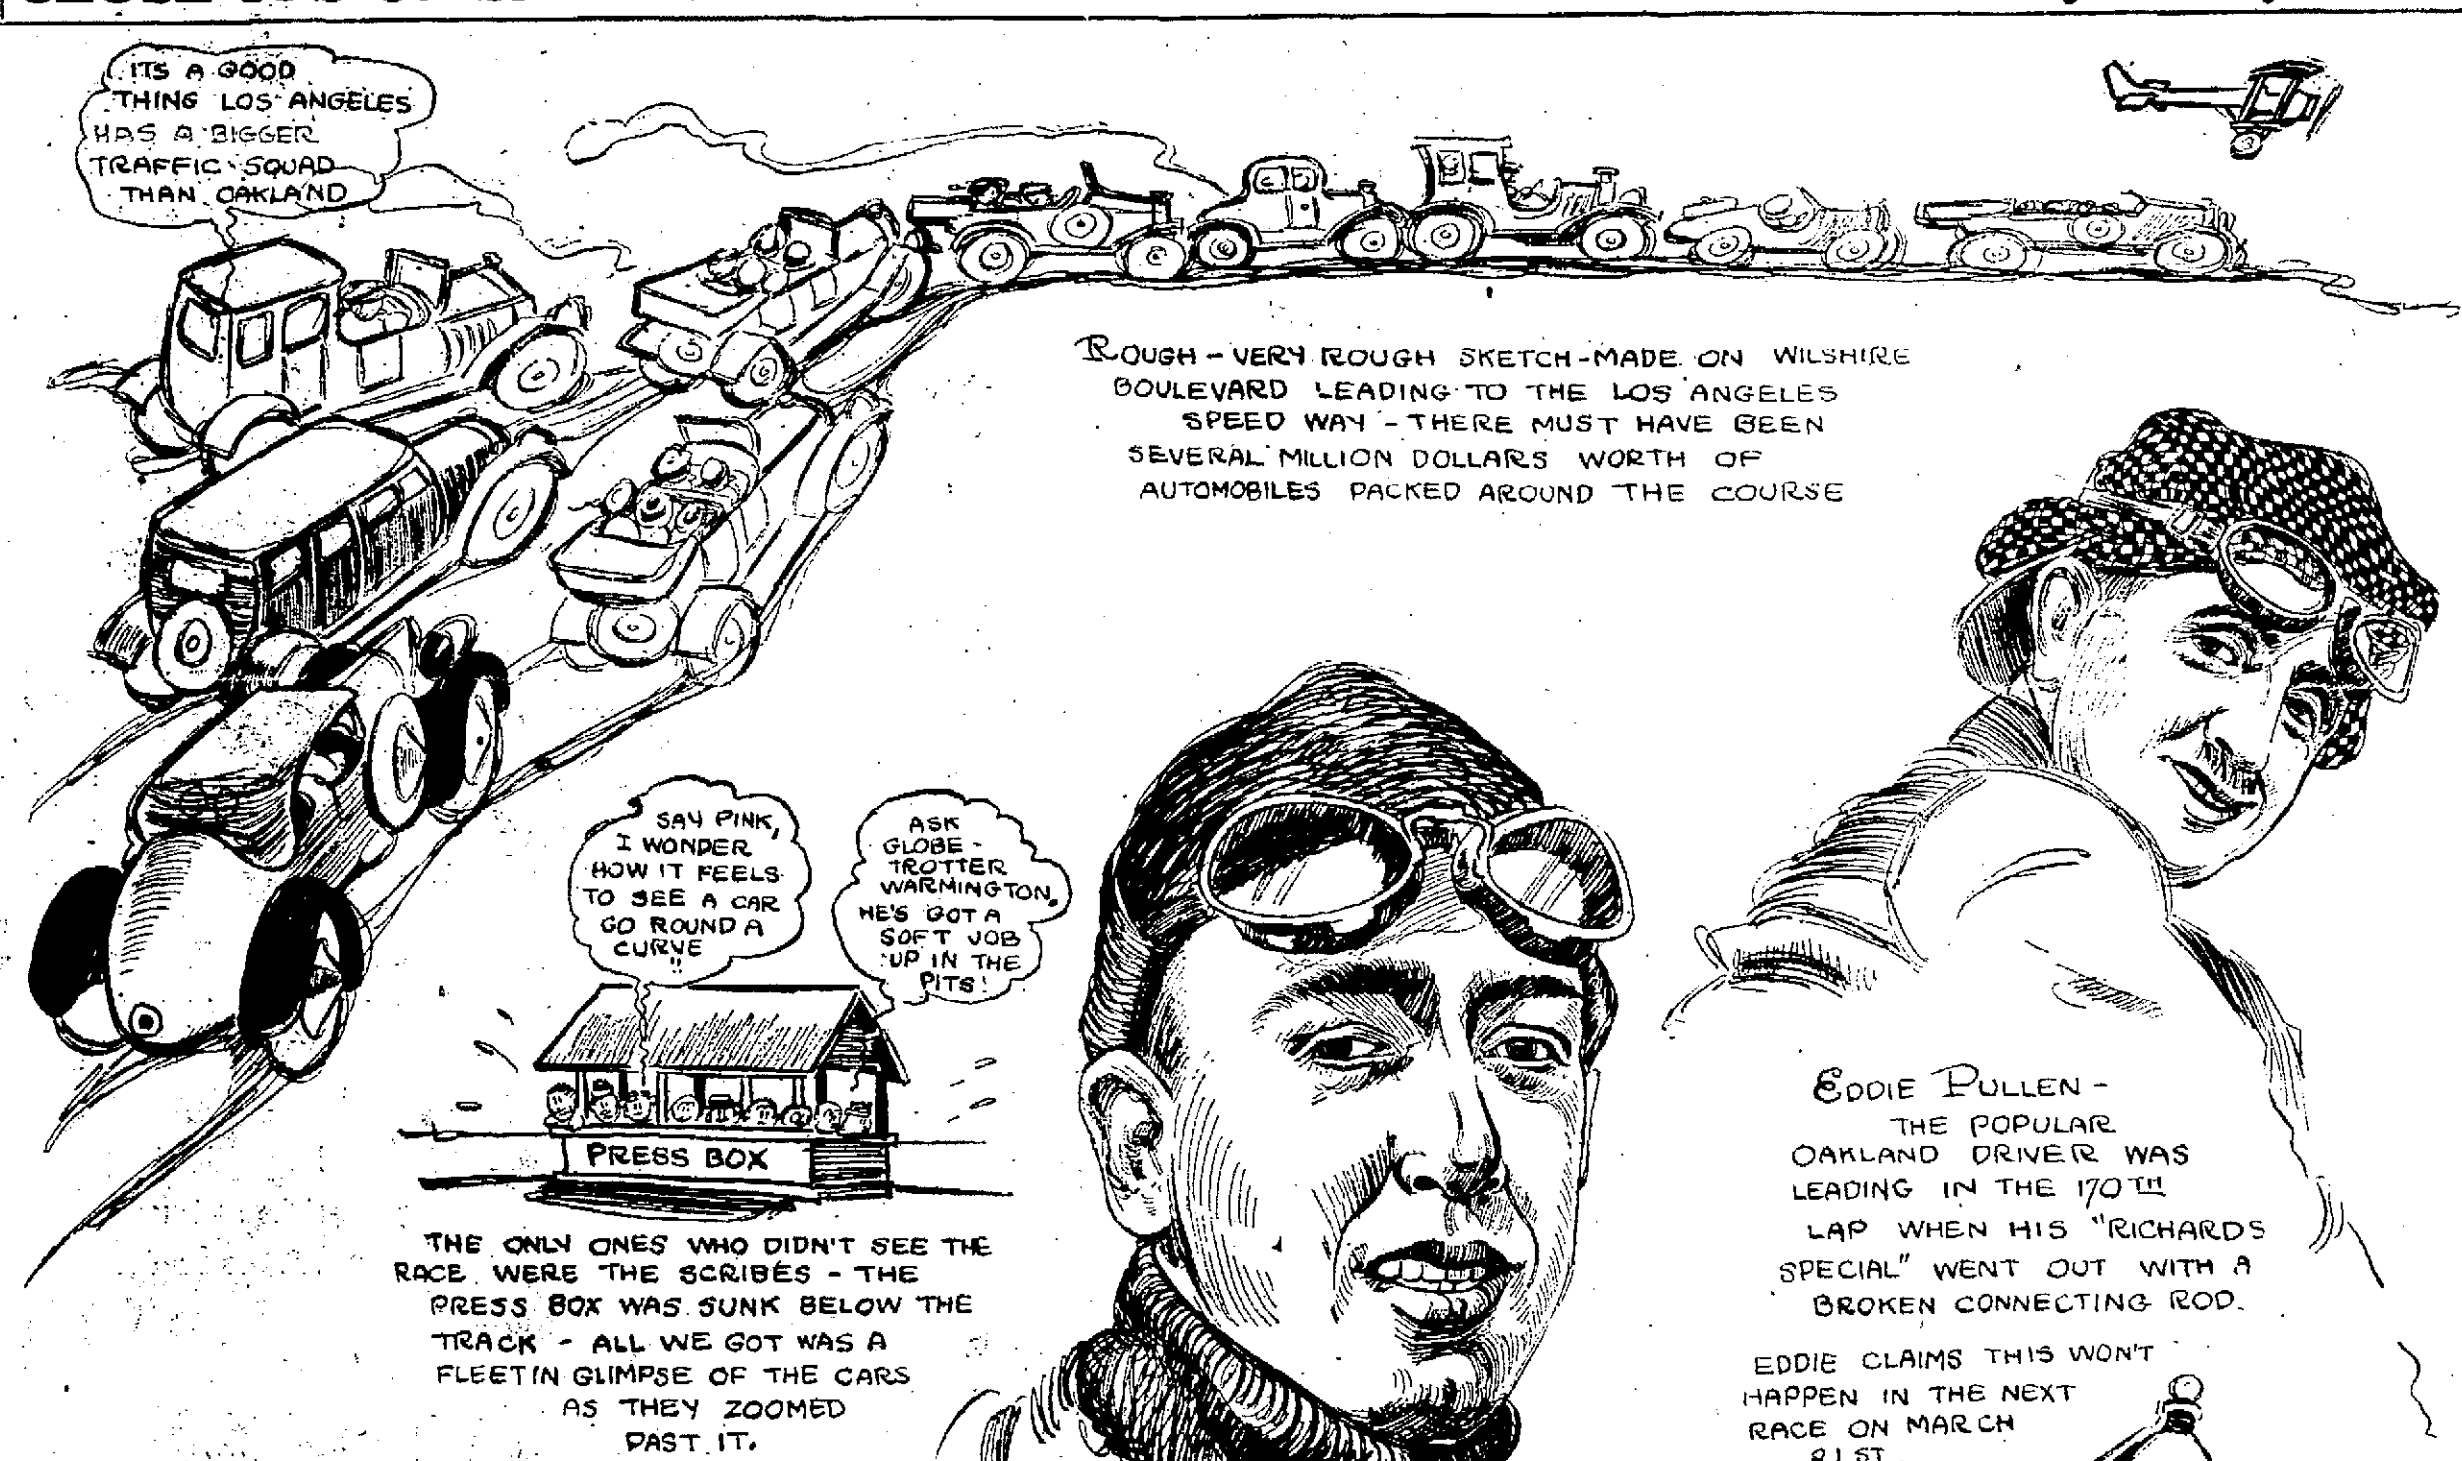

Shannon proposes during the rush hours to reserve Bush street for west-bound traffic exclusively, and Post street for east-bound traffic between Grant and Van Ness avenues.

The resolution will be considered at a meeting next week of the streets committee of the Board of Supervisors. The California State Automobile Association has been invited to attend the conference, together with Lieutenant A. Sylvester, chief of the traffic squad of the San Francisco police department.

According to Shannon, his plan will solve the traffic congestion of the downtown district if his resolution is approved.

Ceremony Marks Ferry Opening Speakers Assure Venture's Success

Special to THE TRIBUNE
VALLEJO, March 6. — Formal opening of the automobile ferry service between Valona and Morrow Cove, known as the Six-minute Ferry Service, occurred yesterday afternoon with a program consisting of speeches and music at the Morrow Cove pier.

There was a big crowd in attendance and the speakers were united in declaring the new ferry line would be an immediate success because of the time it saves motorists and also by reason of the fact that it will relieve automobile ferry congestion between Solano and Contra Costa counties.

Actual operations started three weeks ago and despite the fact that very few motorists in Oakland, Alameda or Berkeley know of the service because of the limited advertising it has had, travel over the line has been satisfactory.

It is stated that a big publicity and advertising campaign will soon be launched to firmly establish the line in the minds of motorists.

Two trips an hour are made each way by the ferry steamer San Jose, and this will be increased to twenty-minute service during June, July, August and September.

ACCESSORY SHOW PLANNED IN S. F.

An accessory and motor car equipment show which has been termed the Pacific Automotive Equipment Exposition, is scheduled in the San Francisco auditorium from March 30 to April 4.

Frank Quigley, until recently one of the owners of the Oakland Rubber Works, is identified with the promotion end of the affair, which already is said to have 163 eastern automotive equipment manufacturers on its list of exhibitors.

Part of the program includes the erection within the auditorium of a model garage and also of a modern machine shop.

During the week of the show the auditorium will be open to the public from 2 p. m. to 11 p. m.

APRIL 1-15 NATION WILL URGE SAFETY

Civic clubs and automobile associations and police officials all over the nation will co-operate to minimize accidents and reduce the toll of carelessness during the week of April 1 to 15. The movement is national, and cities all over the country are co-operating to reduce motor car mishaps.

At a meeting in the San Francisco Hall of Justice last week, members of the National Traffic Officers' Association decided to co-operate actively with the safety first movement during April, in order to impress upon the public the need for care in handling vehicles.

HIGH LIGHTS OF AUTO RACE RECOUNTED

By JIMMY HATLO.

The most remarkable race ever held. This is the verdict of those who have seen motor races in the past. People from all over the country flocked into the Speedway near Los Angeles for the great event last week, and saw an exhibition of skill that was little short of remarkable.

Murphy drove wonderfully. Two hundred and fifty miles at an average speed of 103.2 miles an hour without a single stop is a terrible strain on car, driver and tires. Murphy held his motor along, conserved tires by careful driving and was himself in the finest of physical condition.

Last, the drivers showed superhuman skill and courage in the face of almost certain disaster. For instance, take the cool, masterly driving Vail when he blew a tire when well up on the first turn. He skidded up, then down, and zig-zagged back and forth until his car headed in the right direction. On a flat tire he hurried around the course to the pits, and in spite of his near accident, took only 22 seconds to make the tire change.

Then take the case of Art Klein. Klein was having a high old time running the leaders to death. He was in a race with a dozen speed duels with the different leaders and had the satisfaction of seeing each in turn "burn up" under the frightful speed he was setting.

Coming into the back stretch a rear wheel saved him. Klein was traveling at better than 100 miles an hour. The great black Peugeot dropped to the track, smoking and skidding. It was about as it slid to the safety zone.

Klein and his mechanic ducked low under the cowl as they threatened to roll over into the fence. Klein kept his wits about him and handled the three-wheeled skidding monster as though it were simply out of control. The grandstand crowd thinned. The crowd was a turtle. But his skill had won out, his car remained in an upright position and he came out of the accident with only a broken rib to show for it.

Speaking of iron nerve, the youngest man in a car, Harry Hartz, Henne's mechanic, displayed superb courage when the exhaust pipe came apart. Hartz and scorching smoke streamed into the youngster's face. He paid but little attention to it, merely crouching a little lower beneath the hood. Hartz drove ahead, finished sixth and came into the pits. Hartz, with eyebrows singed and hands blistered, was lifted from the racing car. He was game, but came so near fainting that the night watchmen well have called an ambulance for him.

Such things, like Vail driving the last lap in a semi-conscious state, are more incidents of great speedway races.

The largest company in the world to manufacture automobile axles, springs, bearings and rims is to be built in Cleveland, Ohio.

Flivver Price Is Advanced On All Models

Flivvers have joined the list of commodities soaring skyward in price. Henry Ford's word last week that the price of open models must be advanced $25 and the "Flivver" came apart. Hartz and scorching smoke streamed into the youngster's face. He paid but little attention to it, merely crouching a little lower beneath the hood. Hartz drove ahead, finished sixth and came into the pits. Hartz, with eyebrows singed and hands blistered, was lifted from the racing car. He was game, but came so near fainting that the night watchmen well have called an ambulance for him.

The new price of the touring car self-starter is slightly in excess of $750 delivered in Oakland; of the roadster, just a little over the $725 figure. Ford sedans will now cost around $1000 and coupes will retail for about $900.

NEW PLANS OF HIGHWAY COMMISSION

Construction work on the California state highway system which has been curtailed since the first of last November owing to difficulties in marketing the new bond issue, is to be pushed again. The original program, as mapped out by the highway commission for 1920, called for an expenditure of $10,000,000 and while it will be impossible to carry out the original schedule this year, there will be substantial increase in new mileage.

After working for weeks on a solution of the bond problem, it is believed that rapid progress is near. Because of the obvious necessity for the extension of the highway system, the members of the commission are very anxious to carry on the work as rapidly as possible.

In a talk last week with Charles S. Howard, president of the Howard Automobile Company, Chairman N. S. Darlington, of the State Highway Commission, said that it was the policy of the state to go ahead as rapidly as the conditions would permit.

THREE MILLIONS OF WORK.

"We are today carrying on about $3,000,000 in construction work," said Chairman Darlington. "There are now approximately 1500 miles of concrete road in use in this state's highway system. In addition there are 250 miles of macadam, most of which was taken over by the state from counties as the commission has done practically no construction of this sort. There are also 20 miles of bituminous construction which were taken over by the state. The commission, in addition, has 1400 miles of graded road, not yet paved."

It is pointed out by Howard that California's state highway system is one of its most profitable investments. Howard, who in his fifteen years as one of the motor industry builders of the Pacific Coast, has closely watched the progress in road building and its effects.

"I believe that the state highway pays for itself every year," said Howard. "The saving in time, increasing of business, the addition to land values, the economy in fuel and tires—all of these added up mean millions of dollars to Californians."

SERIOUS MISTAKE.

"With others who have watched the advantages coming from the state highway system, I believe that it would be a very serious mistake to allow this magnificent work to stop. Materials are higher and so is labor, yet building in other lines is greater today than ever before. It is good business to go ahead. That is what makes the United States such a success. Fighting obstacles has been an American characteristic ever since the landing of the Pilgrims."

Howard, as being the leader in highways. We must maintain that lead and credit is due the California highway commission in solving a hard problem in the marketing of the bonds.

POPULAR RESORT TO MAKE CHANGES

The Currys are laying plans for the extensive improvement and enlargement of Camp Curry, which is the oldest and largest Yosemite resort. The first step in their construction program will be the erection of a fine garage which will accommodate several hundred automobiles at a time. This will be built close to the entrance of the camp.

A large number of additional hangars of the type that have been called the finest resort accommodations in the State will also be built right away.

The Camp Curry dining room will be enlarged and an annex added so that at least 700 guests can be seated at one time. Kitchen space will be doubled in order to speed service, and Foster Curry guarantees that even in the height of the summer rush, standing in line will never be necessary. The new leases, which are more liberal than the former ones, also provide for a dairy garden, which will furnish fresh vegetables of all kinds for the guests of the Yosemite resort.

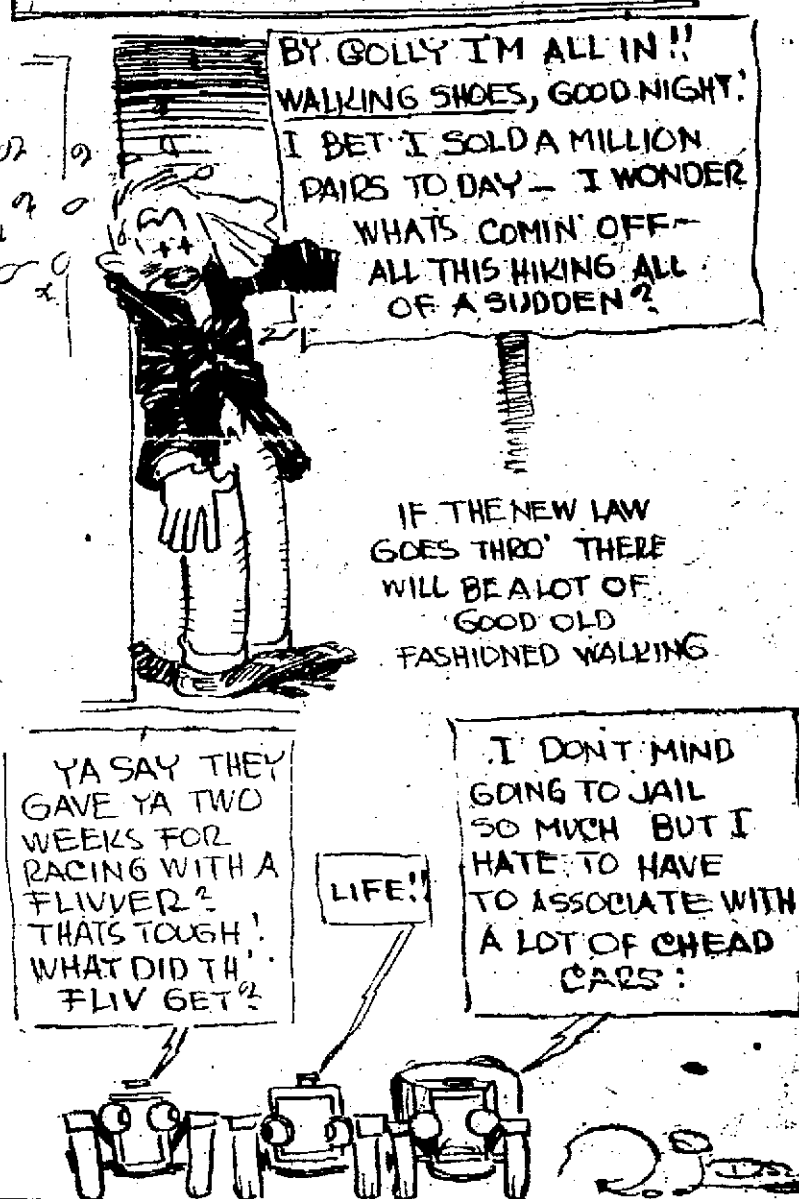

For twenty-one years Camp Curry has been operating on a precarious short-term lease basis which has made large scale improvements exceedingly hazardous from a financial point of view. In spite of this fact the camp has thrived and for many seasons has entertained more guests than all other Yosemite resorts combined.

Stockton Warns Speeders Prison Is Awaiting Them

Speeders and motorists who have failed to comply with the "Safety First" provision of the State Motor Vehicle Act are warned to keep away from Stockton by George S. Grant, manager of the touring bureau of the California State Automobile Association.

Justice of the Peace D. P. Eicke has evolved a new plan of dealing with violators of the law. Instead of fining motorists or locking them up, the Stockton justice reverses the regular order of things and locks up the offending automobile. The jailing of automobiles, even of first offenders, is entirely legal, according to Justice Eicke. The offending motorist upon being found guilty is sentenced to a term in the county jail. Probation is then given him and it is within the discretion of the court to fix its terms. Justice Eicke sentences the motorist to walk and the automobile to jail for the period of the sentence imposed. The motorist may either comply with the terms of probation or go to jail. If he voluntarily complies and places his automobile in judicial storage and it should be damaged or destroyed by fire, he is entitled to no damage by reason of the fact that his act was voluntary.

Justice Eicke asserts the Stockton hospitals are now barren of automobile accident victims.

A. R. Kroh, a special representative of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, with headquarters in Akron, is scheduled to address the Motor Car Dealers Division of the Alameda County Automobile Trade Association and possibly several other local organizations on March 15 and 16.

Kroh is a forceful talker and his message to any audience usually deals in a very impressive manner. With the tremendous annual migration of citizens from the farm to the large cities and of the essential need of combined and continuous campaigns to educate American citizens that a serious situation will confront the United States unless a remedy is found to keep young men on the farms.

AUTOMOTIVE SHORTAGE TO LAST YEAR

"The automotive industry will not recover from the present shortage of cars before the spring of 1927." This position was made by Philip S. Cole upon his recent return from an investigation of factory conditions in the west.

Cole left some weeks ago to visit the Haynes factory at Kokomo, Ind. While East he made a careful study of the car shortage situation. "There are no labor troubles now," said Cole, "but what is causing the manufacturers a great deal of worry is the shortage of glass, aluminum and the coil wire with which spring cushions are made." Although the shortage of aluminum is not being felt now it promises to hinder future production. A great many people do not know that aluminum castings must be "pickled" six months before they are ready to be milled. The cooling and hardening of the earth's surface that we used to read about in our geography at school is a good example of the process the castings go through. After an acid bath the castings are piled in an open space where they are exposed to the elements and gradually become hardened, until finally they are ready for milling. Hence, I believe that six months from now we will be facing a serious shortage of aluminum."

"At the Haynes factory a new structure, four stories high, 500 feet long and 125 feet wide, is rapidly nearing completion. It is to be used as a final assembling plant and will be in operation by May 1st. It is equipped with modern machinery and will have two endless-chain conveyors with cradles upon which models will rest as they go through the final assembling process."

"A huge forging plant will also be opened by the first of next month, where all forgings will be made. With the addition of this forge the Haynes becomes one of the most completely 'factory built' cars in the country."

"The Haynes is one of the most popular cylinder cars in the East and so great has the demand grown that the factory has increased its output from 8500 cars a year to 15,000."

"The saturation bug-a-boo becomes a huge joke when one looks into actual conditions in the east. Every factory has orders on file that will keep them running full blast for the next year and a half."

Special Carburetor Is Announced Adjustment Feature Very Simple

One of the recent improvements incorporated in the Cole Aero-Eight is the special carburetor, with which the models are equipped. It has been designed for the Aero-Eight motor and it is said, will answer its requirements at all times without the different adjustments common to many carburetors. An accelerating well at the side of the carburetor is provided with a small plunger, attached to the throttle lever. This device makes it possible for the maximum amount of gasoline to be supplied to the motor almost instantly. When the throttle or accelerator is pushed open all at once, the plunger forces raw fuel from the accelerating well into the intake manifold. In this way the motor can be supplied the maximum amount of fuel in an instant and the car is afforded a smooth, quick pick-up. Only two adjustments are possible on the carburetor. These are the high speed and the low speed adjustments. The two changes are always made at the Cole factory where they are thoroughly tested, and it is seldom necessary for the motorist to give them any attention whatsoever. When the low and high needles are adjusted properly, the Aero-Eight motor will operate smoothly at its maximum r. p. m. or at idling speed, and the changes from these speeds may be made with great rapidity by merely operating the hand throttle or foot accelerator.

DEALERS OF BAY REGION TO MEET

One of the tendencies of modern business is the co-operation of competitors to eliminate objectionable features of the trade and to make it better for all to do business. The automobile men and repair men and experts of the city have banded together in the San Francisco Automobile Trade Association and this organization, with the Motor Car Dealers' Association, will hold a monster meeting at the St. Francis Hotel, March 18th.

Prominent bankers, business men and executives of motor car dealers and the automobile trades will address the crowd. These men will outline the policy of the associations and try and straighten out matters of interest to whole industry. In the near future the San Francisco Automobile Trade Association will launch a drive for members throughout the city. There are many men connected with the automotive industry who are not now members. At the banquet to be held a week from Tuesday night, addresses will be made by G. F. Daniels, superintendent of the Motor Vehicle Department of the state, who will explain his work and tell how the automobile men can co-operate with him. Q. Can you tell me if parts can be obtained for the Corbin car? This machine has not been manufactured for some years now. It is possible to buy them, what is the best source? A. The Turbin Machine Company, Detroit, can probably supply you with parts for the Corbin.

TOURISTS ABROAD SAY PRICES HIGH

London, Paris and other large European cities fantastic prices are being charged the American tourists according to advices received by D. E. Watkins, secretary-manager of the California State Automobile Association. The prices are based on the amount that can be extracted from the unsophisticated visitor. In the country districts of Great Britain and France, prices have increased one hundred per cent, and the variety of food is somewhat restricted. Petrol costs about 75 cents a gallon in England, while in France, "essence," which is now a government monopoly, costs from 80 to 90 cents per gallon, and is by no means first class quality. In Italy and Spain the cost of gasoline varies considerably in different localities, but averages about one dollar a gallon.

Great Britain is charging duty on motor cars at the rate of thirty-three and one-third per cent of the value; France, forty-five per cent of the value; Belgium, eighty francs per one hundred kilograms for cars up to four thousand kilograms in weight and thirty francs per one thousand kilograms for those over four thousand kilograms. Holland charges a rate of five per cent ad valorem. Italy has a fixed rate of about 100 francs for a car weighing up to 1000 kilograms and 125 francs for cars weighing over that figure. These duties have to be paid, according to Watkins, before the automobile can be imported into the respective countries.

SOME HIGHWAY. With a length of 3222 miles, the Lincoln Highway connects twelve states and is laid out between New York and San Francisco, as directly as possible, consistent with the topography of the country. In Para, Brazil, 55 per cent of the motors in use are of American manufacture.

MILES OF SMILE

PRODUCTION OF MOTORIS GIGANTIC JOB

The production of the modern motor car involves a great many separate and distinct operations and departments which must be co-ordinated to the end that quantity and quality be held uniform and up to the highest standard.

The inception of production lies in determining, from market indications and sales reports, the quantity that will be absorbed in the succeeding twelve months. That this quantity is large may be understood from the fact that the amount will exceed 100,000 Maxwell cars this year," points out James Gray, manager of the Western Motors Company, Maxwell distributors.

To maintain this pace and actually produce this quantity of cars in the face of industrial disturbances such as have recently confronted the country has taxed the skill, knowledge and ability of every organization to the utmost. Adverse conditions are being successfully met and obstacles overcome every day, which absolutely assures the prospective customer the delivery of his car as promised, without substitution of inferior materials or methods, and with the knowledge that the organization is fully capable of carrying out its part of increased production so vitally necessary to the prompt restoration of our country's capacity to supply our own needs and our share of the needs of the world.

SPECIAL ORGANIZATION
The purchasing and procuring of the necessary materials and the delivery of these to the various plants calls for a very high order of knowledge, not only of the raw materials, but also of the methods of their sources as well as an even flow of materials of uniform quality to stockrooms. A highly specialized organization only can obtain the necessary result. A large number of men are maintained in the field at points of origin of these materials to see that the flow is even and uninterrupted.

The selection of satisfactory materials and sources of supply does not comprehend all problems of procurement, as a capable traffic department, properly functioning and co-operating with other departments, is necessary to overcome transportation difficulties and out of shortage of equipment and other transportation problems.

The manufacturing department must take the material after its procurement, and route it through the plants over the various operations of cutting, turning, milling, heat treating, grinding, testing, painting, trimming and polishing until it arrives in sets on the automobile lines, where the carefully trained artisans bring all the individual pieces together to form a living, moving vehicle, with all of the built-in qualities of beauty, strength, power and endurance.

CAREFUL SELECTION
The employment department alone is responsible for careful selection of the men who built the cars, and their intellectual, technical ability must be of a very high order to fit them for participation in the creation of this product.

Throughout all processes, from the receipt of the raw materials up to the time the finished car is loaded into the freight car for delivery to its new owner, the inspection department keeps constant watch of all materials, men and methods, carefully and conscientiously checking and sorting. The members of the staff of the inspection department are, in effect, personal representatives of customers in the company's plants, as they are concerned only with the task of assuring to the customer a product which will give satisfaction and contentment in his ownership. All cars and trucks must pass certain standardized tests, both on the dynamometer and on the road.

Shatters Bike Mark on Firestone Tires

When L. E. Parkhurst shattered four world's motorcycle records recently by attaining a speed of 103.1 miles an hour, he was riding on the most marvelous race course in the world—a race course that was none of its perfection to the hand of man.

This race course, which is at Daytona Fla., was built and is maintained by the tides.

Parkhurst, riding a Firestone-shod Harley-Davidson twin-cylinder machine of 61-inch displacement, broke the mile, five-mile, ten-mile and one-kilometer records, he made the mile in 24.89 seconds.

TRADE SLOGAN IS PROVEN OF HELP

As advertising has increased in value to the automobile and accessory dealers, so have trade marks, slogans and trade characters increased proportionally. This is the experience of George Peppertine, president of the Western Auto Supply Agency, whose stores are now located in fifteen cities of the west.

"When we first started in business," said Peppertine, "we tried to secure a trade slogan or character that would fully characterize the quality and economy for which we stood and would at the same time represent the ideals under which we carried our business. We wanted a character that would stand out as a slogan to give the people a feeling of confidence in our advertisements. After long search, we finally called in our advertising man and he suggested the name of 'Saving Sam' and our artist created the figure. Since that time 'Sam' has appeared in all our publicity and in our catalogues."

As an aid to our business he has proven more than his purpose. Many of the larger business concerns have trade marks like the gold dust pens which they value at over a million dollars. That is because of the value of that trade character in its association with their advertising."

Auto Demand Is Big This Year Three Shows Prove Car Needs

The three major automobile shows that there is to be no let-up this year in the demand for cars. Exclusively to motor car manufacturers and distributors and dealers national show, the first in the country, was a remarkable success. It was international in the sense that Chicago was more strictly national.

Chicago then staged the second great show of the country, and distributors flocked there from all over the country. It was a wonderful success.

"Then came the great San Francisco automobile show, with its display of cars, trucks and tractors," points out C. D. Rand, distributor of Mercer cars. "This was a huge success. In fact the show here was a greater success in proportion than either of the national shows."

Others were more cars sold here at the San Francisco show in proportion to the population anywhere else in the country."

HAPPY OVER RACE RESULT ON SPEEDWAY

SUN AUTO—HAPPY OVER RACE
Mrs. P. K. Webster, head of the P. K. Webster company, Roamer dealers, was one of the happiest persons in Oakland a week ago Saturday night. A Deussenberg car had won the opening meet on the Los Angeles Speedway and it had, as the car's name implies, a Deussenberg motor.

Let it be known by the uninformed in motor circles that a large number of Roamer cars are equipped with Deussenberg motors, and that great claims have always been made for their power abilities. It has only been in the last few years that the Deussenberg brothers, who design and build the motor carrying their name, have come into national prominence.

Cars of their handiwork have been appearing in racing meets for the last four years, and quite successfully during the last two years.

Roscoe Baries of Los Angeles first brought recognition to the Roamer by winning several races in Southern California in his Deussenberg-equipped car, and these performances he followed up on eastern speedways with equally good results.

Murphy's achievement in the south adds another laurel to the Deussenberg engine, and it brings added joy and confidence to the Webster organization here in the sale of Roamer products.

Gov't Gives Thanks For State Road Work

A further evidence of the cooperation of the federal government with state commissions for better county and state roads is seen in the immense movement of motor trucks into the various states where this work is in progress, or is about to be started. This incessant stream of trucks, which are being shipped out continuously from various cities where they have been held in "cold storage," constitutes the surplus stock ordered by the government during the war.

Don't leave your car with motor running.

AUTO MEN ARE OPTIMISTIC AS GENERAL RULE

Among automobile men it is rare that one can find a real pessimist. These men, at least most of them, have been in the automotive business long enough to know that there are ups and downs there as well as in any other line of trade.

When a man can keep smiling in spite of drought and lack of cars, and a thousand and one other things to bother him, he's a dyed-in-the-wool optimist.

There is a man in San Francisco and he has kept smiling for years. He does business with a smile and he is known from New York to Honolulu for his smile.

He is Lou H. Rose, head of the Chalmers agency in this city. They have nicknamed him "Smiling" Lou Rose.

OILING ENGINEERS' FIRST PROBLEM

One of the first things that an engineer tries to solve when designing a new engine or a moving machine of any kind, is the problem of lubrication. If this problem fails of solution, the whole machine is useless.

"Since the invention of the Alomite lubricating system there has been a huge demand for this lubricating system," points out F. W. Foyle, manager of the Alomite Lubricator company here.

Don't argue with the officer; you waste your time and the city's.

Steels in a Maxwell that Defy Time

THE steels in a Maxwell are as good as the steels in any car built.

For the very mission of a Maxwell is economy of transportation.

One single superfluous pound burdens the car's efficiency.

Therefore it had to be light—but it had to be strong; it had to endure; it had to stand the worst of road shocks.

To make it strong but light in weight meant the very generous use of those rare steels that provide both.

In that way a Maxwell came to be endowed with steels that defy time, defy wear, defy shock, defy the moods of the careless driver.

You will find a Maxwell delivers extended mileage—as long life as any car built, no matter what the price.

And not only long mileage but economic mileage. Because fine steels give little trouble and light weight spins out the mileage on a gallon of gasoline.

Such traits have made friends for the Maxwell in ever growing numbers—nearly 400,000 to date.

Only 100,000 can be built this year. That means 60,000 will have to take another car besides Maxwell—a second-choice car.

ONE COMPANY WILL HANDLE HUGE OUTPUT

Announcement was recently made by Emilen S. Hare, former vice president of the Packard Motor Car company of Detroit, of the organization of Hare's Motors as an operating company to control jointly the Locomobile, the Mercer and the Simplex automobile companies. Immediate increase in the output of the present factories will be one of the results of the plan of joint control with strict adherence to high quality standards, and the development of additional transportation units, passenger and truck, will follow.

Former Packard executives are in charge of the operating company supported by the existing organizations of the Locomobile, Mercer and Simplex plants.

Hare's Motors has been organized not merely to centralize control and to direct production and distribution of the factories thus brought together. This action is simply the first step in a new plan of supplying superior transportation service. The idea of the company is new as it involves an interesting quality-quantity conception, and its scope will be wide, embracing the entire passenger car and motor truck field. Hare summarizes the broad general program of the enterprise in these words:

"Briefly our organization is dedicated to a new principle of building. The purpose is to supply automotive passenger and freight transportation and to make this sort of transportation available to the greatest possible number of users through quantity engineering, production, distribution and maintenance methods, combined with maximum efficiency.

"We regard our business in the light of transportation service. The automobile industry is in reality a part of the transportation industry—the largest and most important industry in the world today. Automotive transportation has now become the greatest single factor of this industry."

HARE IS PRESIDENT

The personnel of Hare's Motors will include: President, Emilen S. Hare, also president of the Locomobile company, Mercer Motors company and Simplex Automobile Co., Inc.; Vice president in charge of engineering development, H. D. Church, formerly chief engineer, truck division, Packard Motor Car company, Detroit.

Vice president in charge of production, O. E. Hunt, also vice president of Locomobile company, Mercer Motors company and Simplex Automobile Co., Inc.; Formerly chief engineer, motor division, Packard Motor Car company, Detroit.

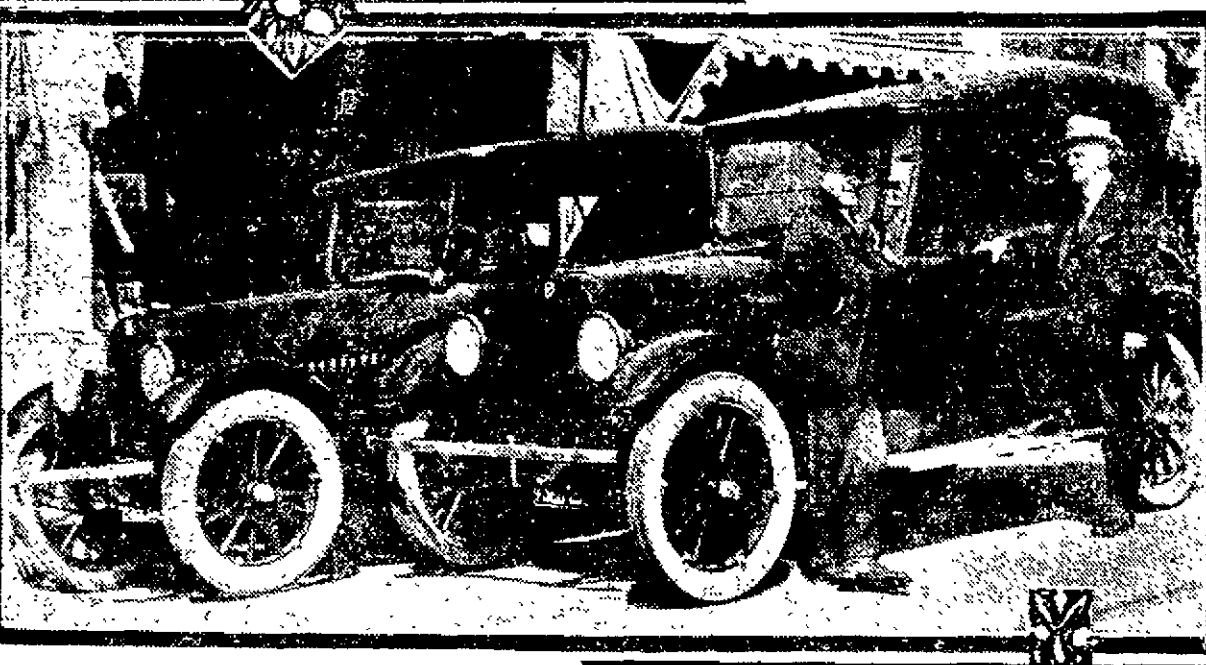

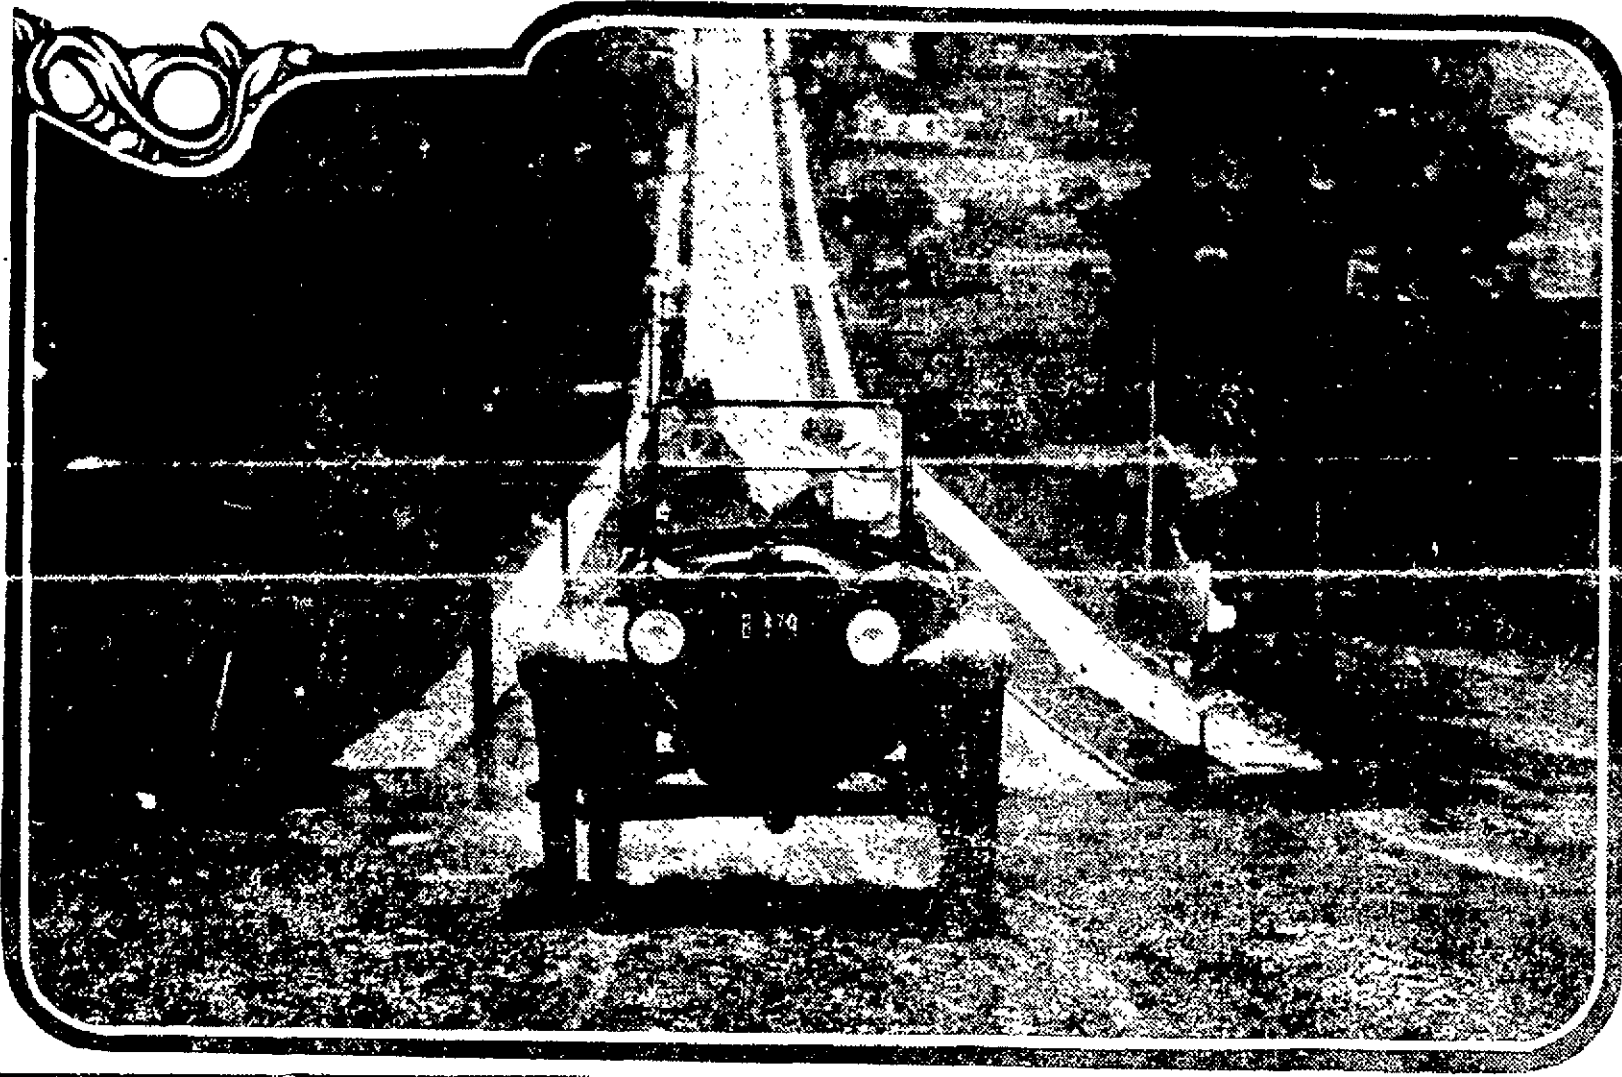

Vice president in charge of distribution, maintenance and advertising, Henry Lansdale, formerly general carriage sales manager of Packard Motor Car company, Detroit.

Vice president and consulting engineer, A. L. Riker, formerly vice president and chief engineer of the Locomobile company of America; Secretary and treasurer, F. R. ## DISTRIBUTOR FOR STATE WINS HONOR

Contracts placed by the California Motor Sales Company last week makes this concern the largest distributor of Sandow motor trucks in the factory's chain of selling agents.

This information was given out by William C. Schultz, general sales manager of the Sandow Motor Truck Company, before he left San Francisco for Chicago. Schultz came here for the automobile show and while here the California Motor Sales Company officials revised their 1920 specifications in accordance with the demand that has developed for these trucks.

There are several other California organizations rated as their respective factory's leading distributor, but it is doubtful if this enviable position has come to any of them as quickly as it did to L. D. Allen. He became the Sandow representative for California, Nevada and Arizona in November and in the meantime has built up a dealer organization that covers the principal points of the territory.

In a time when the shortage of passenger cars is troubling the bulk of distributors, the development of such a substantial truck business is of much importance. There has been a distinct shortage of Cole Aero-Eights for several months and with the gap between demand and deliveries continuing to widen, the prospect for a big business in motor trucks has spurred the distributors to greater effort in this field.

An aggressive dealer organization, made up in the main of the men who have made such a success with the Cole Aero-Eight, is responsible for the successful introduction of the Sandow. The truck itself has measured up to all expectations, its sturdy construction and exclusive features winning wide approval. The fact that the Sandow is made in five models, ranging from the fleet one-ton with pneumatic tires to the heavy five-tonner, gives it a wide appeal.

STYLE IN AUTOS SET BY BUYERS, MAKER STATES

"The best way to judge the trend of thought regarding automobiles is to study the buyers and users of motor cars," writes A. G. Seiberling, vice-president and general manager of the Haynes Automobile Company. "The fact that it is the people themselves who dictate what an automobile shall look like and what it shall do has never been impressed upon me more forcibly than at the automobile shows I have attended within the last few weeks. Each year I have felt that the public could not possibly show any greater interest in motor cars, but each succeeding year has seen thousands and thousands thronging to the shows eager to inspect and criticize or commend the different offerings."

CLEVELAND SIX

No Other Light Car Offers So Much

Unusual power and control, quick pick-up and extraordinary acceleration to real speed, are features inherent in the Cleveland Six and features with which Cleveland owners are delighted.

Many a Cleveland Six owner has said, "It would be hard to tell you what a good car the Cleveland honestly is. It's wonderful."

The Cleveland is wonderful because it is a splendidly developed and finished product, not a car rushed into the market. Three years ago the plans for production of this car were far advanced. But, with war approaching, production and marketing were delayed though experimental and engineering work were continued and test cars kept on the road. When war ended, came the Cleveland.

Built in a fine big factory, with all conditions and equipment assuring the very best of manufacture, and built by men whose successful experience had been wholly in the production of fine cars, the Cleveland Six began rolling out to the world last August. Since then thousands have gone to delighted owners, and thousands more are going every month.

The JORDAN Silhouette

THE Silhouette is simply a frank expression of another Jordan ideal—a determination to meet the demand for a high-grade car, perfectly balanced, comfortable, economical, and yet light in weight, compact, and with rare ability to perform.

After all, the building toward an ideal has been the keynote of Jordan popularity.

Both men and women who have natural appreciation for comfort, poise and atmosphere, have found this Jordan Silhouette irresistible in its symmetry of line and beauty of color.

The chassis, of finished mechanical excellence, is the lightest on the road for its wheelbase. This Silhouette weighs only 2,800 pounds. Its entire movement is forward. No racking sideway or continuous bouncing so conspicuous in the cars of yesterday.

No wonder the Jordan has found such instant favor among the motor wise.

BATTERY MEN HEAR TALK BY FACTORY MAN

Thirty members of the Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley Auto Electric Service Company branches attended a dinner given by Ernest E. Fetter, head of the institution for the purpose of meeting E. Elmo Martin, known as Director of Education for the Willard Storage Battery Company of Cleveland.

Martin's talk was given principally to the shop men and was illustrated with a number of charts to show the importance of each member of the working staff. His remarks were interspersed with rare bits of humor that helped to drive home arguments he wanted to convey in his desire to show the wisdom of each employee giving forth the best efforts possible to the employer.

For more than an hour and a half he held the close attention of his audience and at the conclusion of his instructive message he was given a rousing cheer by banquet guests.

Martin has been traveling throughout the United States for the past two months visiting every large city in his mission of impressing Willard Service station employees with the importance of rendering the best possible sort of service to the motoring public. His itinerary was commenced at Cleveland and some of the centers he has touched include Boston, New York, Chicago, Minneapolis, Indianapolis, Atlanta, Dallas, Omaha, Butte, Portland, Seattle, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Oakland.

A monologue by R. G. Lamb of the Auto Electric Service Company's Berkeley branch was cleverly rendered and drew considerable applause.

HELPFUL HINTS

Q. Is it possible to obtain parts for the Stoddard-Dayton car? I have a chance to get one of these cars cheap, and I wonder if it would be a good buy.

A. The Standard Motor Parts Co., Newcastle, Ind., can supply Stoddard-Dayton parts. If this car is in reasonably good condition there is no reason why it should not be a good buy. Condition is the determining factor, and you had better have the car looked over by an expert, unless you are qualified to pass upon its condition.

Q. What is the best way to get spots out of the top? The inside is badly spotted, and I have tried cleaners without any results.

A. Castile soap and water is the best cleaner. Rub the soap muds thickly over the spots and rinse with clear water, using a sponge. Do not use gasoline or similar liquids containing oil.

Q. How can I clean my spark plugs? The terminals are very black and dirty, and even the porcelain parts are brownish.

A. Immerse the plugs in kerosene for a few minutes and then rub them briskly with a stiff brush, such as you can buy in any hardware store. If this treatment does not take off the carbon you will have to dismantle the plug and clean the parts separately.

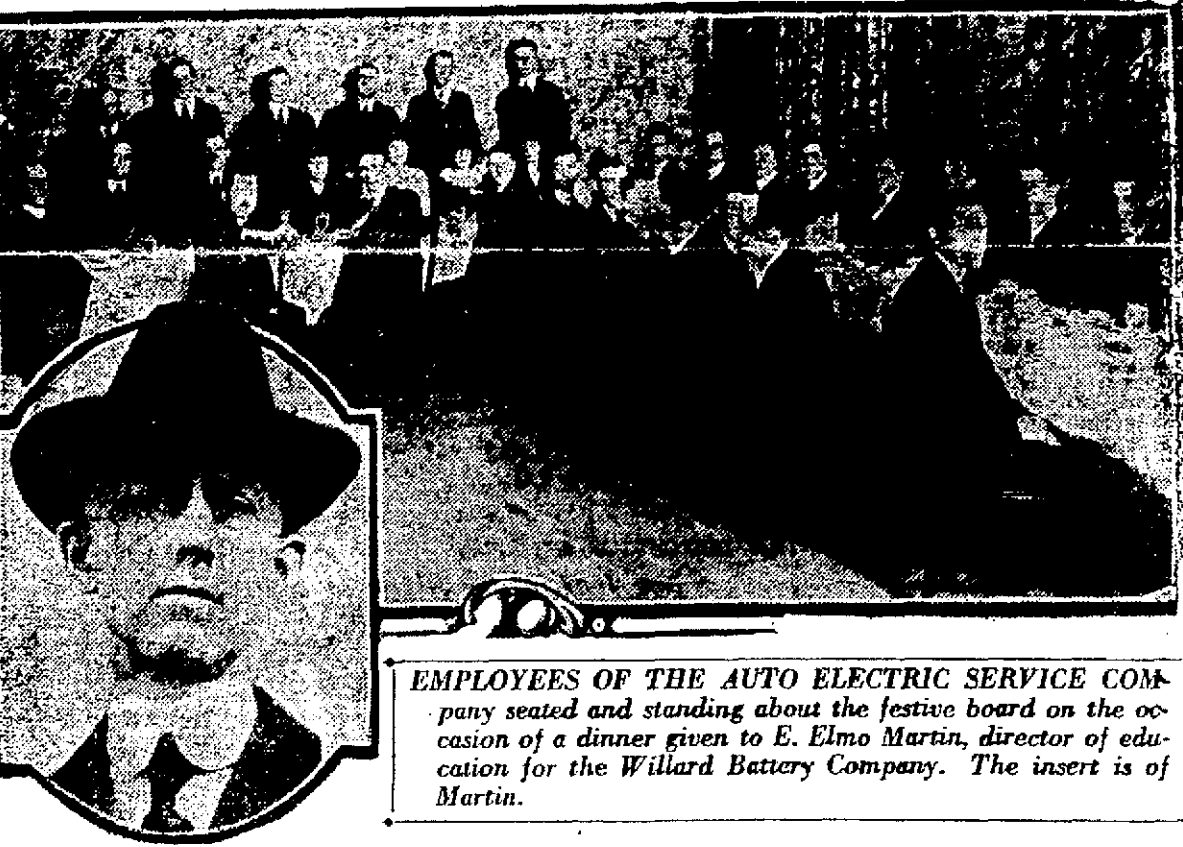

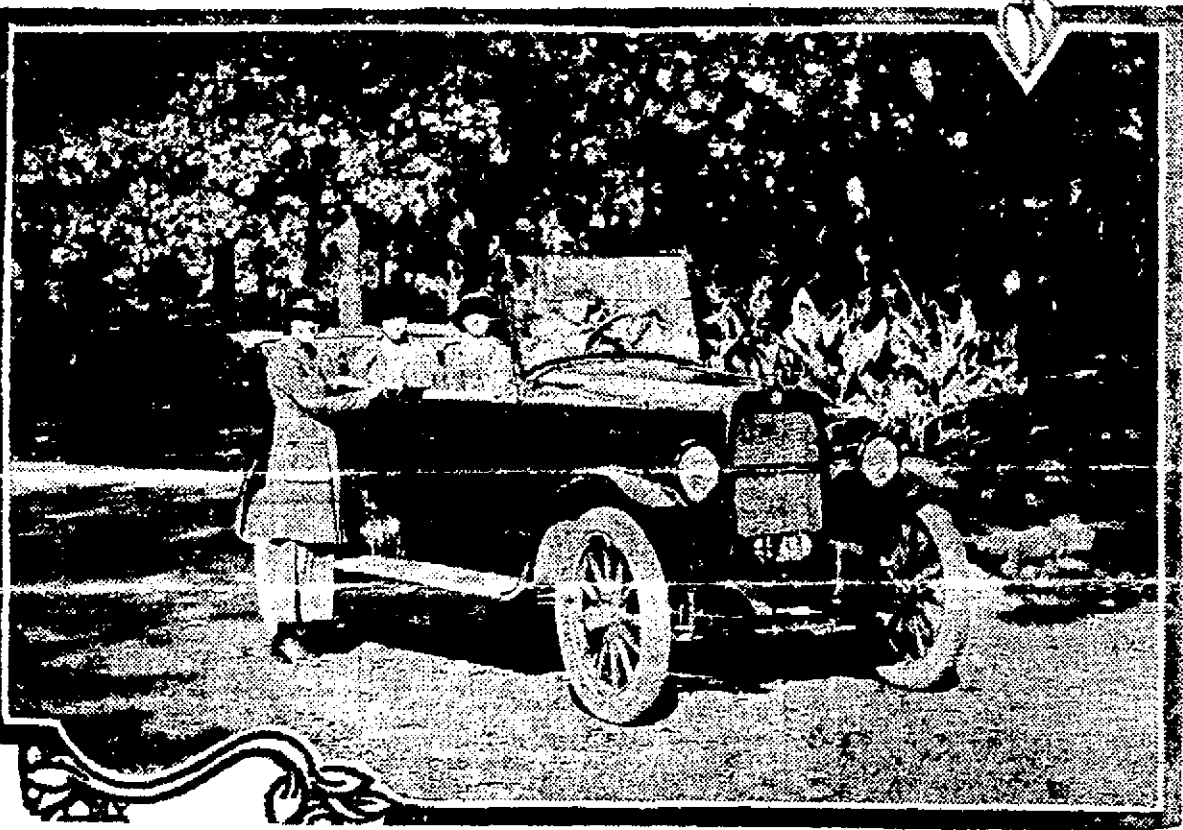

Q. I have been told that an automobile engine can be run on ordinary gas. If this is so why do we not use it instead of gasoline?

A. If you refer to illuminating gas, it is quite true that an engine can be operated on it, but gasoline is far easier to handle. Illuminating gas was used in England during the war when gasoline was not obtainable, but it is necessary to carry such big containers of it that it is not practical for ordinary use.

Q. When I throw out the clutch of my 1916 Dodge car the engine almost invariably stops. This happens when the throttle is about eight inches up, when the car is running about ten or fifteen miles per hour on an ordinary road.

A. The throwout collar is worn to this when the pedal is depressed the clutch does not come entirely clear, thus dragging and causing the engine to stop.

Auto Motor Requires Best of Care Complaint Often Comes Too Late

The engine of a car can be mis-treated frequently before it begins to complain, but the finish can be mis-treated once or twice—then there is no finish left to mis-treat! The lack of washing and the essential knowledge of not knowing how to wash a car will go far toward ruining the appearance. The varnish of a new car is benefited and hardened by washing with clear, cold water, but that is allowed to dry upon the body takes the oil from the varnish and leaves the finish matt and streaky. But is not the only enemy, for gases from the garage and even the atmosphere of some engine attack the finish of the car that is not frequently washed.

Begin by cleaning the top. Take a good stiff brush and remove the dust, then either sponge it or use a soft cloth with warm water and pure soap. A chamois kept especially for the purpose will tend to hasten the drying, and the top must not be folded until it is thoroughly dry.

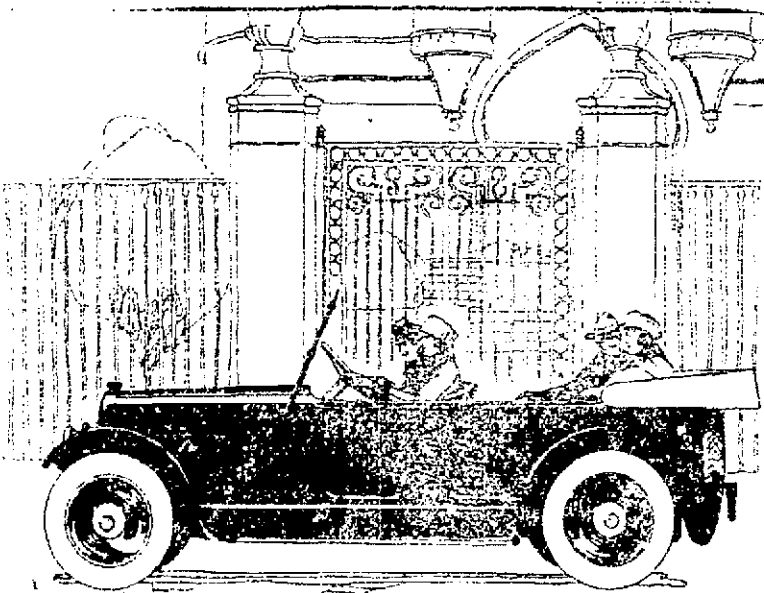

The upholstery, if cloth, is best cleaned by sponging with water containing a little salt and alcohol. If of leather, a wooden cloth dipped in

Better Than the Day It Was Bought

"You say your car is better than the day you bought it, starts easier, runs more smoothly, stands up as well and that you get 20 miles to the gallon?"

"You bet," said the man who was making the sale, eagerly.

"Then I could hardly think of depriving you of it for a paltry $600."

AUTO TRUCK IS FARMER'S GREATEST AID

In the past century the world has advanced in ways and means, up to the present day of so-called modern methods. A comparison of present day methods with those of a few years ago offers some idea as to the wonderful advancement made in this direction. The farmer has moved by successive stages from ox transport to horse transport, from ox plowing to horse plowing, and on to tractor plowing, etc.

The motor truck, confessions Frank O. Reimann, distributor of Akeley and Grant trucks, "after several years of practical experience has proven its right to be classified among the greatest of present day achievements. It is not only because of the many uses to which it may be applied, but also because of its absolute reliability and low cost of operation. It has been proven by actual tests that a pneumatic tired motor truck of from one ton to two and a half tons and larger can laugh at road conditions.

"Good roads are not necessary for the motor truck to get to market. It will get to market in spite of the roads, not because of them. The motor truck will haul loads that are impossible for a team. It moves much faster, does not eat its head off when not working, does not break the heavens and works as hard at the end of twelve hours as it does at the beginning. And since the farmer can make three trips where he has been making one, and bring his market closer, reducing the time required to perform his task, it is a good thing to have the motor truck in better condition, surely he has not been the least of those benefited."

GOOD ROADS IN THE WEST.
More liberal financial cooperation by the federal government in road building in Western states, where large areas of public lands are located, was advocated recently by Secretary Meredith of the department of agriculture. The appropriation of $100,000,000 annually for four years was suggested.

TIRE PLANT IN L. A. WILL EMPLOY MANY

One of the busiest places in the west right now is the famous Ascot park in Los Angeles, where the big plant of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber company is in the course of construction.

In a community not possessing a manufacturing concern of mammoth proportions, it was at first difficult for the people to realize that their city was to be the seat of one of the largest rubber manufacturing plants in the country. But as the gigantic shovels, derricks and other excavating machinery appeared on the ground and ton after ton of concrete was being poured into the massive building foundations, and when hundreds of men began to fit the big steel beams together, Los Angeles began to realize that it was to have a great industry.

The expansion of Goodyear's trade caused the officials of the company early in 1919 to investigate possible sites for the establishment of a plant in the west.

An idea of the building operations can be gained from the outlay of construction materials required. Among the materials which 1500 men are fashioning together into a mammoth industrial enterprise are 5000 tons of structural steel, 13,000 gallons of paint, 35,000 tons of sand, 40,000 barrels of cement, 60,000 tons of crushed rock, 4,000,000 feet of lumber and 10,000,000 bricks.

The operation of the tire plant and the cotton mill will involve the employment of about 5000 workmen. The daily output of tires will approximate 7500 and the cotton mill will turn out weekly 75,000 pounds of cord fabric and 75,000 pounds of woven fabric. The raw cotton from which this fabric is to be manufactured will come from the Goodyear plantations in the Salt River Valley in Arizona and the Imperial Valley of Southern California.

A most important feature of the company's project is the extensive plan to provide homes for the workmen. The construction of forty-eight bungalows and two larger apartment houses is now under way on a ten-acre tract adjoining the factory site. About April 1 work will be started on the Goodyear Gardens, a 160-acre tract just north of the factory on which 800 houses will be erected to be sold to Goodyear employees. This great home community, which will represent an outlay of $2,000,000, will be one of the most beautiful in the United States.

REALTY DEALER HAS FIRST CAR

Interested in the history of the Paterson Six in Alameda County, several months has been the local dealer, has located the Paterson Six, a car which possessed their fathers' memories. To the Hill Motor Co. securing the dealership of these F. H. Garcia a real estate dealer and money lender living at 1527 East 12th street, has been given the title of "Father of the Paterson Six."

Garcia bought what is said to be the first Paterson Six that ever came to Oakland in 1913. In 1919, when Louis Banning was the dealer, Garcia drove up to his store, sized up the new Six and bought it within thirty minutes of his arrival. He has driven on this car for more than three years.

"I find that the car has more speed than I ever shall need," said Garcia. "My daughter spends a good deal of her time at the wheel of it. I would think long before buying another make, because I know and have confidence in my own car."

Approximately 200,000 carloads of motor cars were handled by the railroads during 1919.

NATIONAL MARKET ASSN. IS FORMED

To co-ordinate the work of the various state marketing agencies to prevent a duplication of effort, to co-operate on problems of general interest in marketing and to promote a better understanding between the various interests engaged in marketing foodstuffs were the objects for which the National Association of State Marketing Officials was formed at a meeting held in New York city February 7.

Among the many interesting subjects discussed was that of the rural motor express, sponsored by the transportation committee. The committee's report suggested "that the various states having organizations devoted to marketing investigate the rural motor express movement in a manner similar to that which the division of foods and markets of the New York state department of farms and markets is now doing, and that these various states encourage the movement."

Observe caution signs at schools and dangerous crossings. During the first week of this year 1015 new members joined the Automobile Association in England.

Q. I am having a lot of trouble with my battery. I do a lot of running at night and I also make a number of stops. To save my life I cannot keep my battery up to charge. Can you suggest how to remedy the trouble?

A. Take the battery to the nearest service station and have them adjust the charging rate. Do not try to make the adjustment yourself. If this does not serve, it probably means that you will have to get a larger generator or have the battery charged from an outside source at stated intervals.

Q. The brake pedal of my car keeps pumping up and down, even when I am not touching it. The car is new and I cannot understand how such a trouble as this could have developed so soon.

A. The car evidently has what is known as Hotchkiss drive and the rear axle movement is transmitted through the brake connections to the pedal. Brake movement may be characteristic of any car using this method of propulsion.

The daily operating cost of a motor truck is from $12 to $20 a day, including maintenance and all items entering into operating costs.

RECORD RUN CAUSES MUCH TALK ON ROW

Dealers and motorists are still talking about the sensational drive by a four-passenger stock Peerless car on Wednesday night between San Francisco and Los Angeles. It has been a long time since an attempt was made at the old Cadillac mark that a great general opinion existed to the effect that the record could not be broken.

Baile and Hills handled the Peerless with rare skill in being able to cover the distance between the two cities as they did without a mishap.

Between San Francisco and Milpitas and also between Mission San Jose and Livermore there were numerous rough and muddy stretches which helped to kill any chances of high speed and on the northern side of the Tehachas, road work is in progress for several miles and makes necessary a section which is temporarily surfaced and which required careful piloting.

Though not an expressed desire, it apparently is the intention of the Peerless drivers to set a new record every record now existing on California mountains is to be broken or at least to be equalled.

Many marks in this state now belong to a Peerless eight, and many more will be captured during the coming season if determined effort—plus a fast and powerful car—can win them.

The Mount Diablo trophies might now be possessed by the Peerless if road conditions permitted an attempt at the high gear and speed drive to the top of the famous mountain.

It is more than a year since officials of the Pioneer Motor company have been hoping that repairs would be made on the main road to the Diablo summit so that they could attempt to lower existing records.

Main avenue was conquered by Alder, McElrath, driving a Peerless stock touring car in a time better than any other driver or car has been able to negotiate this steep hill.

Unofficially, McElrath also holds the record from Berkeley up to the big C. No other driver is known to have made this perilous ascent speedier than McElrath.

In the east Tonawanda hill had to bow to the prowess of one of these eight.

As tire equipment on the run south the Peerless eight used Firestone cords.

Famous "999" On Display in Oakland Store

Old "999," the car designed by Henry Ford and driven by Barney Oldfield, a racing creation famous in the early days of motor cars, will be on exhibition all this week in the salesroom of the W. L. Hughson company.

Apart from its interesting history there is a story told in connection with it in which Ford and Oldfield have never agreed.

In conversation one day with mutual friends, Ford said that he materially helped to make Barney famous. Barney, hearing the tale, waited until he again saw Henry, told him of the story he (Oldfield) had heard Ford relate and sarcastically said, "Henry, you may have made me, but I, you did, don't forget that I helped make you too and I'm here to say that I made a better job of it than you did. You're rolling in wealth and I'm out here to break my neck and records too, in the hunt for the elusive dollar."

CONVENTION OF ACCESSORY MEN PROVES SUCCESS

The Chanslor and Lyon sales convention closed Friday, February 27, following a five-day meeting here which was attended by managers and representatives of this big organization from various cities of the Pacific coast.

A busy program marked the activities during the period the men were in conference and the serious discussions of the day were relieved with an entertainment program each evening. Most of the visitors arrived on the morning of the 22nd. They were taken across the bay, out to Tay's Beach cafe for lunch, given a motor tour in the afternoon, dinner at a downtown cafe and a theater party the same evening at the Orpheum.

Monday the business sessions started and they were presided over by P. H. Lyon, whose opening talk was said to have completely sold every employee on the high purposes of their big organization.

Brunswick Principles In Fine Tire Making

The reason you are interested in the name on your tire is that it identifies the maker. By knowing the maker you can judge his ideals of manufacture.

The only secret of a super-tire lies in the principles of the maker. His standards decide the quality. For there are no secrets in the tire industry.

What you get depends on what is behind the name on your tire. Brunswick, as you know, means a very old concern, jealous of its good name. Since 1845 the House of Brunswick has been famous the world over for the quality of its products.

The Brunswick Tire is all that you expect—and more. Your first one will be a revelation. You'll agree that you've never known a better. And you'll tell your friends. So spreads the news among motorists. The Brunswick is the most welcome tire that ever came to market.

Try one Brunswick Tire. Learn how good a tire can be built. And remember, it costs no more than like-type tires.

GOOD DRIVER SAVES AUTO SHOP BILLS

In the accompanying scenes a Cleveland Six touring car has been used to illustrate various features of safe and careful driving. It so happens that the Cleveland Six is equipped with a transmission brake, on skidding this transmission brake is used to stop the car.

Summarized briefly, the characteristics of a good driver are care and caution under all circumstances and conditions.

These apply with equal force to slow driving through congested traffic, or on the open highway with nothing either before or behind looms as an obstruction of any kind.

Care and caution apply even to the manner in which the steering wheel is held, either at slow or high speed, and to the position of the feet when ascending or descending a grade.

The careful and cautious driver is not, not by reason of fear of any kind, but usually from force of habit; he is careful and cautious unconsciously. It is his repair bills that are lower than others; it is he who knows that "service" is in his car and that it is up to him to get it out of it.

Take for example the mere matter of holding the steering wheel; the careful driver has a firm grip on it, the right hand clutching the wheel at a point about one-third of the distance up from the bottom point on the right side and the left hand similarly placed at a point about one-third of the distance down from the top on the left side.

CLUTCH WHEEL FROM BELOW. On the other hand the careless driver may usually be found with one hand, or two, hanging loosely over the lower rim of the wheel and palms down. Experienced drivers in nearly every instance clutch the wheel from below the rim with palms up.

It does not follow that these wheel holds are the only safe ones, but they are secure and safe under all conditions and are the positions that are recommended by the most experienced drivers. If not comfortable positions at first, they can be cultivated and in a short time become a matter of habit.

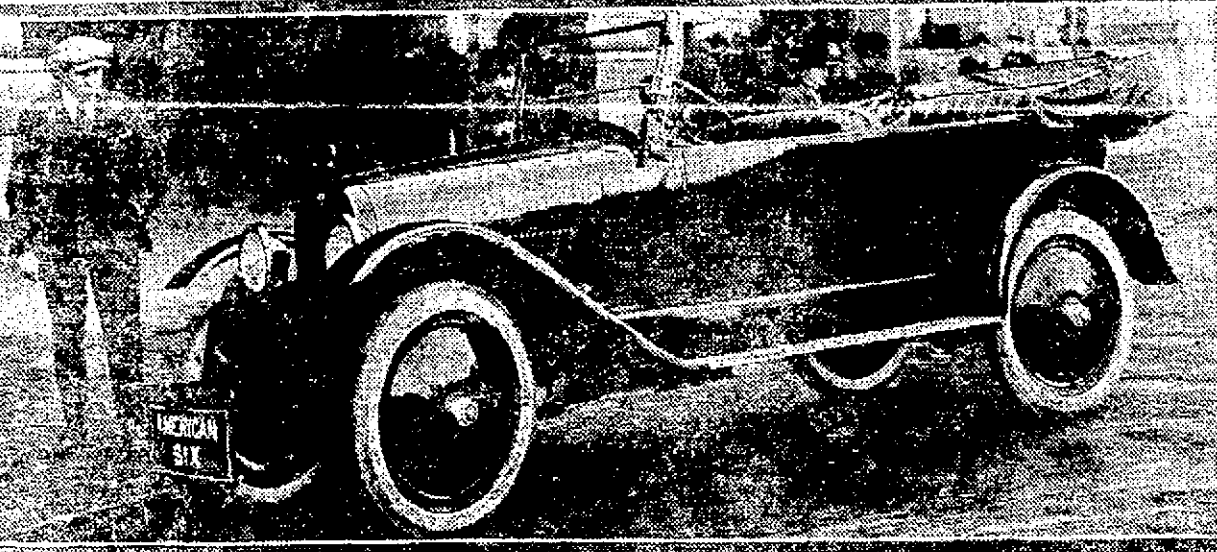

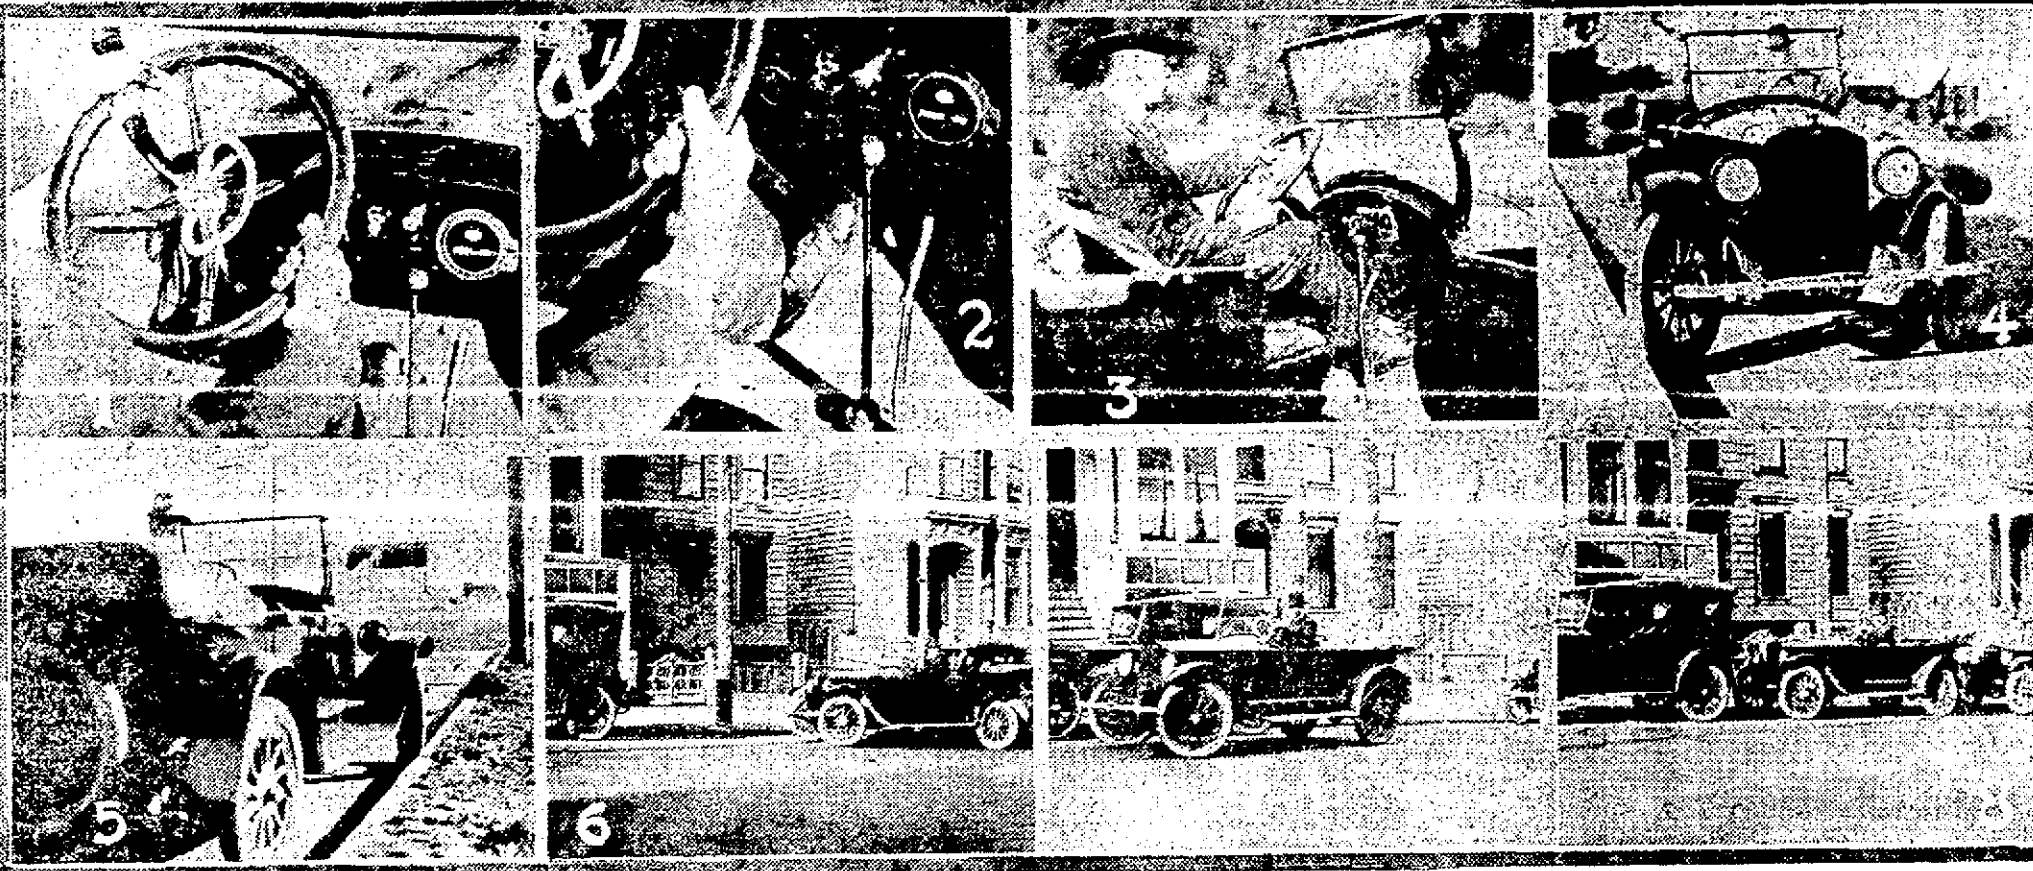

Because a driver is a fast driver does not stamp him as a careless driver; such a driver is often quite the reverse. Nine times out of ten he may get to his objective point quicker than someone else, but his journey is usually accompanied by taking a number of unnecessary risks. Today there is hardly an accident that afterwards, under analysis, will not reveal some glaring bit of carelessness.

The careful and cautious driver starts his car with a smooth, quiet acceleration of his motor, dropping in the clutch with a smooth, velvet-like motion, shifting into the various gears without clashing, the change from low to high being accomplished in such a manner that the passengers in the car are hardly conscious of the change that has taken place.

CLASH UNNECESSARY. It is not necessary to clash the gears, yet many drivers go through their whole motorizing experience with a continuous clash; they drop in their clutch in such a manner that their passengers frequently tipped up "on their heels." And when these same drivers stop their cars they usually grind their brakes and stop with a suddenness that nearly throws the passengers out of the car.

These same drivers complain the loudest when they are compelled to replace a ring, or pinion gear, or replace their brakes. Their repair bills are the most frequent and the most expensive, yet if their mistakes are pointed out to them they usually resent it. Frequently the result is a dissatisfied owner and a "knocker" aimed who can do and does considerable unjustifiable harm.

A KNOWLEDGE OF THE LITTLE THINGS IN DRIVING MAKES THE TASK OF PILOTING AN AUTOMOBILE EITHER DIFFICULT OR A PLEASURE. BY way of suggestions in the correct manner of manipulating the steering wheel, the E. L. Peacock Auto Company sent a driver out in a Cleveland Six Touring Car to enable the camera man to snap several important poses. Grouped below they show: No. 1—Correct grip on steering wheel; No. 2—On down grades, use brakes and second gear; No. 3—Use second gear climbing hills where high gear pulling strains engine; No. 4—How to park car on down grades; No. 5—Correct up-grade parking; Nos. 6, 7, 8—Swinging in and out, backing correctly into curb and finally parking, parallel with curb in a narrow space.

THE AMERICAN BALANCED SIX AS IT APPEARED OUTSIDE THE AUDITORIUM AT the San Francisco show. The disc wheels make it unusually attractive. This model was purchased last week from Charles Griffiths by J. V. Bender, head of a local foundry.

Driving up and down steep grades is no more difficult to the careful and experienced driver than traveling on the level. It is only the "nut" who insists on taking every hill on high. Usually the "nut" driver hits the top of the grade on high with his motor laboring and "knocking," every "knock" contributing a little to the ultimate damage and ruin of his car.

Gears are placed in an automobile for the purpose and should be utilized. It is always advisable to remember that one law of mechanics says that "in order to gain speed you must sacrifice power and in order to gain power you must sacrifice speed." One can not get away from this. If a driver is approaching a hill he needs first of all power. A lower gear provides this and should be used. Also, it is easier to shift near the bottom of the grade than when in the middle of it.

BRUISING ON COMPRESSION. In descending a grade the careless driver will apply his brakes, both front and emergency. The careful driver shifts into a lower gear and brakes on the compression of the motor; on a slight grade he utilizes the second gear and on a steeper he uses the low. In each instance, however, his foot brakes or emergency brakes are used merely as an auxiliary. Usually he descends the grade with the switch off and when he turns the switch on again at the bottom he does so as to not cause a loud explosion in the muffler. This muffler explosion often "blows out" the muffler rendering it useless and making necessary a replacement.

Driving rapidly over rough spots does not eliminate the discomfort of traveling over this kind of a road. Not only that, but bouncing up and down in the rear grind the tread off the tire and is even worse than skidding or sliding the tires under brake pressure.

Skidding on wet streets may be eliminated to a large extent by careful drivers. The careful driver when he "sees" a skid ahead, slows up, gets into a lower gear and applies the brakes very gently. Disengaging the clutch and applying the brakes usually precipitates a skid which is usually beyond control.

Especially is this true when the brakes are not properly equalized. Nevada has two motor cars for every three miles of road.

AUTO TRUCK RATES LOW.
Based upon rates per 100 pounds, the cost of motor truck transportation between New York and Philadelphia is 80 cents; by rail the cost is 57.05, with an added 15 cents per 100 pounds for teaming charges.

Margdalena bay is said to be the finest harbor between Panama and the Golden Gate.

MOTOR ARTILLERY.
The National Guard of Wisconsin has been apportioned a complete regiment of motor-drawn artillery. The equipment of a battery will be four 155 mm. guns, caissons and four tractors. In addition the regiment will also have a number of staff, observation and reconnaissance cars and supply trucks.

DEALERS SEEK COST DECLINE

Automobile dealers no doubt feel that steps should be taken to arrest the mounting cost of overhauling old cars. Overhauling costs have climbed rapidly during the last few years, principally because the cost of all the items entering into this class of work has increased.

In investigating this problem of increasing overhauling costs it is of course logical to begin with the largest item—labor. Moreover, it is usually this item that makes the greatest number of complaints.

It is apparent that there are several ways in which the labor problem can be approached. The most obvious are increasing the efficiency of the shop by reducing the time it takes to perform certain operations, and using labor-saving tools. Both of these are within the power of the dealer.

Franklin experts have so reduced the time it takes to repair cars that few jobs that can be performed on the car cost much, points out Ben Hammond of the Franklin Motor Car Company, distributors of Franklin cars here.

Labor-saving machinery and devices of all kinds that cut costs and reduce the time required to make repairs are installed in our shops.

SANDOW TRUCKS

Do on High Gear at Low Cost What Others Do on Low Gear at HIGH COST.

Back of the name of Sandow Trucks is the ability to deliver on a 100% basis of performance, reliability, and proper operating cost.

Continental Red Seal Motor, Timken Rear Axle, Brown-Lipe transmission, Pressed Steel Frame, Bosch Magneto Ignition. If you are looking at any truck with these specifications, you are looking at a Sandow, minus the big constructional features that have made Sandow supreme in real service value, wherever motor trucks are used.

The Four Sandow Features

That add to the hauling capacity and subtract from hauling costs.

Motor Rocker Block

Prevents broken motor legs and cracked crank cases—saves hundreds of dollars in repair costs.

Quick Motor Remover

Saves costly tie-ups in service by permitting removal of motor in less than one hour without taking down dash or motor.

Power Increases

Saves on Fuel Costs and increases tonnage capacities by adding to the power of the motor.

Safety Starter

Saves costs of employer's liability suits, protects drivers by eliminating broken arms, crushed skulls and other injuries in cranking the motor.

When you can get these features in other motor trucks there may be some reason for looking at other than the Sandow—but now, while you are thinking of buying, they are to be had only in the Sandow.

GRAIN CROP HAULING BY TRUCK PAID

To handle the enormous grain crop of last year, California farmers called into service the greatest number of motor trucks that have ever been used in the state. And not only was the work greatly facilitated by the use of motor transportation, but cost of hauling was cut. For instance, grain never possible with the use of teams.

A typical case was that of A. H. Johnson, who leases several thousand acres near Corcoran, on what was formerly the bed of Tulare Lake.

With a single pair of bullocks, he saved money, purchased other tractors and then a caterpillar tractor. He bought more tractors, and finally leased the land.

Drainage has transformed the former lake bed into broad and rich grain fields. Large land companies have dug canals and built dikes to control the flood waters of four rivers that flow into the section from the

When he leased the land Johnson found that it had one drawback: he was unable to get onto his fields early enough to use horses or mules in plowing. The earth was covered with four or five inches of dry crust, beneath which was a depth of oozy mud, which would bog down a horse when plowing, after the crust had been broken by the first furrow. As it was necessary for at least one horse to travel in the furrow in making the second round, plowing with horses was not only impractical; it was impossible.

But Johnson solved the problem with his caterpillar tractor, which could keep on the crust and out of the furrow.

To haul the wheat to the warehouse, Johnson originally used eighty mules—eight teams.

Now to the left when overhauling roads of California with care and dispatch. These motor transport-

DOBBIN DAY IN HAULING HAS PASSED

With the passing of the horse-drawn and mule-drawn teams, it is during that motor trucks should carry their loads over the roads of California with care and dispatch. These motor transport-tion units are making history in front of us and few do not yet realize it.

"Motor trucks, especially the light, fast machines, are coming into their own now," points out H. G. Markham of Markham & Pursey, distributors of Oldsmobile cars and trucks here. "Trucks, light, speedy, and efficient, are replacing horses in all lines of work. Data compiled by experts proves that the light truck is in far greater demand than the heavy machine. The reason is that the light truck can go long distances with capacity loads and make more frequent trips."

A little over a year ago the Oldsmobile Works of Lansing started building Oldsmobile trucks, noting that since the factory had combined its efforts to building passenger cars

"That 'quintessential feeling' comes when you sit in your own machine and a lower-priced car at the other end of your timeline pulls you out of the mud."

TRUCK FOOD TO SUPPLY TWO CITIES

Thousands of San Diego people served by thirty-six butcher shops of that city are dependent for their daily supply of meat upon motor trucks, stability and dependability.

For their solid daily ration, of fresh meat, delivered in a minimum of time, they look to the change of drivers and less than a half hour of powerful trucks operated in the city.

between Los Angeles and San Diego by the Boulevard Express. So far as known this is the longest distance covered by any motor truck, hauling this class of perishable goods.

MORELAND TRUCKS.
In this service the Boulevard Express uses one 4-ton and five 2½-ton Moreland trucks. The 2½-ton truck is loaded at the wholesale meat house in Los Angeles daily, except Sunday, with up to four tons of meat. It leaves the Los Angeles Terminal at 11:30 p. m. for San Diego and arrives at 4 a. m., covering an average of 140 miles to the trip. It is loaded the next day with fish and returns to Los Angeles.

This truck is said to have run over 100,000 miles.

Leonard Hatton, member of the Don Lee sales staff leaves for his old home in Merry England early in May. He plans to be abroad for several months but intends to return again to Oakland.

Some of the more unkind members of the Lee staff claim he is going back because London is still in the "wet" region, but Hatton avers that the only purpose of the jaunt is to visit relatives.

figures the other trucks to have done about 65 per cent as well, which he considers a remarkable showing. The company started in to haul nothing but perishable goods, but is now carrying anything in the line of freight and express, including recently the baggage for the Hippodrome Company, which is shipped to San Diego in record time.

Transportation Costs

Depend somewhat on the cost of gasoline and oil. The tendency of these commodities is to increase in price. You can offset this additional expense by a careful initial investment. A Ford one-ton truck equipped with the frame and slip-joint drive makes a one and one-half-ton capacity truck with a lengthened frame and wheelbase, and which will accommodate a body up to 132 inches in length.

These trucks are now being successfully operated by industrial concerns, in express service, on the ranch and in many other lines.

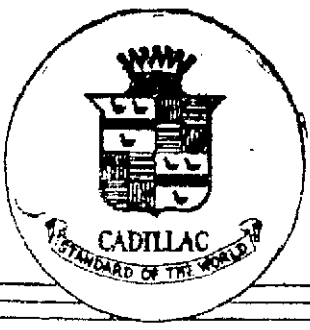

Commercial bodies for all Ford chassis are now on display in our salesrooms. They are built in California, and made for California service.

Goodyear Cords Relieve Wear and Tear Says F. W. Diehl

"We have been operating Goodyear Cord Truck Tires for the past eight months and find them much better than solids."

"These tires relieve the truck from wear and tear, increase the daily radius of the truck, increase traction, and reduce gas and oil bills."

FRED W. DIEHL COMPANY."

F. W. Diehl has found Goodyear Cords result in a reduction in trucking costs.

It is very easy for Mr. Diehl to appreciate the cushioning ability of these tires as his truck operates throughout the commission section of Oakland.

And, in spite of these rough streets, the truck rides with the comparative ease of a touring car.

Then, too, F. W. Diehl states that the pneumatic tires increase the daily average speed of his truck.

He also finds that due to the superior traction obtained, his gasoline and oil bills are noticeably decreased.

Do your truck tires prove a saving, or are they a great expense?

The Service Station below carries a type of tire suitable for all kinds of hauling conditions.

Either Goodyear Solids, Cushions or Pneumatics will prove a savings on your truck. The Service Station can tell you which type you need.
